INDEX TO ILLUSTRATIONS

PAGE 8-82 = History of Rockford 1834 on. Pioneers, Businesses, Churches, Pictures ETC...

PAGE 83-172 = Biographies with Pictures.

ROCKFORD TO-DAY

Historical, Descriptive, Biographical

ILLUSTRATED

PUBLISHED BY

THE ROCKFORD MORNING STAR

ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS

THE CLARK COMPANY PRESS

1903

1903
|
|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Acquisitions of 1856... | 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 | Brown, Andrew | 59 | Church, Samuel | 46 |
| Act Establishing Public Library... | 44 | Brown, Horace | 94, 95 | Church School | 55 |
| African M. E. Church and Roster... | 73 | Brown, Hon. E. W. | 96, 97 | City Hotel | 60 |
| Allen, David D... | 23, 24 | Brown, Hon. J. Stanley | 170, 171 | Clark, James | 64 |
| Allen, Frank... | 23 | Brown's House... | 59 | Clark, Dr. D. S. | 44, 51, 53 |
| Allen, Gordon S... | 46 | Broughton, Russell M. D... | 76, 77, 78, 79, 101 | Clark, Dr. E. J. | 51 |
| Allen, J. E... | 51, 54 | Bryn, R. J. | 131 | Clark, Dr. E. J. | 51 |
| Alexander, John... | 157, 158 | Buildings in 1858... | 24 | Clarke, Theo. W. Co. | 172 |
| American Home... | 69, 60 | Bundy & Goodness... | 24 | Clarke, William | 157 |
| Arms, Miss Arabelle... | 9 | Burbeck, Frank... | 51 | Coleman, John S. | 38 |
| Ardell... | 155, 156 | Burns, Francis... | 36 | Collier, Alex... | 134 |
| Anderson, Peter T... | 165 | Burns, Rev. Jacob... | 36 | Collins, George... | 113 |
| Andrews, C.N... | 26 | Burton, William W. | 109, 109 | Comings, Dr. A. F. | 51 |
| Andrews, Charles... | 113, 114 | Butterworth, Thomas... | 52 | Commercial House | 60 |
| Andrus, Hon. Henry... | 57, 101, 102 | Butterworth, Chester... | 53 | Compton, H. | 50 |
| Arvida... | 51 | Calkins, Dr. F. W. | 51 | Cock & Brother... | 22 |
| Artz, Dr. S. C... | 42 | Campbell, Abel... | 12 | Cook, W. H... | 46, 59, 153, 154 |
| Astin... | 24 | Carey, Miss... | 11 | Conrad, P. A. | 49 |
| Austin, Dr. S. A... | 91, 52, 53 | Carey, Phina... | 12 | Corey, Lova... | 12 |
| Austin, W. W... | 169 | Cattell, Ingalls... | 90 | Corey, Alonson... | 12 |
| Bailey... | 85, 86 | Cattell, David... | 161 | Corey, Jonathan... | 12 |
| Baker, Hon. Rufus C... | 85, 86 | Carnegie, Andrew... | 44, 45, 46 | Corey, Samuel... | 24 |
| Baker, Hon. Edward H... | 85, 86 | Carpenter, H. W. | 52 | Court Street M. E. Church and Roster... | 66 |
| Baker, Ira W... | 38 | Carr, G. V. | 49 | Cooper, Elia... | 43, 44 |
| Bale... | 117 | Can, James... | 58, 121 | Countryman, Alfred... | 49 |
| Baldwin... | 165 | Cash, James... | 81 | Cox, Dr. R. E... | 51 |
| Banks, A. W... | 150, 151 | Cash, Valentine... | 38 | Craig, James... | 8 |
| Barbour... | 45, 55 | Carr, Geo. W. | 52 | Crawford, Newton P. | 26 |
| Bargren... | 49, 50 | Catron, John... | 12 | Crawford, Samuel P... | 41, 47, 49, 51 |
| Barker... | 49 | Cattell, Dr. E. P... | 51, 141 | Crockett, Dr. W. W... | 51 |
| Barnes, William... | 124 | Cattell, Dr. A. M... | 51 | Cross, Robert J... | 18 |
| Barham, David W... | 57 | Cattell, Dr. S. R... | 51 | Cotty, William... | 53, 123, 124 |
| Barham, Harry... | 40 | Cathen, John... | 12 | Culhane, Dr. T. H... | 51 |
| Barham, Daniel... | 40 | Cavenagh, Charles... | 46, 50 | Cunningham, Isaac Newton... | 16, 38 |
| Barham, Ezra... | 12 | Cavenagh, John... | 50 | Cunningham, Samuel... | 38 |
| Barham, Anson... | 12, 24, 25 | Central Christian Church and Roster... | 23 | Cunningham, William... | 39 |
| Bates, Mrs. Anna M... | 53 | Chambers, James... | 46 | Cunningham, Benjamin Franklin... | 38 |
| Bartlett, Mrs. Edgar E... | 38 | Chandler, D. C... | 50 | | |
| Bartlett, Edgar E... | 97 | Chapel... | 62 | Dame, James... | 49 |
| Bartlett, Edgar E... | 170 | Chaplin, John P... | 24 | Damon, Summer... | 26 |
| Bartlett, M. A... | 46 | Chaplin, Roscoe E... | 171, 172 | Daniele, F. A... | 50 |
| Bartlett, A. C... | 125, 126 | Chamberlain, Prof... | 42 | Dankey, Mrs. P. W... | 23 |
| Bean, Mrs. Clarence... | 10 | Charles, Elijah... | 43 | Dankey, Mrs. Almeda M... | 22 |
| Beattie... | 23, 61 | Chicago & Iowa Railroad... | 61 | Davis, Jeremiah... | 52, 116, 117 |
| Beattie, Edward W... | 23 | Beattie, Mrs. William... | 41 | Dewey, W. P... | 26, 49 |
| Beattie, George D... | 23 | Beattie, Mary L... | 23 | Dickerman, Wheeler & Co... | 22 |
| Beattie, Anna... | 23 | Bedwell & Herrick... | 38 | Dickerman, W. A... | 26 |
| Belden, Daniel... | 12 | Beers... | 12 | Beekman, Orander C... | 55 |
| Beers... | 12 | Black, Mrs. Mary Irby... | 10 | Beissel, Elijah Whitfill... | 119, 120, 121 |
| Beissel, Joseph... | 126, 127 | Bloom, Nicholas & Co... | 19 | Beissel, Thatcher... | 9, 12, 26, 35 |
| Berrigan, Mrs. Caroline A... | 38 | Bielek, J. H... | 55 | Bilek, Phot... | 25 |
| Bilek... | 25 | Bond, Nathan... | 12 | Bond, Nathan... | 12 |
| Bosewell... | 12, 24 | Boswell, James... | 12, 24 | Boswell, James... | 12, 24 |
| Boswell, John A... | 57 | Bowman, Mary Frances... | 54 | Bowman, John A... | 57 |
| Bradford, Mrs Frances... | 54 | Bradley, F. M... | 43 | Bradford, Mayes Frances... | 54 |
| Bradly, Thomas... | 21 | Bradley & Carpenter... | 46, 58 | Bradley & Carpenter... | 46, 58 |
| Brace, Mrs. Caroline A... | 38 | Braverly... | 125, 126 | Brace, A. C... | 125, 126 |
| Bredar, Mrs. Carrie S... | 38 | Briggs, Spafford & Penfield... | 38 | Briggs, Spafford & Penfield... | 38 |
| Bricknerhoff, George W... | 49 | Brinkerhoff, George W... | 49 | Brinkerhoff, George W... | 49 |
| Bremis... | 26 | Bremis, Mrs. Caroline A... | 38 | Bremis, Mrs. Caroline A... | 38 |
| Broderick, James... | 12 | Broderick, James... | 12 | Broderick, James... | 12 |
| Broman, Mayes G... | 36 | Broman, Marye G... | 36 | Broman, Mayes G... | 36 |
| Brooke, Mrs. W.W... | 41 | Brooke, Major General... | 36 | Brooke, Mrs. W.W... | 41 |
| Brown, Thomas C... | 21 | Brown, Judge William... | 41, 52, 53 | Brown, Judge William... | 41, 52, 53 |
| Brown, Miss Eunice... | 54 | Brown, Miss Eunice... | 54 | Brown, Miss Eunice... | 54 |
| Brown, Samuel... | 46 | Brown School... | 55 | Brown School... | 55 |
| Brown, Mrs. S. | 124 | Brown, Mrs. S. | 124 | Brown, Mrs. S. | 124 |
| Brown, Mrs. S. | 53 | Brown, Miss Alma M... | 53 | Brown, Miss Alma M... | 53 |
| Brown, Mrs. S. | 54 | Brown, Mrs. S. | 54 | Brown, Mrs. S. | 54 |
FOREWORD

"And he gave it for his opinion that whoever could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind."

Dean Swift.

I

In the making of a volume which would convey accurate biographies and faithful likenesses of those who have contributed their genius and energy toward Rockford's great progress, the publishers acknowledge the co-operation of many citizens, reference to Church's History of Rockford, work of review and compilation by W. W. Austin.

ROCKFORD TODAY

GERMANICUS KENT is entitled to the distinction of being the founder of this, today, beautiful "Forest City," of the west.

Mr. Kent was born in Suffield, Connecticut, May 31, 1803, and inherited those sterling qualities, which were characteristic of the early English colonies in the "New World." He acquired a practical business education and for some years was engaged in mercantile pursuits at Blackburg, Virginia, and at Huntsville, Alabama. He was married to Miss Arabella Adams, at Blackburg, Virginia, June 7, 1827. The business interests of Mr. Kent being in the south and having married a southern woman, he doubtless acquiesced in the social institutions of that section, as it is known that he owned slaves and brought one with him to his western home. A brother, Rev. Aratus Kent, was located as a missionary at Galena, Illinois, a mining town of considerable note at that time, and Mr. Kent made it his objective point in seeking a new location, where he hoped to better his financial interests.

Upon arriving in Galena, he made the acquaintance of Thatcher Blake, who was also in quest of a desirable location. Mr. Blake was born in Oxford County, Maine, March 16, 1809, where he resided until 1834, when he went as far west as St. Louis. There he learned of the thriving mining town of Galena, and immediately made his way there. As soon as definite plans could be matured, Mr. Kent and Mr. Blake joined interests and started out across the virgin prairies and through the virgin forests of Illinois in quest of a favorable spot where they might make a home and acquire a fortune.

After a thorough inspection of the Greenstone and Rock River valleys they finally determined to locate upon the banks of Rock River, the present site of the city of Rockford.

It was on a quiet Sunday afternoon in the month of August and on the 24th day of the month, that these pioneers arrived at their destination. In the party were Messrs. Kent, Blake, Evans, and another man whose name is unknown. Mr. Kent gave employment and wages to those who came with him and immediately commenced the building of a log cabin, which was located on the west bank of the river, near Kent's creek and on the Kent claim. Another log cabin was built on a claim located by Mr. Blake.

As the season for agricultural work had passed when they arrived, their attention was given to making improvements. During the fall of that year, Mr. Kent built a second and more pretentious home, into which he brought his family from Galena, in May, 1835.

Mr. Kent secured workmen from Galena and with their aid constructed a dam in Kent's creek and a saw mill upon its banks. The timber for the mill was cut near by and the material for the dam was found in the immediate vicinity. He also, carried on a merchandising business and supplied his neighbors with goods on credit. The following January the dam was swept away by the ice and high water. In the early spring, work was begun on the digging of a race and the construction of a new dam. The task was completed in July. This dam occasioned the overrunning of so much land, that it was removed several years later. Mr. Kent had invested his money in labor, improvements, and merchandizing, but, as yet, had been able to get but little return, so that the financial crash of 1837 left him in distress and without prospects of future success. He surrendered his property for the benefit of his creditors, and in 1844 returned, with his family, to Virginia, where, after engaging in business at various places, he died, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Irby Black, in Blackshurg, in March, 1862. Mr. Blake cultivated his farm until 1851, when he removed to the city and engaged in the real estate business, and in this connection handled large areas of timber land in Wisconsin. He died October 8, 1880. Mrs. Blake died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Bean, in this city.

Could Germanicus Kent look out today upon the spot where his early struggles returned nothing but bitter disappointment, he would see a picture, the beauty of which would richly repay him for all the sorrow and sadness occasioned by his failure, and his soul would rest in peace. His name will be honored and his memory perpetuated, by the successive generations that follow, so long as water shall flow in Kent’s creek and the memory endure in the Kent school.

MEMORIAL HALL

WINNEBAGO COUNTY COURT HOUSE

FIRST SETTLER ON THE EAST SIDE.

On April 9, 1835, Daniel Shaw Haight, accompanied by several other men, arrived on the east bank of the river, in quest of a desirable location for settlement. This locality is now called East Rockford.

Mr. Haight was from Bolton, Warren County, New York, and had made a claim near Geneva, in Kane County, Illinois. He sold this claim before selecting one on Rock River. His first house stood on the northeast corner of State and Madison streets. He brought his wife and one child, Miss Carey; his wife’s sister, and a hired man from Geneva to his new home, in May. Thus Mrs. Mary Haight and her sister, Miss Carey, were the first white women to settle in Winnebago County. Mrs. Kent arriving a few weeks later, on the West Side.

As one drives over the smoothly paved streets, traverses the concrete walks, rides through the principal streets in a car, propelled by an electric current, over ribs of steel, places a little instrument to his ear and talks with friends near or remote as though they were sitting side by side, looks at the fine buildings blocks and imposing public buildings, the beautiful residences, and public parks, listens to the constant throb and beat of the machinery in hundreds of manufacturing concerns, mingles in the throes of thousands of happy, prosperous people in the business streets, rides in a horseless carriage, reads the news from all parts of the world, fresh from the daily presses of the city, it is difficult to realize, that, less than three score and ten years ago this part of Illinois was but a trackless wilderness of grass, flowers, and forest trees, where the birds made the morning with their sweet melodies and the native wild animals roamed at will.

The beautiful homes and luxuries of living enjoyed by the people of Rockford today are only the legitimate outgrowths of the labors and indomitable energies of the pioneers.

GROWTH OF THE FOREST CITY
IN 1835.

The first public religious service in Rockford was held at the home of Germanicus Klint, in June, 1835, by the Rev. Aratus Kent, at which the entire community was present, making an audience of ten people.

Among the settlers of 1834, not yet referred to, may be mentioned Thatcher Blake, Albert Sanford and Mr. Van Zant. In 1835 several people from the south and east were added to the colony. Among these were John Wood, James D. Martyn and James Bostwell. Close following these were Elijah Gregory, who died in 1876, Samuel Gregory, who died in New York in 1865, and Ephraim Wyman, after whom a street is named, and who died in 1893.

Levi Moulthrop, M. D., who has the distinction of being the first physician to locate in Winnebago County, arrived in 1833. He married Miss Margaret George, June 30, 1840 and died September 12, of the same year.

Richard Montague came in 1835 and died in 1879. He has memorials in the name of one of the city schools and streets. Adam Keith, after whom Keith's creek is named, arrived during this year. He died in Nebraska in 1833.

William E. Dunbar was one of the county organizers and served as county recorder from 1839 to 1843. He died in 1847.

P. P. Churchill was a farmer, near town. He died in 1850.

Among the arrivals of 1835 may be mentioned, also, the names John Vance, John Coton, Joseph Jolly, Charles Hall, Lewis Halsna, Milton Kilburn, William Smith, Luke Jouflin, Israel Merrill, E. A. Spaulding, Levi Corey, Alonzo Corey, Abel Canfield, Ezra Barnum, Andrew Barnum, James Taylor, William H. Hollebeck, V. M. Carter, Joseph P. Sanford, Jonathan Corey, Daniel Ehrle, Mason Tuttle, Mr. Noble, Squire Cawser, Gaylord Perry, Norton, Phineas Corey, Jefferson Garner, Nathan Bond, Charles J. Fox and James Broadwell. Thus it will be seen that the population of Rockford was considerably increased during the second year of its history.

ACQUISITIONS OF 1836.

During the year 1836, the colony was enlarged by the arrival of a number of pioneers, who became important factors in the material welfare of the new town. Among them was Thomas Lake, who came from the county of Somerset, England, and landed in New York in 1832, after a voyage of fifty-two days. He arrived in Chicago in October 1835, and came to Rockford the following spring, bringing with him an old acquaintance, Sidney Twogood. Mr. Lake made a claim to a farm and the two men worked at the carpenter trade. Mr. Lake died in Oxford in 1856.

Herman B. Potter, a native of Connecticut, arrived in October and bought a farm, as was the practice of many of the early settlers, on what is now the Kishwaukee road. Later he moved to town and built a house where the First Congregational church now stands. Mr. Potter served as a member of the county commissioners' court, and was one of Rockford's prominent citizens. He died in Galena, Illinois, in 1850.

Selden M. Church was born in East Haddam, Connecticut, March 4, 1804, and came to Chicago by team, in 1835, and arrived in Rockford in the fall of 1836. Mr. Church immediately became one of the most prominent and helpful of Rockford's citizens. He contributed largely to the business interests of the town. He served as postmaster, county clerk and county judge, retaining the latter office for a term of eight years. In 1847 he was a delegate to the State Constitutional Convention. He was a settler to Rockford in the fall of 1836. They established a home on what is now known as the Hosman block, where they were joined, a little later, by their daughter, who had constructed a romantic marriage with Charles I. Hosman, while attending school at the Charleston Seminary. Mr. and Mrs. Hosman retained possession of this property the remainder of their days.
ROCKFORD

NELSON HOTEL

member of the legislature in 1862, a member of the State Board of Charities in 1858, and a government commissioner to locate a bridge at Rock Island. After a residence in Rockford of fifty-six years, accomplishing much for the best interests of those who inherited the fruits of his labor, Judge Church passed away in 1892.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Morgan were of New England extraction and came from Massachu-

WM. BROWN BUILDING

Sampson George arrived in Rockford from England in September and acquired a large tract of land, but lived only five weeks to enjoy the country of his adoption. He died in his new home and his remains now rest in the west side cemetery.

Dr. Charles Henry Richings was born in England, February 26, 1815, and received his medical education in Belgium. He was the second physician to locate in Rockford, where he enjoyed a large practice. He died August 13, 1864, but his memory, as a citizen and a physician, is perpetuated in the name and practice of his son, Dr. Henry Pitts, who is now a well-known resident physician.

Hiram R. Enoch was a native of Ohio, and while a resident of Rockford was elected to the Joseph Posson came from New York and lived on a farm east of town for four years. He moved to Rockford in 1842 where he died of injuries received while building a cooper shop on the corner of Second and Madison streets the same year. His son, H. A. Posson, is one of the oldest living residents of Rockford township.

which affords a practical lesson in the history of the city.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COUNTY—1836

A history of the City of Rockford, would not be complete without reference being made to the organization of the County of Winnebago and the location of the county seat, as much of the importance of the city is due to the fact that it has the honor of containing this location.

David S. Shumway was a native of Vermont. He settled on a farm in New Milford, where he reared a large family. His son, Roland H. Shumway, Sr., is the well known secessionist, who has acquired a fortune in this business.

The names of many of the early settlers are made familiar to the present generation by their being given to our public buildings and streets.

Whatever a new settlement was made in the new territory, local government was essential to the permanency and success of the colony. The attention of the state legislature, which was in session at Vandalia, was called to this matter in 1836. At this time, Cook, LaSalle, and Jo Daviess counties extended from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi river. Out of this vast territory, eight counties have been formed.

On the 16th of January, 1836, the state legislature approved an act providing for the organization east of the third principal meridian being taken from LaSalle and that west of this meridian from Jo Daviess. The northern and southern boundaries of Winnebago County remain as at first outlined. This act of the legislature also directed that an election should be held at the house of Germanic Kent on the first Monday in May for the purpose of electing a sheriff, coroner, recorder, surveyor and three county commissioners, who should hold their offices until the next succeeding general election and until their
The report of the special commissioners was rejected by the county commissioners upon good and sufficient grounds, and it was ordered that the circuit and county commissioners courts should be held at the house of Daniel S. Haight, until the matter of location be determined by the people. This contention between Bolivar & Co., and the county commissioners as to the location of the county seat was continued for a period of several years and led to an enactment by the state legislature, approved March 2, 1839, substituting the question to a popular vote and providing that an election for this purpose should be held on the first Monday in May, 1839.

Charles Reed had been the moving spirit in the interests of Bolivar & Co., in the effort to locate the seat of justice at Winnebago, the point referred to as up the river. He was a shrewd business manager, but as the results of the election will show, was doomed to disappointment. The law provided that if a majority of one hundred of the votes cast should be in favor of Winnebago, that town should remain the permanent county seat. At the election six towns were in the race for county seat honors, of which Rockford received three hundred and twenty votes; Winnebago, seventy-five; Roscoe, two; Wills, twenty-five; Pecatonica, one; and Scipio one, out of a total of four hundred and four. Rockford having received a majority of two hundred and thirty-six votes carried off the victory and secured the plum upon which it has since fattened to rotund proportions.

Winnebago lost its prestige and gradually declined, until in 1847 its plat was vacated by special act of the state legislature, and Charles Reed, its promoter, removed to Rockton, where he died August 26, 1853.

Pursuant to the result of the election in favor of Rockford, the county commissioners, on June 11, 1839, selected the public square on the west side of the river as the site for the location of the court house. Considerable material was donated and placed upon the ground for this building, but the work of construction was delayed for the want of funds. On September 28, 1841, a proposition was made to the county commissioners by a number of West Side residents, to furnish suitable quarters for the county offices and a jail in West Rockford. This proposition was accepted by the commissioners, conditioned upon the execution of a bond for $1,000 for the faithful performance of these undertakings.

On December 11th the building for the use of the county offices was reported to be ready for occupancy. It was located on the ground now occupied by the Mel's block on South Main street. The donors were given five months in which to complete the jail. This was a log structure and was located on the east side of the present court house square.

It would seem that now the location of the county seat was definitely settled, but that was not the fact. The contention was started by those interested in the Winnebago site, as to the
Rockford

Legality of the May, 1839, election. The point at issue was, whether the law authorized an election to select a site for the seat of justice or simply for its removal.

The county commissioners, at their meeting in September, 1841, each expressed a different opinion in relation to the matter, thus creating a dead-lock, so that nothing was definitely settled.

In April, 1843, Daniel L. Haight and others submitted a proposition to the county commissioners, to build a court house and jail on the site upon which the buildings were to be placed.

This proposition was accepted with the following conditions, viz.: good and sufficient security in the sum of $20,000 within twenty days, the buildings to be worth not less than $5,000, to make a written contract to erect the buildings proposed, and this contract to be placed in the hands of the clerk within three days after its approval. These conditions were all complied with. The commissioners designated block twenty-five in West Rockford, as the place for the erection of the buildings.

After a contention of seven years the county seat had been permanently located in Rockford, on the west side of the river.

The brick jail was completed and occupied January 1, 1844. The wooden court house was completed and accepted by the commissioners in July. The buildings were furnished by the people of West Rockford, without expense to the county.

The first term of court was held in August, 1844. The presiding judge was Thomas C. Brown, James Mitchell was the clerk, and O. A. Sanford sheriff.

Settlers of 1837.

As in previous years, Rockford enjoyed the acquisition of a class of people to its citizenship during 1837 that constituted a valuable element in the development of its future possibilities. It may be said that Rockford was exceedingly fortunate in its early days in being selected as the place of residence of so large a number of liberal minded and public spirited men, who exerted their energies and expended their means.

Residence of E. H. Sumner

On May 10, 1842, the commissioners asked the written opinion of the county attorneys as to the effect of the popular vote of 1839. The unanimous opinion of the bar was to the effect that the county seat had been changed from Winnebago to Rockford, in accordance with the evident intent of the law.

At the session of the commissioners' court in July, 1842, the judges of the election in the several precincts were authorized to take the East side to cost $4,000. This proposition could not then be accepted. A few days later West side citizens submitted a similar proposition, agreeing to erect such buildings as the commissioners might determine necessary, and for which they would submit plans and to begin their construction before the first day of the following June, and to complete them before the first day of January, 1844. The donors were to deed to the county two and one-half acres of East State Street, looking west in the permanent building of their home town. Progress in the development of those features that embellish and adorn a beautiful city kept pace with the increase of population. Shade trees were planted, parks were established and the log cabins were replaced by more comfortable and pretentious buildings. During this year the first lawyer of the town, John C. Kemble, opened an office on South Madison street in connection with Dr. Goodrich. Mr. Kemble was a man of much ability and had been a member of the general assembly of New York. Ex-Governor Marcy and wife of New York, were guests at the Kemble home during the summer. Mr. Kemble lost his reason, and was taken to an eastern asylum, where he died in 1840. He had two sons, one of whom died in Italy and the other established the California Star, the first English newspaper in San Francisco.

John Lake was born March 27, 1821, in Salisbury, Prince's County, Connecticut, and upon his arrival in Rockford formed a partnership with Samuel D. Preston and engaged in business. He was prominent in church and educational interests, and was one of Rockford's early bankers. He built the house now occupied by the Rev. Mead Holmes, and later the site residence now occupied by Rev. Geo. W. Woodruff. Mr. Potter died September 1, 1851. Mrs. William Lathrop is a daughter, and Commodore Potter, of Belvidere, is a son.

- Nathaniel Wilder was born in Lancaster, Mass., June 30, 1794, and came to Rockford in March, 1837. He carried on the business of blacksmithing for twenty-five years, and became the owner of considerable property. He died July 11, 1864, aged ninety years.

- Godfrey Asa Sanford was born in Hamden, Connecticut, in 1814, and came to Rockford in 1837. He was engaged in mercantile business and was prominent in social and political affairs. He served as sheriff of the county and held the office of county school commissioner. He was a member of the banking firm of Dickerman, Wheeler & Co., which was organized January 1, 1853. In 1856 the firm name was changed to Lane, Sanford & Co. A reorganization took place in 1864, when the Second National Bank was established with Mr. Sanford as cashier. He was afterward elected to the presidency of the bank, in which capacity he served until his death in 1894. The failure of this bank occurred in 1896, and H. H. Walden was appointed to the receivership. The liquidation was completed in 1900, when all claims were practically settled in full.

David D. Alling was born at Westfield, Connecticut, April 27, 1813 and came to Rockford in October, 1837. He was a carpenter by trade and built the old First Congregational church, on the West side. During a residence of sixty-one years in Rockford, he was a contractor and builder and acquired considerable valuable property. He died August 1, 1898. Frank Alling and Mrs. P. W. Danley are his children.

John Beattie was one of the first immigrants from Ireland to this section of Illinois. He was of Scotch ancestry and was born in Ireland June 21, 1811. He was a carpenter by trade and built the old court house. He acquired valuable real estate in the city, which now belongs to the Beattie estate. Two sons, Edward W. and George D., reside in Montana, and two daughters, Mary I., and Anna in this city. Mr. Beattie died December 3, 1889.

Benjamin Kilburn was born in Belchertown, Massachusetts, August 8, 1808. He built a house on the site of the Nelson House where it remained until 1891. He afterward purchased a quarter section of land, in the northwest part of the Rockford, Illinois Historic District. He was a naturalist and an artist, and left many drawings and sketches of the town, upon which the stone quarry, now operated by his son-in-law, T. W. Carrico, is located. Kilburn avenue is named in his honor. Mr. Kilburn died in 1860.

- John Miller, the second resident lawyer, arrived during this year. He was a popular orator and took an active part as a Whig in the campaign of 1840.

- There were probably a score of other arrivals during the year, among whom might be men-

The late Judge Selden M. Church is authority for the statement that the total population of the county in June, 1837, was 1,088.

BUILDINGS IN 1838.

Sixty-seven years ago there were only four buildings north of State street in West Rockford: the ferry house on the site of the public library (not the Carnegie building); Abraham Morgan's log house, now the site of the Houseman residence; a log cable on the river bank, north of the ferryhouse; and a board house near the site of the A. D. Forbes residence.

South of State street there were quite a number of cabins, among which was a log house near the corner of State and Maple streets; D. A. Allen's house in block one, south of State street; a house on the corner of Madison and another on the corner north of the Northwestern depot; Benjamin Kilburn's house: on site of the Nelson House; Kent's house and mill near Kent's creek and W. E. Dunbar's house: south of the creek.

On the east side of the river were a greater number of buildings, among them, the Rockford House, the only hotel between Belvidere and Freeport; Bundy & Goodhue's store on the corner of State and Madison streets; south of this was the Haight building, which contained the post office; Potter & Preston's store stood on the corner of State and Madison streets; east of Potter & Preston's store was the foundation of the Washington House, Daniel Haight's house and Worthington & Searle's drug store. East of the alley on State street was Samuel Little's saloon, the first in Rockford; Samuel Corey's house, William Penfield's blacksmith shop and Dr. Daniel Goodrich's house, in the rear of which was a log schoolhouse. A. E. Barnum's log house, on the site of the car barns, and the houses of John Phelps, John C. Kemble, James Clark, Thomas Lake, Sidney Twogood, John Vance, James Bowell and Jacob Passey.

The Winnebago House was built in 1838 by Dr. Haskell, on the site of Andrew Ashton's store. This was the first brick store built north of Rock Island, on Rock river. The building was first used as a store and later converted into a hotel.

CHRISTENING AND INCORPORATION OF THE VILLAGE.

"What's in a name," is as applicable to a town or city as to an individual. Possibly less significance is attached to the names of towns derived from individuals than from any other source. There is no particular significance in the names Smithville, Jonesville or Brownville, further than the fact that Smith, Jones or Brown was the first settler who perpetuated his name in that of the town. The name Rockford is unique and attractive, when compared with that of Kenilworth or Haughtville if a name of a first settler had been perpetuated in the name of the town.

The first suggestion of a name was made by Mrs. Kent, which was Midway, as the town was midway between Chicago and Galena, but what significance would there be in the name today? This name was recognized for several years and what little mail found its way to this community was addressed to "Midway, Rock River, Jo Daviess County, Illinois".

Under date of October 17, 1837, Mr. Kent writes a letter from Rockford, Illinois:

"It is not fully certain as to who proposed this name or when, but doubtless the first semi-official action was taken by Daniel S. Haight, Germanus Kent, William H. Gilman of Belvidere, John P. Chapin and Ebenezer Pock of Chicago, and Stephen Edgel of St. Louis, who met in the office of Dr. Goodhue, on Lake street, in Chicago, on business connected with their mill privilege located at this place. It is said that Dr. Goodhue proposed the name Rockford, in account of the rock-bottom ford in the river at this point. At least, these gentlemen unanimously adopted this name at this time, which was in the year 1835.

The general law of 1831, made provision for the incorporation of towns in the state that had a population of not less than one hundred and fifty white males over twenty-one years of age. In 1839, the people of Rockford knew that it would be to the advantage of the community to take the benefit of this act. Accordingly notices were posted, calling a meeting of citizens at the Rockford House, on April 1, 1839. At this meeting David Goodrich was chosen chairman and James Mitchell clerk. It was resolved that the two villages of Rockford, east and west sides of Rock river, be incorporated into one town. Committees were appointed to ascertain the number of inhabitants, to draft an act of incorporation and to confer with Mr. Brinkerhoff in relation to free ferriage for the people of the county. An adjourned meeting was held April 3d, but no business was transacted. A second adjourned meeting was held on the evening of the 4th inst., at which the reports of the committees were submitted. The census committee reported the population to be 235. The committee to draft an act of incorporation presented an acceptable document, and the committee to confer with the
ROCKFORD

An ordinance was passed creating the following city officers: clerk of the council, attorney, treasurer, marshal, assessor, collector, engineer and two street commissioners. These officers were to be appointed annually by the city council, at its first regular meeting after the first annual municipal election. At the second session of the council, held May 1, the following city officers were appointed: William Lathrop, attorney; Hiram R. Maynard, treasurer; Duncan Ferguson, assessor; K. H. Milliken, collector; Duncan Ferguson, city engineer; Thatcher Blake and William McKenney, street commissioners.

A special act of the legislature, of June 16, 1852, authorized the city to issue bonds, not exceeding $10,000 in amount, with which to build a bridge across the river. This sum not being sufficient, a second act was passed February 3, 1853, authorizing the issue of $15,000 in bonds, and the first act was repealed. From the sale of these bonds a covered bridge was built in 1854.

There being some technical irregularity in the incorporation of the city, a special act of the legislature was passed and approved February 8, 1853, legalizing the previous official acts of the mayor and council.

A special charter was granted to the city, by the legislature, March 4, 1854, and the general law of 1849 was declared to be no longer in force, so far as Rockford was concerned, except for the completion of matters already begun under the old law.

This charter was amended February 14, 1855, April 26, 1859 and February 22, 1861.

1855. Mayor, Edward Vaughn; Aldermen, first ward, P. B. Crosby; second ward, Jason Marsh; third ward, Henry Fisher; fourth ward, Newton Crawford; fifth ward, John P. Manny; City Clerk, W. S. Stanley; City Attorney, L. F. Warner; City Treasurer, B. G. Wheelock; Police Marshal, John Travis.

1856. Mayor, James L. Love; Aldermen, first ward, P. B. Crosby; second ward, P. Howard; third ward, T. D. Roberson; fourth ward, Isaac Andrews; fifth ward, J. G. Manlove; City Clerk, H. H. Hatch; City Attorney, Orvith Miller, Jr.; City Treasurer, G. A. Sanford; Police Marshal, Ira Baker.

1857. Mayor, William Browne; Aldermen, first ward, John Spafford; second ward, P. Howard; third ward, D. D. Alling; fourth ward, Isaac Andrews; fifth ward, J. G. Manlove; City Clerk, Edward Vaughn; City Attorney, James M. Wight; City Treasurer, G. A. Sanford; Police Marshal, W. P. Dennis and J. E. Longton.

1858. Mayor, Soley Perry; Aldermen, first ward, John Spafford; second ward, George Troxell, Jr.; third ward, D. D. Alling; fourth ward, H. W. Loomis; fifth ward, J. G. Manlove; City Clerk, L. W. Burnham; City Attorney, H. D. Adams; City Treasurer, A. C. Spafford; Police Marshal, E. C. Roberts.

1859. Mayor, Charles Williams; Aldermen, first ward, R. A. Bird; second ward, George Troxell, Jr.; third ward, Daniel Dow; fourth ward, H. W. Loomis; fifth ward, J. G. Manlove; City Clerk, Porter Sheldon; City Attorney, Porter Sheldon; City Treasurer, A. C. Spafford; Police Marshal, M. J. Upright and M. H. Reagan.

1860. Mayor, Charles Williams; Aldermen, first ward, R. A. Bird; second ward, Benjamin Whight, third ward, Daniel Dow; fourth ward, J. S. Coleman; fifth ward, J. G. Manlove; City Clerk, R. C. Bailey; City Attorney, C. M. Brazez; City Treasurer, A. C. Spafford; Police Marshal, A. J. Pennoock.
1861. Mayor, Charles Williams; Aldermen, first ward, C. W. Sheldon; second ward, Benjamin Wingate; third ward, Daniel Dow; fourth ward, J. S. Coleman; fifth ward, John P. Maney; City Clerk, R. C. Bailey; City Attorney, C. M. Braze; City Treasurer, N. C. Thompson; Police Marshal, Ambrose Halestead.

1862. Mayor, Charles Williams; Aldermen, first ward, Henry Strong and James B. fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, John P. Maney; City Clerk, R. C. Bailey; City Attorney, R. C. Bailey; City Treasurer, N. C. Thompson; Police Marshals, John Fisher, M. J. Upjohn and Jeremiah Moshier.

1864. Mayor, Albert Fowler; Aldermen, first ward, Anibey Haines; second ward, John Lake; third ward, E. L. Godfrey; fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, Freeman Graham; sixth ward, James Dame.

RESIDENCE OF GILBERT WOODRUFF

Howell; second ward, Benjamin Wingate; third ward, Daniel Dow; fourth ward, J. S. Coleman; fifth ward, John P. Maney; City Clerk, R. C. Bailey; City Attorney, C. M. Braze; City Treasurer, N. C. Thompson; Police Marshal, Ambrose Halestead.

1865. Mayor, Albert Fowler; Aldermen, first ward, John H. Hall; second ward, John Lake; third ward, E. L. Godfrey; fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, Freeman Graham; sixth ward, James Dame.

RESIDENCE OF E. W. BLAISDELL

1866. Mayor, Carson Williams; Aldermen, first ward, Anthony Haines; second ward, Benjamin Wingate; third ward, E. L. Godfrey; City Clerk, R. C. Bailey; City Attorney, C. M. Braze; City Treasurer, R. P. Lane; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully.

1866. Mayor, E. H. Baker; Aldermen, first ward, John H. Hall; second ward, John Lake; third ward, E. L. Godfrey; fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, Freeman Graham; sixth ward, James Dame.

1868. Mayor, Edward H. Baker; Aldermen, first ward, L. H. Potter; second ward, John Lake; third ward, Henry Fisher; fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, W. D. Trahan; sixth ward, G. A. Sanford; seventh ward, Charles Williams.

City Clerk, J. B. Baker; City Attorney, J. M. Braze; City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully.

1870. Mayor, S. G. Bronson; Aldermen, first ward, L. H. Potter; second ward, John Lake; third ward, Henry Fisher; fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, W. D. Trahan; City Clerk, Jason Marsh; City Attorney, C. M. Braze; City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully.
ROCKFORD

res: City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1871: Mayor, S. G. Bronson; Aldermen, first ward, John Spalding; second ward, John Lake; third ward, T. P. Beal; fourth ward, G. A. Sanford; fifth ward, N. C. Thompson; sixth ward, T. D. Pitkin; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, James Marsh; City Attorney, C. M. Brown; City Treasurer, M. Starr; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1872: Mayor, S. G. Bronson; Aldermen, first ward, John Spalding; second ward, John Lake; third ward, T. P. Beal; fourth ward, G. O. Upson; fifth ward, N. C. Thompson; sixth ward, Ralph Chasey; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, James Marsh; City Attorney, C. M. Brown; City Treasurer, D. S. Penfield; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1873: Mayor, Gilbert Woodruff; Aldermen, first ward, John Spalding; second ward, D. S. Penfield; third ward, Daniel Dow; fourth ward, G. O. Upson; fifth ward, N. C. Thompson; sixth ward, Ralph Chasey; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, James Marsh; City Attorney, W. T. Hyde; City Treasurer, Horace Brown; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1874: Mayor, Gilbert Woodruff; Aldermen, first ward, John Spalding; second ward, Sookey Perry; third ward, Daniel Dow; fourth ward, G. O. Upson; fifth ward, N. C. Thompson; sixth ward, Ralph Chasey; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, James Marsh; City Attorney, C. M. Brown; City Treasurer, G. A. Sanford; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1875: Mayor, Robert H. Tinker; Aldermen, first ward, Anthony Haines; second ward, Sookey Perry; third ward, George E. King; fourth ward, G. O. Upson; fifth ward, Elphaz Smith; sixth ward, Ralph Chasey; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, James Marsh; City Attorney, E. H. Baker; City Treasurer, G. A. Sanford; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1876: Mayor, Levi Rhodes; Aldermen, first ward, Anthony Haines; second ward, Gilbert Woodruff; third ward, George E. King; fourth ward, E. L. Woodruff; fifth ward, Elphaz Smith; sixth ward, Harris Barnum; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, H. W. Rowell; City Attorney, L. F. Warner; City Treasurer, George H. Truland; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully.
1877: Mayor, Duncan Ferguson; Aldermen, first ward, Anthony Haines; second ward, Gilbert Woodruff; third ward, George E. King; fourth ward, E. L. Woodruff; fifth ward, Byron Graham; sixth ward, Harris Barnum; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, A. P. Wells; City Attorney, L. F. Warner; City Treasurer, Horace Brown; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1878: Mayor, William Watson; Aldermen, first ward, Anthony Haines; second ward, H. C. Scott; third ward, George E. King; fourth ward, George S. Haskell; fifth ward, Byron Graham; sixth ward, Harris Barnum; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, City Attorney, E. B. Summer; City Treasurer, Horace Brown; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1879: Mayor, Sylvester B. Wilkins; Aldermen, first ward, Benjamin H. Wittner; second ward, H. C. Scott; third ward, George S. Haskell; fourth ward, Henry C. Wilson; fifth ward, Henry C. Wilson; sixth ward, Harris Barnum; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, R. F. Crawford; City Treasurer, N. E. Lysan; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully.
1880: Mayor, Sylvester B. Wilkins; Aldermen, first ward, Benjamin H. Wittner; second ward, Horace Scott; third ward, George E. King; fourth ward, George S. Haskell; fifth ward, Henry C. Wilson; sixth ward, S. A. Johnson; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, R. F. Crawford; City Treasurer, N. E. Lysan; Police Marshal, P. A. Coonrad; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin.
1881: Mayor, Samuel P. Crawford; Aldermen, first ward, E. M. Holmes, B. R. Waldod; second ward, H. C. Scott; J. M. Southgate; third ward, T. J. Derwent, John Bellod; fourth ward, W. O. Wormwood, George S. Haskell; fifth ward, Henry C. Wilson, Levi B. Fuller; sixth ward, R. A. Shepherd, C. E. Knudson; seventh ward, James Ferguson, Joseph Burns; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, M. C. Warner; City Treasurer, Horace Brown; Police Marshall, Thomas Sully; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.
1882: Mayor, Samuel P. Crawford; Aldermen, first ward, B. R. Waldod, E. M. Holmes; second ward, J. M. Southgate, H. C. Scott; third ward, John Bellod, T. J. Derwent; fourth ward, George S. Haskell, W. O. Wormwood; fifth ward, Levi B. Fuller, Levi B. Fuller; sixth ward, C. E. Knudson, W. H. Miller; seventh ward, J. M. Southgate, James Ferguson; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, N. C. Warner; City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.
1884: Mayor, Alfred Taggart; Aldermen, first ward, Thomas Ennett, Thomas F. Palmer; second ward, J. M. Southgate, H. C. Scott; third ward, B. A. Weber, T. J. Derwent; fourth ward, D. H. Ferguson, W. O. Wormwood; fifth ward, Thomas Tole, W. L. Harbison; sixth ward, C. E. Knudson, E. S. Gregory; seventh ward, James Ferguson, Joseph Burns; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, M. C. Warner; City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.

Residence of Mrs. Judge Garver

Horace Brown; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.
1883: Mayor, Alfred Taggart; Aldermen, first ward, E. M. Holmes, Thomas Ennett; second ward, H. C. Scott, J. M. Southgate; third ward, T. J. Derwent, B. A. Weber; fourth ward, W. O. Wormwood, D. H. Ferguson; fifth ward, W. L. Harbison, D. H. Ferguson; sixth ward, W. H. Miller, C. E. Knudson; seventh ward, James Ferguson, Joseph Burns; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, N. C. Warner; James Ferguson; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, N. C. Warner; City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.
1885: Mayor, Alfred Taggart; Aldermen, first ward, Thomas F. Palmer, R. J. Randolph; second ward, H. C. Scott, E. W. Brown; third ward, T. J. Derwent, John M. Kennedy; fourth ward, W. O. Wormwood, D. H. Ferguson; fifth ward, W. L. Harbison, Thomas Tole; sixth ward, W. H. Miller, C. E. Knudson; seventh ward, James Ferguson, Joseph Burns; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, N. C. Warner; James Ferguson; City Clerk, E. K. Cookling; City Attorney, N. C. Warner; City Treasurer, George E. King; Police Marshal, Thomas Sully; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.
James Ferguson, T. F. Hopkins; City Clerk.
E. K. Cook; City Attorney; George M. Blake; City Treasurer, W. H. McCaughan; Police Marshal, A. H. Webb; Fire Marshal.

1886. Mayor, Alfred Taggart; Aldermen: first ward, C. W. Butterworth, Charles Ritchie; second ward, E. W. Brown, W. C. Scovill; third ward, W. J. Derwent, W. B. Reynolds; fourth ward, W. L. Harbison, H. N. Starr; fifth ward, W. L. Harbison, G. C. Robertson; sixth ward, W. D. Clark, G. R. McCombs; seventh ward, T. F. Hopkins, Thomas W. Cole; City Clerk, E. K. Cook; City Attorney, George M. Blake; City Treasurer, W. H. McCaughan; Police Marshal, A. W. Webb; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, Arthur H. Frost.

1887. Mayor, Horace C. Scovill; Aldermen: first ward, Charles Ritchie, C. W. Butterworth; second ward, E. W. Brown, John L. Clark; third ward, W. B. Reynolds, T. J. Derwent; fourth ward, E. W. Blaisdell, Samuel N. Jones; fifth ward, Alvin E. Crowell, Martin Rhoades; sixth ward, G. A. Salstrom, Wesley D. Clark; seventh ward, S. P. Crawford, Thomas C. Webb.

1889. Mayor, John H. Sherratt; Aldermen: first ward, Jeremiah Davis, William G. Bennett; second ward, Mead Holmes, Edward W. Brown; third ward, T. J. Derwent, W. B. Reynolds; fourth ward, Henry M. Kimball, Henry N. Starr; fifth ward, W. L. Harbison, O. F. Tyburn; sixth ward, Wesley D. Clark, G. A. Salstrom; seventh ward, Thomas W. Cole, Benjamin F. Lee; City Clerk, E. K. Cook; City Attorney, Edward H. Marsh; City Treasurer, C. O. Upton; Police Marshal, A. W. Webb; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1894. Mayor, Amasa Hutchins; Aldermen: first ward, R. A. Shepherd, William Knapp; second ward, Thomas W. Cole, E. G. Howard; City Clerk, A. J. Anderson; third ward, Z. B. Sturtevant, T. J. Derwent; fourth ward, William Dyson, W. M. Kimball; fifth ward, A. E. Crowell; sixth ward, G. A. Salstrom, A. Hollem; seventh ward, H. W. Dobson, E. C. Dunne; City Clerk, F. G. Hodgland; City Attorney, R. K. Welsh; City Treasurer, W. F. Woodruff; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, Edward Helfman; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1896. Mayor, W. E. Brown; Aldermen: first ward, R. A. Shepherd, J. T. Tolson; second ward, G. V. Lindblade, F. G. Stibb; third ward, F. E. Sterling, T. J. Derwent; fourth ward, F. S. Regan, W. M. Kimball; fifth ward, A. E. Crowell; sixth ward, Wesley D. Clark, G. A. Salstrom; seventh ward, Thomas W. Cole, Samuel P. Chaney; second ward, E. D. Chandler, A. J. Anderson; third ward, Z. B. Sturtevant, T. J. Derwent; fourth ward, L. A. Weyburn, W. M. Kimball; fifth ward, O. P. Trabern, Julius Graham; sixth ward, C. A. Salstrom, C. A. Newburg; seventh ward, F. G. Hodgland; City Attorney, R. K. Welsh; City Treasurer, John D. Waterman; Police Marshal, E. L. Tisdale; Fire Marshal, Edward Helfman; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

RESIDENCE OF H. H. HAMILTON

W. Cole; City Clerk, E. K. Cook; City Attorney, A. E. Holt; City Treasurer, Horace Brown; Police Marshal, A. W. Webb; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1888. Mayor, Horace C. Scovill; Aldermen: first ward, Jeremiah Davis, Samuel P. Chaney; second ward, Mead Holmes, E. W. Brown; third ward, T. J. Derwent, W. B. Reynolds; fourth ward, Willis M. Kimball, E. W. Blaisdell; fifth ward, W. L. Harbison, Alvin E. Crowell; sixth ward, Wesley D. Clark, G. A. Salstrom; seventh ward, Thomas W. Cole, Samuel P. Chaney; second ward, D. B. Spaulding, H. C. Story; City Clerk, A. E. Holt; City Treasurer, Horace Brown; Police Marshal, A. W. Webb; Fire Marshal, John T. Lakin; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.
RESIDENCE OF P. BYRON THOMAS
T. J. Dorworth, F. E. Sterling; fourth ward. M. A. Love, S. A. Hyer; fifth ward, John Lindsay, W. L. Harbison; sixth ward, J. M. Turner, J. A. Bowman; seventh ward, E. C. Dunn, R. G. McEwv; City Clerk, H. C. Scovill; City Attorney, M. M. Corbett; City Treasurer, P. F. Schuster; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, Edward Hefran; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

R O C K F O R D
Crowell, John Lindsay; sixth ward. Gust Holm, J. M. Turner; seventh ward. John Beaton, E. C. Dunn; City Clerk, F. C. Hoggland; City Attorney, R. K. Welch; City Treasurer, G. O. Upton; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, Edward Hefran; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1897. Mayor, E. W. Brown; Aldermen, first ward, J. T. Joslin, R. A. Shepherd; second ward, F. G. Stith, Haines Lawson; third ward.

Haines Lawson, F. E. Pearson; third ward, F. E. Sterling, H. J. Gallager; fourth ward, S. A. Hyer, M. A. Love; fifth ward, W. C. Butterworth; sixth ward, R. G. McEwv, E. C. Dunn; City Clerk, H. C. Scovill; City Attorney, M. M. Corbett; City Treasurer, F. F. Wormwood; Corporation Counsel, R. G. McEwv; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, Edward Hefran; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1900. Mayor, E. W. Brown; Aldermen, first ward, R. A. Shepherd, J. A. Nash; second ward, Wm. Johnson, F. E. Pearson; third ward, F. E. Sterling, E. F. Pendergast; fourth ward, W. C. Butterworth, M. A. Love; fifth ward, W. L. Harbison, J. F. Ogilby; sixth ward, Nels Olson, A. G. Johnson; seventh ward, J. M. Clarke, E. C. Dunn; City Clerk, H. C. Scovill; City Attorney, M. M. Corbett; City Treasurer, F. F. Wormwood; Corporation Counsel, R. G. McEwv; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, Edward Hefran; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1901. Mayor, Amasa Hutchins; Aldermen, first ward, John A. Nash, Charles E. Jackson; second ward, F. E. Pearson, Wm. Johnson; third ward, E. F. Pendergast, F. E. Sterling; fourth ward, M. A. Love, W. C. Butterworth; fifth ward, J. F. Ogilby, A. E. Crowell; sixth ward, A. C. Johnson, Nels Olson; seventh ward, E. C. Dunn, J. M. Clarke; City Clerk, H. C. Scovill; City Attorney, C. O. Carbaugh; City Treasurer, Norman F. Thompson; Corporation Counsel, George M. Blake; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, F. E. Thomas; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1902. Mayor, Amasa Hutchins; Aldermen, first ward, Charles E. Jackson, F. E. McKemy; second ward, Wm. Johnson, F. E. Pearson; third ward, F. E. Sterling, J. H. O'Con; fourth ward, W. C. Butterworth, W. M. Kimball; fifth ward, A. E. Crowell, J. F. Ogilby; sixth ward, Nels Olson, A. G. Johnson; seventh ward, J. M. Clarke, Robert Lathrop; City Clerk, H. C. Scovill; City Attorney, C. O. Carbaugh; City Treasurer, Norman F. Thompson; Corporation Counsel, R. K. Welch; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, F. E. Thomas; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

1903. Mayor, Charles E. Jackson; Aldermen, first ward, G. A. Woolsey, Gust Holm, Charles J. Kedzierski; second ward, F. E. Pearson, A. J. Anderson, Nels Olson; third ward, Wm. Johnson, F. J. Leonard, W. C. Butterworth; fourth ward, John M. Clarke, Robert Lathrop, W. M. Kimball; fifth ward, Edward F. Carte, H. D. Ticknor, J. F. Ogilby; City Clerk, H. C. Scovill; "City Attorney, L. M. Reckow; 'City Treasurer, W. F. Woodruff; Corporation Counsel, C. W. Ferguson; Police Marshal, A. E. Bargren; Fire Marshal, F. E. Thomas; Police Magistrate, L. L. Morrison.

GROWTH OF THE CITY.
The early history of a community must of necessity be a study of its individual citizenship and the origin of its private and public institutions, but as the number of inhabitants becomes larger, the individual is lost in the masses, and the trend of history relates more especially to public events and concrete development. Public leaders and promoters of municipal building may be mentioned in connection with current events, but otherwise individualism ceases.

This is true in the history of Rockford; its pioneers struggled to maintain a nucleus and to establish a nucleus from which there might develop a beautiful city. Much of the beauty and substantial progress of Rockford is due to the wise and determined efforts of its founders. The seven years war that was successfully fought out in the location of the county seat, doubtless bought beneficent results that have constituted an important factor in the city's destiny. It may be true that Germanic Kent, Thatcher Blake and Daniel S. Haight, together with their colleagues, "built wiser than they knew," but, however this may be, it is evident that the foundation work was well done and the structure is a thing of beauty.

In the remaining pages of the general history of Rockford, only those individuals whose lives were closely identified with the growth and development of the city, will receive special mention.

James Madison Wight was born in Norwich, Massachusetts, in 1810, and was admitted to the bar of Queens county, New York, in 1837. He then came west and located in Rockford, but soon returned to Rockford where he remained. He enjoyed a large law practice and was an able and conscientious advocate. He represented his district in the state legislature and served on the judiciary committee. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1870, called to draft a new constitution. He was city attorney in 1857.
Mr. Wight died in 1877, after living a long life of kindness and helpfulness to his fellow-men. His name is perpetuated in the Wight school. Mrs. Harriot Wight Sherratt is a daughter, and resides in the city.

Jason Marsh was born in Woodstock, Windsor county, Vermont, in 1807, and was admitted to the bar in 1831. In 1832 he gave him so much trouble that he resigned and returned to his home. In 1867 he was elected city clerk and served for nine consecutive years. Colonel Marsh died at the home of his daughter in Chicago, March 13, 1881.

Francis Burnap was born in Merrimac, New Hampshire, January 4, 1796, and came to Rockford in 1839. He was a lawyer by profession and practiced with brilliant success in the state and federal courts. His ancestors employed several years in land surveys, and then engaged in the topographical surveys of Great Britain, which he continued for ten years. In 1837 he came to the United States and settled in Pennsylvania where he remained two years. When he removed with his family to Rockford in 1839, in 1840 he was elected surveyor and justice of the peace. He held the act of the legislature for the improvement of Rock river. His life work was an integral part of the growth of the city. He died May 13, 1882.

Thomas D. Robertson was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, March 4, 1818. His parents removed to London when he was but a young child. He lived with a brother for a time, on married Harriet M. Spafford, a sister of John and Cathia Spafford. He came to Rockford in 1839, where he practiced his profession. He represented the second ward as an alderman in 1854 and 1855. Mr. Marsh entered the military service as colonel of the seventy-fourth Illinois infantry in 1862. He was severely wounded in the battle of Missionary Ridge and returned home in 1863, but two months later he rejoined his regiment at the front. In the campaign from Chattanooga to Atlanta his wounds were noted in history. His mother was a sister of Major-General Brooks of Revolutionary fame and who was afterward governor of Massachusetts for seven terms. His father, Rev. Jacob Burnap, was pastor of the First Congregational church of Merrimac for fifty years. Mr. Burnap was never married. He died in Rockford December 2, 1866.

RESIDENCE OF DR. E. C. DUNN

Duncan Ferguson was a native of Scotland and was born in 1810. He was a student at the University of Glasgow two years; was appointed internal revenue assessor, which office he held eight years. For ten years he was supervisor from the seventh ward. On March 3, 1873, he was elected chairman of the board of supervisors and held that honored position until 1881. In 1877 he was elected mayor of Rockford and served one year. He held the offices of city engineer, assessor, county treasurer, and commissioner of the county under an office of surveyor until 1856. In 1862 he was the Isle of Shippay at the mouth of the Thames, where he attended school. He subsequently joined his brother in the publication of the Mechanics Magazine. He came to the United States in 1838, and after a brief stay in Chicago, came to Rockford the same year. He studied law in Rockford and Madison, Wisconsin, and was admitted to the bar and practiced his profession successfully for several years. In 1848 Mr. Robertson and John A.

RESIDENCE OF J. D. WATERMAN

ROCKFORD

Holland established the first banking house in Rockford. After the death of Mr. Holland, Mr. Coleman joined Mr. Robertson in the banking business. Mr. Coleman was succeeded by Mr. Starr. Robertson & Starr were succeeded by The Winnebago National Bank, which is now one of the leading banking institutions of the city.

Hos. Edward H. Baker was born in Ferrisburg, Vermont, April 5, 1829, and came to Rockford with his father, Mr. W. Baker, in 1836. He was educated at Knox College and Illinois College at Jacksonville. He practiced law with his father-in-law, Josiah Marsh. He was made secretary of the Rockford & Kanona Railway Company and was elected mayor of the city in 1856 and served one year. Mr. Baker was an authority on Masonic matters, and highly esteemed. He died January 26, 1892.

David S. Peasefield was born in Pitsfield, Vermont, in 1812, and came to Rockford in 1835. He was in the mercantile business. He was president of the Rockford & Kanona Railway Company, and was elected mayor of the city in 1856 and served one year. He died May 20, 1873. Mrs. Peasefield disposed of the site to the Young Men's Christian Association where its beautiful auditorium now stands.

Shepherd Leach came to Rockford in 1838, and became a large amount of landed property. He was highly respected, and was a successful business man. He died July 9, 1885. Mrs. Edgar E. Bertlett and Mrs. J. D. Whitehead are daughters.

William Wheeler came from Upper Canada in 1839, and was the second innkeeper in the town. He had the honor of being Rockford's first mayor, in which capacity he served one year. He died April 24, 1876.

Samuel Williams, Benjamin Franklin and Isaac Newton Cunningham are four brothers who came to Rockford in 1838 and 1839, and are entitled to notice. In this work for their striking ingenuity and helpfulness in the upbuilding of the city.

Joel B. Potter was born in Fairfield County, Connecticut, in 1810, and came to Rockford in 1839. He was one of Rockford's early druggists. He died November 30, 1880. Mr. Caroline A. Brazee and Mrs. E. S. Gregory of Rockford, and Miss Frances D. Potter of Chicago, are daughters.

E. L. Herrick was born in Andover, Massachusetts, September 30, 1820, and came to Rockford with his father, Elijah L. Herrick, in 1838. His wife was a former teacher in Rockford College. A daughter, Elizabeth L., is professor of French and German literature at Rockford College. A son, Charles T., is in Chicago, and another son, Frank J., is a member of the firm of Backwell & Herrick of this city.

Charles H., Amos Calvin and John Spafford are three brothers whose history is identical with that of Rockford in its development into a city of renown. Charles H. held the office of postmaster, circuit clerk and recorder, was president of the Rockford & Kanona Railway Company. He was one of the first men in Rockford. He was a member of the banking firm of Spafford, Clark & Ellis, and when the bank went into settlement, paid off the liabilities, amounting to $145,000. He added largely to the founding of Rockford College. He married Miss AbbyWARNES in 1842, and had three children, Mrs. Carrie S. Brett, Mrs. Charles H. Godfrey and Charles H. Spafford, Jr. He died in September, 1892.

Amos Calvin Spafford was interested in a sawmill on the water-power. In 1854 he became a member of the banking firm of Briggs, Spafford & Peasefield. Upon the organization of the Third National Bank he became its president, which position he held thirty-three years, until his death. Mr. Spafford was one of the commissioners at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876. He died August 22, 1897. A daughter, Jessie L., is professor of mathematics and physics at Rockford College, and a son, George H., is cashier of the Third National Bank.

John Spafford was engaged in farming, and in the grocery, grain and lumber trade. In 1856 he was made the general agent of the Rockford & Kanona Railway Company. He was president of the Rockford Wire Works Company, and the Rockford Suspender Company, and was interested in other industrial enterprises. He died December 5, 1897.

William, Frank, Charles and Julia. He died April 11, 1886.

Laomi Peake, Sr., was a native of Hertier, county, New York, and came to Rockford in 1839. Mr. Peake brought about five thousand dollars in cash with him, which was a large sum of money in those early days. He was the first

RESIDENCE OF MRS LEVI RHODES

William Worthington was born in Enfield, Connecticut, July 5, 1813, and came to Rockford in 1828. He built a brick blacksmith shop and was the second blacksmith in the city. He afterward built a wagon shop which was the first shop on the East Side. In 1842, in company with Hosea D. Searles, he opened a drug store, which is now known as the Worthington & Slade store. His children are harnersman. In Rockford. He built a two-story brick building on the corner of First and State streets, for $1,500. This lot is now occupied by the Manufacturers Bank. In 1852 he built a second store on the same site, which is now the first public hall in Rockford. This store was burned in 1857. Mr. Peake had twelve children, one of these being L. Peake who now has a fine wholesale harness business on West State street. Mr. Peake died November 5, 1891, aged eighty-four years.
ROCKFORD

William Hull was a native of Salem,
Massachusetts, and settled in Rockford in 1838.

A spring on the land he owned is still known as the Hull's spring. He came to Rockford in the early forties, and was elected a justice of the peace. He served as clerk of the county 8, 1819, and came to Rockford in 1838. In 1866 he engaged in the shoe business in company with the late Daniel Hill, but sold out.
He then engaged in the real estate and loan business with Duncan Ferguson. In 1874 he was one of the organizers of the Forest City Insurance Company and served as its treasurer several years. He was an admiral from the court for a number of years and resigned from this office only a few days before his death, which occurred December 10, 1869. Dr.

R. H. TINKER'S SWISS COTTAGE

Henry Rickings now occupies his old home on North Main street. He was a thorough scholar and edited a work on school law.

Harris Barnum, a son of Daniel Barnum, was born in Danbury, Connecticut, September sixth ward for four years, and also served as a supervisor. He died February 26, 1899.

Hon. Horace Miller was born in 1798, in Berks county, Massachusetts, and came to Rockford in 1839. He acquired a great deal of land near the city, upon which he resided until 1861, when he removed to Rockford. He was a member of the legislature in 1850 and 1852. William M. Miller is a son, and Mrs. principal streets. The present site of the Brown, widow of the late Judge Brown, is a dughter. He died August 5, 1864.

There were many others who were among the pioneers who lost their energy and aid in the building of the Forest City.

A power house was erected, engines and water works plant was selected on account of its appearance there.

ROCKFORD WATER WORKS.

In 1875 and 1876, under the administration of Robert H. Tinker and Levi Rhoades, it became apparent that the best interests of the city demanded efficient fire protection and an adequate supply of water for the use of its inhabitants. After a thorough canvass of the matter by the council and the community in general, it was determined to establish a pump-ning station and to lay pipe mains through the

WATER WORKS PARK

well, sunk where the spring was located, and the river. The supply of water from this spring-well proved to be inadequate, and in 1881 and 1882, under Mayor Crawford's administration, an effort was made to increase this supply.
It was proposed to sink a huge well in the vicinity of the works; and near the river, from which it was thought an adequate supply of potable water could be obtained. Accordingly a well, fifty feet in diameter and thirty feet in depth, was put down at a cost of about thirty thousand dollars. This certainly a large well, but its huge proportions were nothing when compared to the degree of disappointment its results brought. Epidemics of diseases followed in its wake, the cause of which was traced to the use of the water from this well which proved to be a veritable cesspool.

In 1883 Alfred Taggart was elected mayor, and to him is due much of the credit for the development of the present superior water system of Rockford. He planned for future needs as well as for present necessity, and results demonstrate the wisdom and good judgment expected for the welfare of the city.

The possibility of obtaining a suitable supply of pure artesian water, was to him a reality. He consulted Professor Chamberlain, an eminent geologist and reliable authority on geological matters, in regard to the feasibility of his project and was assured that there was no doubt as to the success of such an undertaking. The matter was presented to the council and favorable action secured.

A contract was made with J. F. Gray of Jefferson, Cook county, Illinois, to sink a six hundred foot well which when completed gave a flow of six hundred gallons per minute. The hole of this well was enlarged to eight inches, and then gave a flow of eight hundred gallons per minute. The water from this well was turned into the pumping pit in December, 1885, and it was demonstrated to have a capacity of producing one million, three hundred thousand gallons of water every twenty-four hours.

This well is denoted as number one and is 1,520 feet in depth, and takes water from the Pottawatomie formation. In its descent it passes through 125 feet of drift, thirty feet of Trenton limestone, 225 feet of St. Peter's sandstone, 105 feet lower magnesite lime stone, and 1,035 feet of different formations of Pottawatomie sandstone. An analysis of the water was made by Prof. Erastus G. Smith of Beloit college, which shows it to be a superior potable water. His report allows the water to contain a very small per cent of sulphate and chlorides of potassium and sodium, a larger per cent of carbonates of calcium and magnesium; and very small fractions of alumina, ferric oxide and silica. Well number one cost the city $3,401.73. It was then determined to buy the necessary machinery and put two wells down under the direction of the city authorities.

Two more wells were commenced in 1885, the water from one of which was turned into the pumping pit that year. At the end of the fiscal year 1886, four wells had been sunk and the water turned into the pumping pit. At the end of the year 1888 five wells had been completed.

Well number one is 1,530 feet deep and cost $3,401.73. Number two is 1,320 feet deep and cost $3,352.35. Number three is 2,000 feet deep and cost $4,257.84. Number four is 1,830 feet deep and cost $2,151.30. Number five is 1,379 feet deep and cost $3,286.81. Cost of total amount $6,424.48.

In 1887 a plan for increasing the water supply was devised by D. W. Mead, which was accepted by the council. The plan was to sink a shaft eighty feet in depth and twelve feet in diameter and to connect the wells thought desirable by the contractor, or to sink new ones, by tunnels from the bottom of the shaft, for which he was to receive $352,000.00. For this the contractor guaranteed a flow of not less than 5,500,000 gallons of water daily. A provision in the contract allowed Mr. Mead a bonus of $2,500 if the supply of water reached a daily capacity of 7,000,000 gallons of water. A later contract provided for a tunnel connection with well number two, for the additional sum of $3,721. After vacation delays and the surroundning of unlooked for difficulties, the work was completed in 1890. Three tests were made as to the capacity of the new system, which were deemed satisfactory, and Mr. Mead was awarded the entire sum stipulated in the several contracts, which aggregated $66,221.

ROCKFORD PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Before the establishment of the present splendid library to which the people of Rockford have had free recourse for a number of years, several unsuccessful attempts were made to provide the people with desirable literature, by individual enterprise.

As early as 1852 the matter of establishing a public library was taken up and received strong support, especially by a temperance organization known as the Sixteenth Street Association. In the fall of 1857 a plan was made to secure the books belonging to the Temperance organization, and to establish a library and reading room, but this effort was not successful.

In 1857 a well organized effort was made by several public spirited citizens, to establish a public library. A stock company was incorporated under the general laws of the state, and stock at fifty dollars per share was issued. Ten rooms were secured over Roberton, Coleman & Company's bank. About one thousand excellent books were purchased and subscriptions placed for a number of papers and magazines.

During the next two years additional books were made to the number of several hundred. The library was liberally patronized for several years, but when the Civil war came on, public
A committee of three was appointed to select quarters for the library, and three rooms in the northwest corner, on the second floor of the Wallack block, were secured at a rental of $350 per year, the lease to take effect the first day of July, 1872.

July 30, 1872, a public reception was held in the library rooms which had been nicely refurnished for the reception of the library. Upon the above date Miss Mary E. Rankin was appointed temporary librarian by the board of directors.

September 9, 1872, the first rules and by-laws for the management and control of the library were adopted by the board of directors. September 2, 1872, Thomas M. Martin was appointed librarian at a salary of $450 per year, but declined the appointment, and at the next meeting of the board, September 9, 1872, W. L. Rowland was appointed librarian at a salary of forty dollars a month, which was accepted.

June 1, 1873, the selecting committee for the library fund reported the collection of $3,933.11, which was used for the purchase of books, the payment of rent, and current expenses.

The rooms in the Wallack block soon proved to be inadequate for the needs of the library and more suitable quarters were sought after. The committee appointed for this purpose succeeded in securing a ten year lease for the second floor of the old postoffice block, at the west end of the bridge, of Messrs. Church, Robertson and Emerson, to be in effect July 1, 1876, at a rental of $500 per year. The expenditure of considerable money was necessary for the refitting and furnishing of these new quarters. The library was closed June 28, 1876, for the purpose of removal to its new quarters, and was reopened to the public early in July, since when it has been open every day in the year.

At the end of the fiscal year, 1872, the library contained 2,815 volumes, about one half of which were donated, and had cost $1,773.11. Since 1896 the rental of the library rooms has been $900 per year.

One of the most notable events in the history of the Rockford Public Library, is the munificent gift of $70,000 by Mr. Andrew Carnegie of New York, who has proved himself to be the greatest library builder the world has ever seen.

The library board, through one of its members, Prof. O. F. Barbour, opened correspondence with Mr. Carnegie in October, 1899, soliciting his interest in making provision for a suitable library building in Rockford. This correspondence resulted in the receipt of a letter far as the maintenance of the library was concerned, and to provide funds for the purchase of a site as soon as they could be made available.

Public spirit and civic pride at once manifested itself, and steps were promptly taken to secure a suitable site for the library building.

A spirit of strong rivalry between the East and West sides of the river soon developed as to which side should secure the location. Various sites were proposed, among which were what were designated as the Gas, the Gill, the Rood and the O'Connor site. The Gill site was purchased by subscription for $11,000, and offered to the council as a free site.

After much acrimonious and bitter contention between the people on opposite sides of the which to battle with the fire monster. Its water supply was obtained from the creek, river and wells. Later on, three pony engines were disposed of and three hand-engines of a larger type were obtained. For an increased water supply, a large cistern was put in at the north-east corner of the office house square, which is

ROCKFORD FIRE DEPARTMENT.

One of the most important municipal departments of the city is that for its fire protection. In its earlier history the city was dependent upon a volunteer service for this protection, and upon primitive apparatus. In the matter of equipment, the department was organized under the direction and control of the city authorities, and the officers were elected by the members of the organization. A constitution and by-laws were also adopted by the organization. Members were initiated upon the payment of a fee and were subject to a fine for the infractions of the rules adopted. A chief and assistant engineers were elected, who held these offices for one year. The volunteer service was organized in 1855, with Edward F. Elts as chief engineer. During the years following the time of the organization of the paid department in 1880, the following persons served as chief engineers: Samuel L. Beach, one year; M. A. Barford, one year; Howard D. Frost, three years; A. G. Springsteen, two years; Gordon S. Allen, one year; Calvin Ford, one year; Charles S. Jollison, one year; S. A. Granger, one year; James F. Hoegh, nine years; James Chalmers, one year; John T. Lakin, two years; and Charles Cavanaugh, one year.

During the first few years, the department depended upon four diminutive engines with still there. Another cistern was put in on the East side on Second street. This has been filled up. These cisterns were filled by pumping water from the river and were used until the installation of the water works in 1875-6. A report of 1860 shows that the fire department's total expense to the city was $1,845.93, and the property owned by the city in this department, was valued at $13,750.00. J. F. Hough was chief engineer, and W. B. Wood and Wm. Holmes were assistant engineers. There were five hose companies and one hook and ladder company with a total of 114 men. The apparatus consisted of one hand-engine, three hose carts, one hook and ladder truck, forty-two hundred feet of hose, a little miscellaneous paraphernalia, and five hose carts owned by citizens.

much to say that the Rockford fire department is one of the most efficient, well-disciplined and reliable organizations for this purpose in the country. It is a credit to the city and its efficiency adds largely to real estate values on account of the protection it affords. The city has expended since 1860, $408,268.98 in the equipment and maintenance of its fire department. If the exact figures could be obtained for the previous years the total sum would reach nearly half a million of dollars, that has been expended by the city for its fire protection.

ROCKFORD POLICE DEPARTMENT.

The Rockford Police Department is one of the best in the country. It is a model in its discipline and its personnel—from chief to patrolmen, its membership is made up of intelligent representative men, who take great pride in maintaining the creditable reputation of the city for its good order, progress and refinement. Rockford is on the list of grog, thugs and law-breakers as being a good place to keep away from. Every man on the force is a good detective and is always alert in the discharge of his duties. The character of the police force is such as to prevent the commission of crimes in Rockford in a very large degree.

The establishment of the police force in Rockford was co-existent with its history as a village, when the peace and good order of the municipality was placed in the keeping of one man, designated as police constable and when the town acquired the distinction of being a city, its peace officer was known as the police marshal. John Platt had the honor of first serving in this capacity, being appointed to this office in 1852, and served one year. He was succeeded by William Wheeler in 1853, who also served one year. In 1854, John Travis was appointed and served one year. He was succeeded by James Dinne, who also served one year. In 1855, Ira Barker was appointed and served one year. He was succeeded by W. P. Dennis and J. E. Langdon, who filled this office in 1857. In 1858, E. C. Roberts filled this office. In 1859, two different marshals again did duty. These were M. J. Upright, who was afterward elected sheriff of the county to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Sheriff John F. Taylor, who was killed by Alfred Countryman, Nov. 11, 1856, and M. H. Rogan. In 1860, A. J. Penrock filled this office. Ambrose Halsey was appointed in 1861, and served two years. In 1863, three different persons filled the office. These were John Fisher, M. J. Upright and Jeremiah Mosher. In 1864, the office was filled by G. V. Carr and James Dinn; James Dinn continued through 1865. In 1866, Thomas Sully was appointed and served continuously fourteen years. In 1880, P. A. Conradi was appointed by Mayor Williams, and served one year. In 1881, Thomas Sully was again appointed by Mayor Crawford and served four years. In 1885, A. W. Webb was appointed by Mayor Taggart and served six years. In 1891, E. L. Tisdale was appointed by Mayor Derrick and served three years; In 1894, A. E. Borgen was appointed by Mayor Hinshel, which office he has since continuously held. It will be seen that the city has had in its employ nineteen different men at the head of its police department. Those longest in service have been Marshals Sully and Borgen. There is no doubt but that each one of these Chief Officers was a capable man and efficient officer. Chief Sully's administration was a notable one, and the peace and well being of the city was carefully looked after. Chief Borgen, the present head of the police department, has achieved remarkable success. He is a fine disciplinarian, is highly respected by his subordinates and the people, is a perfect gentleman, and a terror to evil doers. He is possessed of all the better characteristics and higher qualities that go to make up a leader and efficient officer. The police department has been gradually increased from a force of one man to that of twenty-one, distributed as follows: One marshal, one assistant marshal, two patrol drivers, twelve patrolmen, one jailer, four merchant police and one sanitary police officer. Extra police are put on the force upon special occasions and are under the control of the chief.

The department has two stations and is equipped with all the necessary paraphernalia necessary to make it efficient, and is valued at $1,824.00.
The police department was placed in the civil service list by popular vote at the municipal election of 1903, and the time of service of each member of the force is now indicated by service stripes. The personnel and time of service are connected with the present force follows: A. E. Bargren, marshal, thirteen years; M. B. Little, assistant marshal, twenty-three years; P. J. Sullivan, fifteen years; John Grans, sixteen years; Dennis Dwyer, fourteen years; and C. E. Peterson and Frank Burbank appointed in 1902.

The office of the police department was established in 1881, under the administration of Mayor Crawford, when Arthur H. Frost was elected to this office, which he held six years.

Judge Frost executed the duties of his office with signal success and marked ability. He was succeeded by Judge L. L. Morrison in 1887; who has served continuously since. Judge Morrison, during his fifteen years of service, has made an ideal magistrate and his administration of the office has given universal satisfaction. A just and fair administration of the office makes it essential that the presiding judge should be possessed of superior legal talent and a well-balanced judicial mind. These—Judge Morrison has in a marked degree.

Since Rockford became a city, it has expanded more than $300,000.00 for police protection. Doubtless this has been a judicious expenditure as the city has maintained a high reputation abroad as being one where good order prevails and property and life are secure.

WINNEBAGO COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

The Winnebago County Medical Society was originally organized in 1851, but owing to a lack of interest and attention of its members, it was allowed to lapse. In 1881, the profession felt the need of concerted action, and the matter was taken up and a re-organization was effected. A meeting was held in the council rooms, at which officers were elected and by-laws and constitution adopted, October 18, 1881.

The following preamble sets forth the object of organization: "The undersigned physicians of Winnebago County, for the purpose of cultivating those graces and good qualities, which adorn the profession of medicine and for the purpose of mutual improvement in all that pertains to the science of and practice of medicine and surgery, do hereby associate themselves to gather, and do adopt for the government of this association the following constitution and by-laws."

The constitution and by-laws adopted are similar to those of other organizations, and simply provide for the administration of the business of the association.

The constitution and by-laws adopted are similar to those of other organizations, and simply provide for the administration of the business of the association.

By virtue of membership in the county organization, one becomes a member of the State Medical Society. This is a recent arrangement and is of great benefit to the local society.

The present officers of the county organization are Dr. T. N. Miller president, Dr. Charles S. Witen, secretary and treasurer. Meetings are held on the second Monday evening of each month.
ROCKFORD CITY HOSPITAL

In 1883, steps were taken to establish a city hospital in Rockford. The leading physicians and a number of public spirited citizens of the city took the matter in hand. A committee was appointed by the Winnebago County Medical Society in the fall of 1883, for the purpose of securing a corporate organization under the laws of the state for such hospital. Application was made for a certificate of organization which was duly granted December 15, 1883. The name of the corporation was the Rockford Hospital Association, and the incorporators were A. E. Goodwin, S. A. Austin, Frank H. Kimball, F. K. Hill, Lemuel Tibbetts, and Thomas G. Vincent. The trustees were W. A. Talcott, William Lathrop, N. C. Thompson, William Brown, Jeremiah Davis, H. W. Carpenter, John Z. Rydberg, Thour Munthe, R. P. Lane, B. F. Whipple, Thomas Butterworth, Frances I. Price, Mary H. Penfield, Jane C. Wilkins and Ada-line E. Emerson.

The present hospital site was purchased of Dr. W. H. Fitch, June 21, 1884, for $6,500.00. The site was fully paid for and a deed bearing date of July 1, 1885, received.

April 11, 1885, Chester Butterworth was elected a trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father, who died in Asheville, N. C., April 5, 1885. The hospital was opened for patients October 1, 1885. Dr. S. A. Austin and F. H. Kimball were the first attending physician and surgeon, respectively. Drs. R. P. Lane and D. S. Clark were the first consulting physicians, and Dr. W. H. Fitch and Henry Richings the first consulting surgeons.

Mrs. Martha J. Smith was the first matron of the hospital and served until March 26, 1900, when she resigned. Hospital Sunday was established in the churches October 10, 1885, by resolution of the hospital trustees, which has since been maintained with a very liberal spirit. The first patient was received October 10, 1885.

In 1888, steps were taken to provide a permanent fund for the maintenance of the hospital and the report for 1893, shows that $43,356.17 had been placed in this fund.

A training school for nurses, in connection with the hospital, was established July 6, 1888. In 1901, Mrs. Adeline E. Emerson, in memory of her husband, Ralph Emerson, Jr., donated, contributed the funds for an addition to the hospital for an operating room and office, which cost $1,333.66—this addition was opened March 6, 1888.

William Brown served as president from 1884 to 1886. William Lathrop from 1886 to 1887. Horatio Stone from 1887 to January 29, 1896, when his death occurred. William Lathrop was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Stone, which office he has held continuously since.

Lizzie C. Glenn was appointed as general superintendent of nurses and training school, March 23, 1900. She resigned April 6, 1901, and Miss Flora B. Patch was appointed in her stead. Miss Patch resigned November 1, 1902, and Miss Alma M. Barter received the appointment, which position she now holds.

W. A. Talcott served as secretary and treasurer of the hospital from its inception to the time of his death, which occurred in Palestine, December 19, 1901. The success of the institution is in large part due to his liberality and untiring effort. His son, Walter Talcott, was elected to the position so ably filled by his father, April 6, 1901, which position he now holds.

During the year 1902, 506 patients were received for treatment. The receipts from all sources during 18 years, have been $244,417.26, and the expenditures $224,678.28, leaving a balance of $19,738.98. The largest contributions to the hospital fund was from the estate of Horatio Stone, which was $277,000.00; the next largest is from W. A. Talcott and family $12,000.00; and A. D. Forbes and family $10,500.00. Several others have contributed from $2,400.00 to $5,500.00. A fine new building is being erected, fitted with modern appliances and perfectly fire-proof, which will cost about $50,000.00.

ST. ANTHONY HOSPITAL

The necessity of a public hospital, located on the east side of the river, where the majority of the people of the city now reside, had been keenly felt for several years. After considerable litigation as to how such an institution could best be carried on, the Franciscan Sisters of Perpetual Adoration desired to take charge of the hospital.

Through the efforts of the late William Crotty, the present site of St. Anthony's Hospital was purchased from the late Leonard Schmauss estate for $12,000.00. The house upon the site being large and conveniently arranged for the purpose, was utilized for a hospital building. The Sisters took charge of the hospital July 1, 1899.

The present fine edifice was built in 1902, at a cost of $40,000.00, and was dedicated by Archbishop Quigley, March 23, 1903. The building contains 60 beds, and is in charge of eleven Sisters with two assistants. The building is equipped with modern hospital appliances, and is fully up-to-date in all respects. Its location upon a beautiful elevation on East State street, gives it a conspicuously not enjoyed by other public buildings in the city. Its surroundings are such as to make its location most de-
RESIDENCE OF WILL BARNES

ROCKFORD SCHOOLS.
The first school in Rockford was taught by Miss Enice Brown, in a log house on an earth floor, on the site of 110 South Second street, in July, 1837. In 1838, the same teacher taught in a building that was located on the present courthouse square. Miss Brown afterward married J. G. Lyon, and resided on a farm in the township of Rockton, where she died December 7, 1899.

This time, and up to the enactment of the free school law by the legislature, in 1855, were paid by a rate bill. After the free school law went into effect, the public schools immediately took on a rapid growth, and have continued to improve until we have the finest school system in the world.

The first school ordinance for the City of Rockford was passed by the Council June 20, 1855, which divided the city into two school districts, No. 1 on the East side and No. 2 on the West side.

George Haskell, A. S. Miller and Jason Marsh constituted the first board of school inspectors.

In December, 1855, a lease of the basement of the First Baptist church was purchased of A. W. Freeman for school purposes, on the West side, and Mr. Freeman was engaged as teacher at a salary of $900 per year. The old court house on the East side was leased and Mr. H. Sabin employed as teacher. July 27, 1855, the site where the Adams school (now called the Freeman school) now stands was purchased of Solomon Wheeler, and a contract for the construction of a school building upon the same was let September 10th, the same year.

April 28, 1856, a contract was let for the erection of a school building on the present site of the Lincoln school. Both of these buildings were completed and dedicated August 14, 1857. These two district schools constituted the educational centers for the children of the city down to 1884, when the city was organized into one school district with one high school.

The principals of District No. 1 were Orland C. Blackmer and Henry Freeman, the latter retaining his position from 1859 to 1880, when he resigned. He was succeeded by Prof. McPherson, who continued until the district was abolished in 1884. The principals for District No. 2 were George G. Lyon, E. M. Fernald, E. N. Wellar, J. H. Blandt and W. W. Steen.

The building of the Kent school took place shortly after those on the East and West sides, and Prof. O. F. Barbour has been its principal for most of the time since its inception, receiving his appointment in 1865.

The city schools are under the management of a board of five school inspectors appointed by the mayor, with a city school superintendent.

At the beginning of the year 1903 the city schools number seventeen, all modern buildings, and supplied with the latest and most approved appliances, the total cost of which is $416,820.20. This includes the cost of the several sites, the construction and equipment of the buildings, but does not include the cost of the buildings demolished to make room for several of the new ones. When this is included the sum will reach fully $500,000.00.

The cost of maintenance of the schools increases annually with the growth of the city.

The appropriation for this purpose for the year 1903 is $105,637.20.

Following is a summary showing the date and cost of construction of the several school buildings in the city:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>NAME</th>
<th>DATE</th>
<th>COST</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>High School</td>
<td>1865</td>
<td>$92,145.97</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lincoln School</td>
<td>1857</td>
<td>85,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Freeman School</td>
<td>1857</td>
<td>40,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kent School</td>
<td>1858</td>
<td>20,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall School</td>
<td>1856</td>
<td>30,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wight School</td>
<td>1889</td>
<td>20,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Montague School</td>
<td>1883-92</td>
<td>16,700.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garrison School</td>
<td>1887-92</td>
<td>18,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Church School</td>
<td>1894</td>
<td>20,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kiswaukee School</td>
<td>1896</td>
<td>30,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nelson School</td>
<td>1881</td>
<td>4,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marsh School</td>
<td>1872</td>
<td>5,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blake School</td>
<td>1899</td>
<td>28,385.49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Haskell School</td>
<td>1874</td>
<td>6,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ellis School</td>
<td>1865</td>
<td>4,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turner School</td>
<td>1895</td>
<td>25,588.74</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Making a total of $416,820.20 representing the present value of the city school property.

The total cost of maintenance of the schools of the city, from their establishment, can be ascertained only by careful estimates and comparisons, which show an investment of $1,605,500.00. Including the value of school property the grand total is $2,023,320.20.

SOLDIERS’ AND SAILORS’ MEMORIAL HALL.
The legislature of the State of Illinois made an appropriation for the building of a Soldiers’ Home, in 1885, and appointed a Board of Commissioners to select a site for its location.

The July session of the Board of Supervisors of Winnebago county, a committee consisting of Chairman E. J. Veness, Robert Simpson and S. W. Jones for the board, and Col. T. G. Lawler, Geo. S. Haskell and C. C. Jones for the citizens was appointed to present the desira-
The resolution made provision for the location of the monument on the courthouse square. Action on the resolution was laid over one day, and to the Solicitor the question arose as to whether a Memorial building would not be preferable to a monument. Meanwhile Morris Post, G. A. R., submitted a request asking the Board to let the people vote as to which the memorial should be a monument or a hall. This request was incorporated in the original resolution. The resolution made provision for the location of the monument on the courthouse square.

The memorial matter was not brought up again until the July session of 1898, when A. D. Early made a plea before the Board for action in this direction. Supervisor Osborne favored the plan, and introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of five, including the chairman of the Board, to confer with a committee of citizens with a view of devising some plan for securing a monument.

The proposition to appropriate $25,000.00 for a Memorial Hall was carried at the election.

At the May meeting, Supervisor Simpson submitted a resolution providing for the appropriation of $25,000.00 for the building of a Winnebago county monument.

On account of a difference of opinion having arisen in the Board as to several points at issue, action on the resolution was deferred until the September meeting, at which it was defeated.
At the June session bids were received for sites, and a vote taken on the location of the building, which resulted in the selection of the court house square. At the following September meeting an effort was made to rescind the vote locating the building on the court house square, but it failed. At the December meeting another effort to rescind the vote locating the building on the court house square was successful, and the motion carried with 17 instructions to purchase the Butterworth site on North Main street, at a cost not to exceed $11,500.00.

The location of the building having been determined, Supervisor Nylander moved that a building committee of five be appointed, which was seconded by Mr. H. Ferga. These bids were considered too high and were all rejected. The architects modified their plans slightly, and bids were called for again. On March 25, 1902, the committee had received four bids, which were opened, and the contract was awarded to W. H. Cook for $35,324.00. Work was begun shortly after and pushed rapidly to completion.

The building was dedicated by President Roosevelt, June 20, 1903, the occasion being the most notable event in the history of Rockford. President Roosevelt was the first president to visit the city, and thousands of people from near and far came to see him and the occasion honor.

ROCKFORD HOTELS.

The Rockford House, which claims the distinction of being the first hotel built in the city, was opened to the public in the spring of 1857. Previous to that time several of the settlers had opened their homes to strangers, but not as regular hotel keepers.

The Rockford House was built by Daniel S. Haight and Charles C. Oliver, and stood on the site of the present Young Men's Christian Association building. The first landlord was Henry Thurston, and his son acted in the double capacity of clerk and chambermaid, especially for the rooms in the third story which had to be reached by the ladder route. Mr. Thurston was succeeded as landlord by several of the other old time residents, there being at least eight to follow him.

The next season after the Rockford House was opened the second hotel for the village was commenced, and this was completed and opened to the public in 1859. The building known as the Washington House stood in East State street, and was quite a pretentious building. It had a front of sixty feet, with large additions at the rear. The kitchen was in the basement. Soon after the building was completed the street in front was graded and left the building standing on a high bank. Ten or twelve steps were necessary to lead from the street to the entrance. The name of the hotel was later changed to the Rock River House, and part of the building now stands at the East State street, and the other section is on the southeast corner of State and Madison streets. The building was built by Jacob B. and Thomas Miller. Its first landlord was Jacob Miller, and was followed by nearly a dozen landlords.

In 1833 the Log Tavern, then called the Stage House, was opened. This was located on the corner where the Second National Bank stood at Main and State streets.

In the early days three buildings constituted the hotel accommodations of the city, and in 1850 Andrew Brown added to the list by opening a new place called Brown's House and G. S. Moore became its proprietor. The American House still stands, and though fifty years old, is a good building yet.

The Waverly and Union houses were started in 1852, and were located in the south part of the city near where the Northwestern passenger station stands. These buildings are still standing, using the facilities of the hotel facilities of the early days in Rockford. At the time these places were built they were considered excellent hotels, and the trade they did was enormous.

The site now occupied by the Chick House was where the inn was started in 1860 by Spencer & Fuller. This house was conducted for several seasons. The inn was the real beginning of the modern hotel, and though not as pretentious as those which followed contained many of the improvements in the way of wash rooms and toilets, and, while the bills of fare used in the city were furnished guests of the inn by Messrs. Spencer & Fuller.

Next in line came the Eagle Hotel, which was erected in South Main street, three blocks from State street, and still stands there.

The first brick hotel was the Winnebago House. This building was finished in the fall of 1828, but for five years was used as a store building, and when it was completed there was quite a celebration, for this was the first brick building on Rock River above Rock Island. Dr. Haskell and Isaiah Lyon conducted the business until 1843 when Mr. Lyon became sole owner of the stock and building, closed it out and remodeled the building into a hotel called the...
Winnebago House, which was continued until 1854 when it was again rearranged into stores. The building was located on what is known as Andrew Ashton's corner.

The real modern hotel first established in the city was the Holland House, which later became the Huffman House. This was the first hotel to follow the "cars" and was still running. For a period of several years it was known as White's Hotel, and in its earlier days was classed as one of the leading hotels in Rockford owing to its excellent location near the Chicago & Northwestern depot at that time the only railroad depot in the city.

The American House on Madison street which is still conducted by E. E. Everett; the City Hotel was established on the corner now occupied by the Forest City National Bank, and some years ago was razed.

Of the other hotels now being conducted are the Chick, the Jarvis Inn, the National, The European, Forest City House, The Victoria and the Nelson. There are several restaurants also, and these, with the hotels, can furnish accommodations for hundreds of guests daily.

The Chick House, together with its cottages and annexe, will accommodate two hundred guests, and is the popular headquarters for commercial travelers. It has a large number of regular boarders and many families of the city patronize the house for Sunday dinners.

The house is centrally located, and the city and interurban cars pass the door.

Could one of the early day visitors to the city return to-day he would be much surprised at the wonderful changes wrought in hotel facilities.

ROCKFORD COLLEGE.

The present beautiful Rockford College owes its origin to a conception developed in a convention of churches held in Cleveland, Ohio, in June, 1844, of the necessity of establishing a college for men and a seminary for women in Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois respectively. The delegates, upon their return from the convention, called a meeting at Beloit in August, 1844, at which it was deemed advisable to build a college at Beloit and a seminary in Northern Illinois. Three subsequent meetings were held, at each one the resolution of the first meeting was upheld.

At the fourth meeting, held at Beloit in October, 1845, Beloit was selected as the location for the college and a Board of Trustees elected. The charter for the college was approved by the Governor of the Territory of Wisconsin, February 2, 1846. Then began the discussion as to a site for the location of the seminary, Rockford and Rockford were rivals for the location. But Beloit having secured the college, Rockford was driven too far for the location of the seminary, and thus Rockford secured the plum.

June 11, 1849, Miss Anna P. Sill established a preparatory school under the name of the Rockford Female Seminary. This institution had a board of local trustees, who planned to make it the seminary at it by the trustees of Beloit College.

In 1850 more than $5,000 were pledged to put up the buildings and secure the ground, and by September of that year the seminary was assured.

Miss Sill's school was recognized by the trustees of Beloit College in 1851 as the preparatory department of the Rockford Seminary, under the charter which they held.

Courses of study were defined, and upon examination, fifteen were admitted into the first collegiate class in September of that year. Thus the college was formally founded in 1851. Up to 1852, it was known as Rockford Female Seminary, but in this year it was changed to its present name—Rockford College. The site was purchased from Buell G. Wheeler, and has not changed in its contour except a strip taken from the west end by the Chicago & Iowa railroad.

The first building was erected by John Beat- tis and cost $750. The cornerstone for this building was laid July 15, 1852, by Rev. Aratus Kent, president of the board of trustees. In 1850, it was deemed advisable by the trustees of Beloit College that each institution should manage its own affairs, and the seminary inter-
Fine business blocks and beautiful residences count for but little if the streets are neglected. Rockford has kept pace in the care and improvement of its streets with its development in other departments. Its citizens and property owners have been ready and willing to submit to heavy assessments that the streets abutting their property might be substantially paved and otherwise improved.

Thousands of dollars have been annually expended by the street department in improving and beautifying the streets of the city.

This department has been under the direction of competent engineers, and the work has been thoroughly and well done. The sanitary conditions of any city depend largely upon its drainage, which in turn is controlled by its streets and sewers. The improvement and construction of these constitute one of the heavy burdens that must be met by general or special tax. Notwithstanding this fact, the investment is one that brings the largest returns to the city.

The following persons have held the office of city engineer: Duncan Ferguson, 1880–81; J. J. Remington, 1882–84; Daniel W. Mead, 1885–89; D. C. Dunlap, 1890–91. In 1892 the superintendent of sewers was added to the engineer's department, and Charles C. Stowell was placed in charge. He served until 1897, when Edwin Main was appointed, who still holds this office.

Mr. Main has so systematized the work of the street and sewer department as to give the best possible results. He has his work thoroughly in hand, is courteous and considerate in the transaction of business connected with the office and his ability is valuable to the city.

The City of Rockford has 130 miles of streets, 44 miles of which are paved. Two miles are paved with brick and two with asphalt. The remaining 40 miles are macadamized. The walks are mostly made of concrete or tar, and cover about 160 miles.

The sewerage system is being rapidly extended. At the beginning of 1903 there were twenty-seven miles of sewer mains, and six will be added during the year. The sewer system has cost the city in round figures $500,000.00, and the street improvements $1,000,000.00, and the sidewalks $450,000.00.

There are three parks in the city, which has cost to improve and maintain, $50,000.00.

Another beautiful park will doubtless soon be acquired by the city, as it is proposed by the Winnebago County Agricultural Society to transfer the well-known fair grounds to the city for this purpose.

A plan is also proposed to park the east side of the river bank from State street north, for a considerable distance. With these added improvements Rockford will certainly be one of the most beautiful cities in the country.

ROCKFORD CHURCHES.

The first and only Episcopal parish in Rockford was organized May 1, 1849. The articles of incorporation were signed by Chauncey Ray, Jonathan Weldon, Horace Starky, Duncan J. Stewart, John Conrad, S. R. Weldon and Spencer S. Weldon, with Rev. Dudley Chase as presiding officer, and who was the first rector. Duncan I. Stewart is the only incorporator now.

Rev. Charles Reighley was called to the rectoryship November 15, 1852, and with the consent of Bishop Henry John Whitehouse, accepted the call. The site, where the present chapel now stands, was purchased for $200, and a building erected at a cost of $1,900.00, which was consecrated by Bishop Whitehouse, August 23, 1853, by the name of Emanuel Church, Rockford. "The present house of worship was built during the service of Rev. D. C. Peabody, who became rector March 1, 1866. The building is known as the "Fairfield Memorial Parish House," and was a gift to the society by Mrs. Eleanor G. Fairfield, as a memorial to her late husband, W. W. Fairfield, and cost $400.00. At this time an additional thirty feet of land was added to the site costing $1,600.00, and the rectory, No. 821 North Church street, was purchased for $6,000.00.

Following are the names of the rectors who have ministered to this society: Rev. Dudley Chase, Charles Reighley, Anson Clark, Michael Schoffield, William T. Smithett, Thomas Smith, S. B. Duffield, J. E. Walton, S. D. Day, C. S.
The charter membership was about twenty.

The present membership is 360. The total expenditure since the organization of the society for all purposes are nearly $170,000.00.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Rockford was founded May 5, 1837, and was chartered the First Congregational church. Its founder was the Rev. John Morrill, who came from New York as a home missionary to this county. He was the first pastor and served one year. The church organization took place at the house of Israel Morrill on the West side, and there were nine charter members, viz.: Rev. John Morrill, Gershom B. Potter, Israel Morrill; Richard Morrill, Elizabeth P. Morrill, Mary J. Morrill, Sophia N. Morrill, Minerva Potter and Emiline Brown.

Two weeks later the names of Edward Galt, Charles Works, Asa Crosby, Mary Crosby and Mary Danforth were added to the roll. All side of the river, when this was completed it was turned over to the society. This was the first church edifice in Rockford.

The building on the East side was later occupied by the First Methodist society, and still later was known as the old seminary building.

In 1846 the society dedicated a new brick church on the East side. This building was occupied by the society until 1879, when the present church edifice, on the East side, was built.

The organ now in use in the First Congregational church was presented by Rufus Hatch, of New York, a former organist, and cost $4,500.00.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

A GROUP OF CHURCHES

of New York, a former organist, and cost $4,500.00.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

The second church organization in Rockford was that of the First Baptist church, which was organized at the house of Dr. George Haskell, December 22, 1838, and was the second Baptist church organized in Northern Illinois.

This society had sixteen charter members, and its first church services were irregularly held until April, 1840, when it was resolved to hold them regularly. The society was legally incorporated in December, 1839, and steps were taken to build a church. This building was located at the corner of Main and Peach streets, and the first preacher was Prof. Seth S. Whitman of Belvidere. His first sermon was delivered May 9, 1841. The first stated pastor was Rev. Solomon Knapp.

The second Elder, Jacob Knapp became a member of this church in November, 1848, and supplied its pulpit until June, 1849. As a result of his preaching sixty-two additions were made to the church membership.

Elder Knapp claimed to have preached about 3,000 sermons, 5,000 baptism, 4,000 candidates, and was the means of making 101,000 converts of whom 200 became ministers.

The present church edifice was completed in 1850 at a cost of $37,500.00.

Among the most noted pastors of this society were the Rev. Ichabod Clark, D. D., who served ten years and largely increased the church membership, and Dr. Thomas Kerr, who became pastor June 1, 1860. He was given a vacation of three months, at the end of his first year, in which to visit Palestine. In 1864, he was a member of the Christian Commission and visited the army in the field, doing much efficient work.

In 1866, he accepted a pastorate at Hanibal, Missouri, but returned to the pastorate of the First church again in 1859. He resigned this pastorate August 20, 1870.

The First Baptist church edifice is now the oldest church building in the city, and is in thorough repair. It was remodeled recently at a cost of $8,000.00.

The present membership is 320.

This society has expanded for all purposes since its organization about $151,500.00.

COUNT STREET METHODIST CHURCH

Court Street Methodist church was organized January 1, 1852, many of its charter members having come from the First Methodist church on the East side of the river.

The first enrollment was but forty, which has been increased to 845. The society purchased a site for a church edifice near the corner of State and Court streets in 1853 for $350.00, and the building was completed and dedicated in November, 1854, at a cost of $7,000.00. Rev. G. L. S. Smith preached the dedicatory sermon.

In 1893, this society had outgrown its environment, and steps were taken toward building a more commodious edifice. The present site was purchased September 5, 1883, and a building committee consisting of Messrs. Levi Rhoades, S. B. Wilkins, E. E. Lyman, David Keyt, and J. G. Chick was appointed. Ground for the building was broken in September, 1884. The cornerstone was laid (Bishop Merrill officiating) in August, 1885. The building was completed and dedicated in May, 1887, at which time $27,000.00 was subscribed, thus enabling the society to dedicate its building free from debt.

The site for the present parsonage was purchased from the Horsham estate in 1884. Ground for the parsonage was broken in August, 1895, and the house completed in October of that year. The total cost of the present church and parsonage was nearly $82,000.00.

Before this society owned a church building, services were held in Boyd's Hall on State street. During its first year's history, 140 members were added to its roll.

In August, 1897, the Rock River Conference held its annual session in the old Court Street church, which is said to have been one of the most interesting and important sessions ever held in this conference.

The meeting is of note on account of its anti-slavery resolutions and the breaking of ground for the Wesleyan Seminary, which was to be located on West State street. A tract of land was purchased for this school, and considerable money raised for the erection of buildings, but the scheme was abandoned, later, and the land was sold in lots.

The old parsonage was purchased in 1866 for $3,500.00.

In 1881, the annual conference was again held in the old church at which Bishop Hurst presided. Among the notable events of this meeting were the address of welcome by William McKinley (who is still living), the "hersy" investigation, and the sealing of the deaconesses by the preachers over the election news from Indiana. In 1880 the membership had increased to 506. Court Street church has been considered by the Rock River Conference as the chief church outside of Chicago, and few outranked her there.

The following pastors have served this church:

The society has expended for church property $92,850.00.

The amount raised in 1902 for all purposes was $7,531.

The total amount expended for all purposes since the organization of the society, is about $300,000.00.

EPOWORTH CHURCH

The Epworth church, when organized, was known as the Ninth Street church, and was organized as a feeder to the First Methodist church.

The society was organized in the spring of 1875 by Rev. G. L. Wiley, who was then pastor on the First church. It had fifteen charter members. The Swedish Methodist church building was purchased for $1,500.00 and removed to Ninth street, at a cost of $75.00.

At that time there were but nine houses in the vicinity of the church.

"The auspices of the society were at first not very bright, but it has had a steady growth and is now in a prosperous condition.

The society has one of the finest organs in the city, and the music at the regular services is of the highest order.

The present membership is 74.

The total expenditures for all purposes is $24,375.00.

ST JAMES CHURCH AND RECTORY

The society was under the care of the First church during the first year, but at the beginning of the second year a pastor was appointed by the conference, since which time it has been independent.

In 1891 the old church was sold for $75.00 and removed from the site and a new church edifice erected at a cost of $3,000.00. The new church was removed to its present location at the corner of Parmelee street and Fourteenth avenue, and the name changed to Epworth church.

Following are the names of its pastors:

The Sunday school has a membership of 155.
ROCKFORD

STATE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

The State Street Baptist church was formally organized August 17, 1858, with thirty-four members. These had taken letters from the First Baptist church, for the purpose of establishing a church on the east side of the river.

Rev. Albert Newberg accepted the pastorate of the church September 14, 1858, at a salary of $300 in cash, $300 in board, and $200 additional if circumstances permitted. Prof. D. N. Hood was secured to conduct the music.

A small church was erected, at the corner of State and North Fifth streets, which is still standing. This church was dedicated February 2, 1860, and cost $600. This society first took the name Second Baptist church, which was changed to its present name October 26, 1858.

The house now occupied was dedicated November 18, 1868, and cost $35,000. The several pastors of this society have been Dr. Edward C. Mitchell, Revs. Spencer F. Holt, Henry C. Mabie, E. K. Chandler, A. M. Medbury, C. B. Lathrop, J. T. Burhoe, R. P. Y. Pierce, Langley B. Seay, and J. T. Burhoe, who now occupies this position for the second time.

The present membership is 437. The total membership is 1400. The total amount of money expended by the society for all purposes is about $200,000. The parsonage was purchased in 1883, and cost $2,500. The society is free from debt and in a prosperous condition.

The church edifice is being thoroughly refinished and decorated this year, at a cost of over $5,000.

SWEDISH METHODIST CHURCH.

The Swedish Methodist church was organized at the residence of P. A. Peterson, on Charles street, January 30, 1861, with a membership of twelve people.

The society purchased the old Westminster church for $600, and removed it to First avenue where it was nicely repaired in 1868. The present handsome brick edifice was completed in 1877, at a cost of $20,000, and was dedicated by Dr. C. E. Wandelve. The present parsonage was built in 1888 and cost $4,500.

The first Swedish Methodist paper ever published in the world is the Sandeboedt (Missions), under the auspices of this society and made its appearance July 18, 1862.

Mrs. A. Peterson is the only charter member of this society now living. He resides in the same house, and is about eighty years old.

This society has expended for all purposes nearly $50,000. The present church membership is 203, and on Sunday school has 450 members. The society is out of debt and in a prosperous condition.

FIRST PREACHERIAN CHURCH.

The First Presbyterian church of Rockford was formally organized in the Court House July 8, 1854, with thirty-eight members, H. C. Mesler and William Shepley were installed as ruling elders in October, 1854.

The society held its services in various places until it secured a house of worship for itself. The first place of worship was in the abandoned Congregational church on the east side of the river, and then in Peak's Hall. In December, 1853, services were held in Horsman's Hall, and later in Warner's Hall. February 1, 1854, services were again held in the Court House where the society was formally organized as stated.

February 10, 1857, Richard Jackson was elected to serve as elder and was installed February 22.

The choir, by vote of the session, was allowed the use of an instrument in leading the services of song in public worship, November 25, 1855.

Rev. H. A. Brown was chosen pastor of the church February 10, 1857, but declined the position, and Rev. John M. Fars was chosen in his stead January 1, 1858. Rev. Brown supplied the pulpit until his successor was appointed.

September 4, 1860, the present church site was bought of Michael Burns for $14,000. March 17, 1862, measures were set on foot to raise funds and N. G. Thompson was made depository of the fund. July 7, 1862, Mr. Thompson had received $206.49. The society was occupying at this time what was called the "Little Brown Church," on the corner of State and Winnebago streets, purchased of the Unitarians for $400. It was removed from the corner of Court and Elm streets to its present location and occupied by the society for the first time in 1865, the building has since been torn down.

Rev. Fars resigned the pastorate August 25, 1862, and Rev. Fauntuley Senour of Indianapolis, was installed in his stead as pastor, April 15; 1863, at a salary of $900.

September 21, 1863, resolutions were adopted, setting forth the necessity of building a new church, and on May 25, 1864, a building committee was appointed. The plan was to build a church costing not to exceed $115,000. October 30, 1864, a report shows that $9,904 had been subscribed.

March 31, 1866, Reverend Senour, after a successful pastorate of three and a half years, resigned and was succeeded by Rev. J. S. Grimes. The membership of the society was now 197.

WESTMINSTER PREACHERIAN CHURCH.

The Westminster Presbyterian church was organized as an offshoot from the First Congregational church, January 3, 1856, many of its charter members having come from the latter society. The meeting for organization was held in the old First Congregational church at the corner of First and Walnut streets, where an engine house now stands. Twenty-two members were enrolled at this meeting.

Meetings were first held in the old court house on North First street. A chapel was erected that year on the present church site at a cost of $600.00, which was occupied in the fall. This soon proved to be too small and Metropolitan Hall was utilized for church purposes until the present structure was ready for occupancy, which was completed in December, 1858, and cost $12,000.00.

Of the charter members three are now living, and Mrs. Joel B. Poole, at the age of ninety, Mrs. Frances E. Wheat, at the age of eighty-seven, and Mrs. E. T. Cleveland, aged seventy.

The names of 150 members have been placed upon the rolls of this society since its organization.

The present membership is 285. The enrollment of the Sunday school is 86.

The membership of this society is not large, but it has never asked nor accepted outside aid. It has been a liberal giver, and can be relied upon to do its share of benevolent work.

The foundation for the "new church edifice was laid in 1868 and the building was dedicated by the Reverend Grimes December 20, 1868.

The present lecture room was built in 1872 at a cost of $1,000, under the pastorate of Rev. A. I. Harmsburg, who commemorates the labors of the society March 4, 1870, and continued until the spring of 1874. Rev. James Cruickshanks became the pastor of the church December 23, 1874. The report shows that at this time the new church front had been completed at a cost of $10,000.

Rev. J. K. Fowler began his pastorate the first Sunday in January, 1878. In 1881 the church was remodeled and improved, at a cost of $5,145. At this time $50,000 had been expended in building operations.

Rev. John R. Sutherland, D. D., became the pastor in 1887, and he was succeeded by Rev. John Harkness, and he in turn by the present pastor, Rev. B. E. S. Ely, who will celebrate his first decade in the service in 1904.

The society has expended for all purposes about $150,000.

It is the purpose of this society to build a new church edifice during the year of its first semi-centennial, which occurs in 1904. The which to build a church, and $2,312 were subscribed. February 25, 1846, the ground for the location of the church was purchased for $325. This site is now occupied by the Centennial church and parsonage and which was occupied by the First church and parsonage. The First church was completed and dedicated in 1848, under the pastorship of Rev. James E. Wilson. March 13, 1848, a second subscription for $2,069 was secured, making a total of $4,381. The total cost of the church was about $7,000.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL EPISCOPAL ST. MARY'S
A GROUP OF CHURCHES

Preaching services had been held by various Methodist clergymen in private houses at various times, several years previously. A parsonage was built in the summer of 1838, on the east side of the river, the lower floor of which was used as a chapel, during the ministry of Rev. John Crummer.

The first Methodist service held in the county was at the home of Henry Enoch, in Guilford. Reverend Pillsbury preaching the sermon. December 6, 1845, subscription papers were started for the purpose of raising funds with church, with eighty members. A site was purchased on North Third street for $1,200, and a church was erected by John Early in 1858 at a cost of $4,000. This church was dedicated October 9, 1858, by Rev. Hooper Crews. A parsonage was built on the same site in 1859, at a cost of $600. In 1866 the church building was enlarged at a cost of $1,800. In 1871 a parsonage was bought on East State street for $3,000, and the parsonage on Third street was sold for $1,300. After a successful career of eighteen years, as has been stated, this society reunited with the parent church under the name of the Centennial church, in 1876.

The Winnebago Street church has enjoyed marked success during its history of sixty-one years. It has had the ministrations of thirty-eight pastors. Its present membership is 500. The total cost of the church building is $36,799.38, and the cost of maintenance and other expenses during the sixty-one years, or life of the church, would reach fully $185,000, making a grand total of $221,799.38.

Following are the names of the pastors who have served this church: Dr. Arnold, Wm. Coddins, L. S. Walks, Nathan Jewett, S. H. Stocking, John Crummer, Silas Boller, Richard Blanchard, Nathaniel P. Heath, G. D. Cahoon, John Lucock, N. P. Heath, J. C. Park, Wm. P. Jones, Francis A. Reed, Wm. Tasker, James Baume, Hooper Crews, Lewis Anderson, F. A. Reed, Joseph Hartwell, A. P. Mead, David Teed, Joseph O'dgers, Wm. H. Gross, Giles L. Wiley, Hooper Crews, Wm. A. Spencer, Dr. G. R. Vanborno, Wm. A. Smith, Martin E. Cady, Fred Porter, J. S. Bell, J. R. Hamilton, John Hall, W. W. Painter, John Thompson and Harlow V. Holt, the present pastor. The church was organized March 4, 1864, at the home of Israel Sovereign, with twenty-three members. The cornerstone of the present church edifice was laid August 24, 1864, and the building was dedicated February 12, 1865, by Rev. Thomas M. Eddy, and cost $8,000. The parsonage was built in 1867 and cost $1,250.

Following are the names of the pastors who have served this society: Rev. Robert Bentley, William D. Skelton, Henry L. Martin, John McCaldwell, F. A. Reed, R. S. Canine, Wm. S. Harrington, W. H. Smith, J. M. Clandening, Wm. H. Hight, Henry Lea, J. W. Richards, F. F. Farmilos, M. L. Norris, and F. E. Harding, the present pastor. The present membership is about 300.

The expenditures of the society for all purposes have been about $60,000. The church observed its thirty-ninth anniversary on June 14, 1903, which was by far the most notable day in its history. It was not only a day of jubilee, but one of ingathering of souls.

Rev. Joseph W. Powell of Buffalo, N. Y., had charge of the meetings and secured subscriptions to the amount of more than $12,000 for the purpose of building a new church edifice which will stand on the present church site. The present improvements will cost about $3,000. The society is free from debt and is in a very prosperous condition.

The church service was under the supervision of Court Street church, and as Winnebago Street church is an outgrowth of the Sunday school, this church is a daughter of Court Street church and a grand daughter of the First church, now the Centennial.

The church was organized March 4, 1864, at the home of Israel Sovereign, with twenty-three members. The cornerstone of the present church edifice was laid August 24, 1864, and the building was dedicated February 12, 1865, by Rev. Thomas M. Eddy, and cost $8,000. The parsonage was built in 1867 and cost $1,250.

Following are the names of the pastors who have served this society: Revs. Robert Bentley, William D. Skelton, Henry L. Martin, John McCaldwell, F. A. Reed, R. S. Canine, Wm. S. Harrington, W. H. Smith, J. M. Clandening, Wm. H. Hight, Henry Lea, J. W. Richards, F. F. Farmilos, M. L. Norris, and F. E. Harding, the present pastor. The present membership is about 300.

The expenditures of the society for all purposes have been about $60,000. The church observed its thirty-ninth anniversary on June 14, 1903, which was by far the most notable day in its history. It was not only a day of jubilee, but one of ingathering of souls.

Rev. Joseph W. Powell of Buffalo, N. Y., had charge of the meetings and secured subscriptions to the amount of more than $12,000 for the purpose of building a new church edifice which will stand on the present church site. The present improvements will cost about $3,000. The society is free from debt and is in a very prosperous condition. and when completed will cost about $20,000. South Rockford will then have one of the most beautiful church edifices in the city.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The Second Congregational church of Rockford was organized in 1849, with forty-seven members, nearly all of whom had taken letters from the First Congregational church, on the east side. A meeting for preliminary organization was held in the school house, on the west side Oct. 30, 1849, at which it was determined to hold a meeting November 14, 1849, for permanent organization. At this meeting articles of faith and rules of government were adopted, and Rev. Dexter Clary of Beloit, declared the Second Congregational church of Rockford duly organized. The society purchased and occupied the vacant building formerly occupied by the First Congregational church. In 1851 the building was found to be too small and its capacity was increased by the addition of forty feet to its length.

The rapid growth of the church as early as 1855, made the necessity for more room imperative, and the building of a new church was determined upon. A committee was appointed to carry out this determination. A site at the corner of South Church and Chestnut streets was purchased of L. H. Root for $3,000. Several plans for the building were submitted to the committee, among which was that of David and James Keyt of Piqua, Ohio. After careful consideration of the plans and the reliability of the architects, the contract for the construction of the church was awarded to the Ohio parties for $25,478.76. The church was completed and dedicated December 1, 1858. A pipe organ was placed in the church in 1863, at a cost of $2,500. The society purchased a parsonage in 1888, at a cost of $9,000.

The growth of this society kept pace with that of the city and in 1889 the matter of building a new and larger church edifice was taken up. For this purpose a subscription list was started with the intention of raising $80,000. The list was headed with a $10,000 subscription by Ralph Emerson, and in a short time the amount was practically provided for. A site was purchased at the corner of North Church and North streets. The corner stone was laid May 18, 1891, and the building was completed and dedicated May 8, 1892. This was one of the most noted church events in the history of Rockford. The building was one of the finest church edifices in the west, but it met a fateful day on Tuesday, February 20, 1894, when it was destroyed by fire. The destruction of this beautiful church was felt to be a public calamity, but the society did not despair. Immediate steps were taken to rebuild. The work was pushed vigorously forward and on the second day of the following December the church was re-dedicated.

The pipe organ destroyed with the church, cost $8,000, and the present organ was priced at $9,000, but was placed in the church for $8,500. It is a matter of note that Mrs. Chandler Starr has given twenty-seven years of service as organist in this society.

The present membership of this society is 815. The total membership is 1,681. The society has expended for real estate, buildings, current expenses and benevolence more than $500,000. Its net membership is 605.

The following pastors have served the church: Revs. Loring Porter, Joseph Emerson, J. E. Walton, M. F. Kinney, Frank P. Woodbury, W. M. Barrows, W. C. Haskell, and Peter M. Snyder, an average service of nearly seven years.

Sixteen different persons have served as deacons, one of which, W. A. Dickerman, served forty-three years, and Benjamin Blakemore forty years.

Seven different persons have served as clerk and treasurer, and eight as clerk. Five have served as treasurer. Thomas D. Robertson was treasurer for thirty-three years.

Thirty-three different persons have served as trustees, of which G. A. Sanford served thirty years.

The AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

This is the first church for colored people established in Rockford. It was instituted in 1891, with seven members and has steadily increased in numbers to fifty-two.

At the time of the establishment of this church many of the colored people were allied to other churches, but have gradually withdrawn from these and united with their own people.

The church purchased a site at 75 feet front on Elm street and 155 feet on South Winnemisco street, upon which a building used for church purposes. The building has a seating capacity of 135 and is usually well attended at the regular services. The property cost the society $2,000 upon which a debt remains of $1,085. This the society hopes to pay in the near future. The Sunday school has an average attendance of thirty-five pupils. The following pastors have served this society: Revs. F. B. Jones, J. C. Anderson, Richmond Taylor, Lewis Dixon, Sandy McDowell, P. P. Taylor and S. B. Moore, the present pastor, who came in October, 1900.

The total amount of money expended for all purposes is about $5,000.

ST. JAMES CATHOLIC CHURCH.

St. James congregation was organized in 1850, and in the following year, Rev. John Hampton was appointed pastor by Bishop Van de Velde. In 1852, Father Hampton erected a small wooden church and frame dwelling at the corner of North Second and Prairie streets. It was not until 1866, under the pastors of Rev. J. S. O'Neill, that a structure adequate to the needs of the growing congregation, was built on the adjoining lot. This parish originally included the eastern half of Winnemisco county and a part of Ogle county, but now contains four churches, the most important of which is St. Mary's, in West Rockford, which was built in 1885 by the Rev. E. H. Murphy, now of Chicago.

St. James church has had the services of the following pastors: Revs. John Hampton, George Hamilton, William Lambert, J. Bulger, John P. Donelan, J., S. O'Neill, Joseph McMahon, J. T. Butler and James J. Flaherty, the present pastor.

The parochial residence was built by the Rev. Dr. Butler in 1873, and the school, a four brick structure, by the present pastor, in 1891. The Dominican Sisters have charge of the school. The present church was built in 1866, and cost $20,000. Improvements are being made, which when completed, will bring the total cost up to $35,000. The parochial school cost $17,000, and the residence cost $6,000, making a total of $60,000 for real estate and improvements.

For maintenance and various church purposes the society has expended $252,837, making a grand total of $312,837 expenditure.

Father James J. Flaherty has faithfully served this society during the last eighteen years, and has earned the kind regards of not only his parishioners but of the people of the entire community. Rev. Frank P. Murphy is serving as assistant to Father Flaherty.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The Central Christian church is one of the more recently organized societies, and has made rapid progress. With twenty-three members and an unassuming building, November 25, 1896, it has had a most wonderful and successful career.

The noted evangelist, B. C. Prather, organized the society after holding a series of meetings in 1898. In 1899 Dr. D. R. Lucas, national chaplain of the G. A. R., was called to the pastorate, and during his pastorate meetings were held in the Y. M. C. A. hall. In September, 1900, Rev. O. P. Jordan was called to the pastorate in which capacity he is still serving. April 14, 1901, the society dedicated its first house of worship, at the corner of South Church and Chestnut streets. On May 1, 1903, the membership had increased to 145. Its total membership represents 179 individuals. The society has expended for all purposes $8,310.

FIRST SWEDISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The First Swedish Lutheran church was organized January 15, 1854, with a membership of seventy-seven. The first church building was a wooden structure and cost $1,600. The church was dedicated November 23, 1856, by Dr. Hasselquist preaching the dedicatory sermon.
ROCKFORD

Rev. A. Andres was called to the first pastorate, and began his service in August 1856. Reverend Andres built a parsonage on the church lot, which he sold to the society upon the termination of his pastorate, in 1860. The seating capacity of the first church was about 300. The growth of the society increased so rapidly that more room became a necessity and the construction of a brick church on the present church site, was begun in 1868 and completed in 1869, at a cost of $23,000.

This edifice also proved to be inadequate for the needs of the society as early as 1883, when the present church was built. The old structure was removed and its place occupied by the present beautiful building which cost $76,000, and has a seating capacity of about 2,000. This society has had a remarkable growth from its organization to the present time. The original membership of seventy seven has been increased to 2,200 during the forty-nine years of its history. The present church came from this church, but this did not seem to restrict its growth. The society is free from debt and is contemplating the building of a fine parsonage, which will doubtless be accomplished in 1904.

This society will celebrate its semi-centennial anniversary in February, 1904, which occasion will be one of the most important in its history.

The following pastors have served this church: Revs. A. Andres, A. W. Dahlsen, G. Peters, L. Johnston, J. Haff, and J. F. Seidoff. The Reverend Peters served continuously for twenty-two and a half years, and the Reverend Johnston eight years. Reverend Haff died in 1896, after serving about one year. The present pastor, Reverend Seidoff, succeeded the Reverend Haff, and has served continuously since.

In 1902 the society expended for all purposes $11,000, and the total expenditures during its work of nearly fifty years will reach the large sum of $350,000.

The church in this church cost $3,500. The society is one of the strongest and most flourishing in the state. The attendance from Sunday to Sunday has a large representation of men, and the average attendance is about 1,800.

TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The Trinity English Lutheran church, located on North First street, is one of the later additions to the large number of beautiful church edifices of the city. It is a brick structure and cost $10,500.

This society was organized March 10, 1895, with only forty members. Services were first held in the Y. M. C. A. building and later in the old Christian church. In 1896 the society purchased the old church property for $3,400. The old church edifice was torn down and the erection of the present church building was commenced in 1900. The building was completed and dedicated December 14, 1900.

Rev. W. H. Maas was the organizer of this society and was its pastor until he was succeeded by the present pastor, Rev. H. M. Banne, who took up the work April 1, 1896. The society has expended about $22,000 for the church property and the total amount of money raised for all purposes during its history will reach $34,000.

The society is free from debt and is in a prosperous condition. The total membership is 490. The Sunday school is one of the important features of the work of this society and has an enrollment of 650.

ST. MARY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH.

St. Mary's Catholic church was organized in 1885 by the Rev. E. H. Murphy, now of Chicago. This church was formed by an overflow membership from St. James church on the east side of the river, but is now one of the most important churches in the diocese. The present membership is about 3,000 and is constantly growing.

Since the pastorate of the Rev. E. A. Murphy, there have been the following pastors:

ROCKFORD

The site for St. Mary's church cost $8,500. The building cost $50,000, and the parochial residence cost $3,500, making a total value of $62,000 for society property. For maintenance and other objects about $150,000 has been expended. Adding this to church property and $212,000 represents the total expenditures of money by this society, for all purposes.

Rev. M. McLaughlin died while serving as pastor.

GRACE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Grace Methodist church is one of the later church societies which was organized in West Rockford in the fall of 1891. This thriving addition to the city had reached a point when many of its citizens felt the need of more convenient church privileges, and the organization of the church was the outcome of this condition.

A meeting was called and the desire for the organization of a Methodist society prevailed. The charter membership numbered thirty-nine.

The site for the church edifice cost $1,800. The building cost originally $5,500, but additions were recently made at a cost of $2,000. The parsonage property cost $2,500.

The church was organized under the administration of Presiding Elder Haigh, and the first pastor was Rev. Frank "D. Sheets who served five years. He was followed by Rev. Frank McNamer, who served two years. He was succeeded by Rev. J. B. Robinson and he in turn by Rev. Thomas E. Ream. The present pastor, Rev. E. K. D. Hester, took up the work in 1902.

The society is in a prosperous condition and is constantly growing. The present membership is 380.

The total value of church property is $11,600, and the society has expended for all purposes about $42,000.
DR. BROUGHTON'S SANITARIUM.

Dr. Broughton's Sanitarium for the treatment and care of those suffering from alcohol, other drug habits and special nervous troubles, as maintained its hold on first place in its field and is widening its beneficent work every day.

At the treatment of nervous diseases and those attributable to drug and alcoholic addictions, he was most cordially assisted by his fellow physicians having patients requiring such treatment. During his long service at Dwight south of the city, opening the new place in June, 1902.

The Key mansion has long been famed for its elegance in architecture, its spacious rooms and costly construction. For many years it stood as a model of fine residence-building. It originally cost $30,000.00, and this amount has finished differently and furnished in home like fashion. The first and second floors were also redesigned throughout, and the basement was entirely made over for the opening of a large dining room, club room, kitchen and other rooms.
The beautifully carved wood work was refinished all over the house and restored to the beauty

About three years ago, Dr. Broughton, who had for many years previous been employed by Dr.
Kusky at his Dwight Institute, leased Dr. Ran-son's Sanitarium property located on Rock river, opposite Harlem Park, and began the work he had so well fitted himself for.

A physician of the most ethical kind himself, and having 'earned a high reputation as a special-he formed an acquaintance which enlivened the globe. He found that he had friends in every civilized country who were glad to direct afflicted ones to him.

This recognition resulted in a greater number of patients coming to him than he could accommodate in the up-river home, so he purchased the Key mansion on the Rock river, just been increased by later improvements, before

Dr. Broughton purchased it.

He immediately began a series of expenditures which were to provide every convenience.
No expense was spared in refitting the home for Sanitarium purposes.

The great ball-room on the third floor was partitioned for sleeping rooms. Each room was which it mirrored when the house was first opened. A complete system of plumbing, hot water, heating and electric lighting appliances was installed.

The grounds which cover twelve acres and support the most varied and well cultured forest in this section were carefully groomed.
The doctor never paused in his work until he had placed the whole in the state of perfection he had always hoped to attain.

While the premises are less than two miles from the center of the city, they are so nestled among the trees and shrubbery that the utmost seclusion is insured, and one is as totally apart from city life as in a dense, remote woodland.

The charm and quiet of the place is especially desirable in the treatment of nervous diseases.

The management of the Sanitarium is perfect. Dr. and Mrs. Broughton seem fitted by nature for the care of such an institution. The strictest discipline is maintained in so kindly a way, that the place has none of the air of restraints, though the clock work of the controlling power moves incessantly.

Patients from every state in the union come to the Sanitarium. It is not uncommon to hear one say that he has traveled a thousand miles to reach Rockford.

Dr. Broughton's methods for treating his special class of diseases are confined to purely medical lines. He is not exploiting any proprietary remedy of any nature, kind or description. His is but a hospital for the treatment of habitual diseases along the lines any other specialist would act.

Unfortunately the recruits to this institution do not seem to grow less. The number he has cured does not seem to diminish the supply, for the rooms are continuously occupied.

The present—large building—which at one time appeared so roomy, is now too small for his needs. If he decides to extend his care to all who apply for relief, another building will be required.

The Broughton Sanitarium is one of the institutions of which Rockford people are justly proud. Its high professional character, coupled with the personal worth of its proprietor, has won the respect of all.
SCHMAUSS COMPANY.

Leonard and Joseph Schmauss, successors to Leonard Schmauss, their father, in the meat business, have established a large wholesale and retail trade. They buy and slaughter only the best stock the market affords. By this means, together with upright and honorable dealing, they have built up a large business. Their market at 313 East State Street, is shown in the cut, and is the finest and most conveniently and thoroughly equipped place of business of the kind in the city, or in this section of the country.

Besides this central place of business, they operate fine markets on West State, South Main, and Seventh streets, in this city.

They give employment to fifty people in the different departments of their business and are making additions and improvements to their facilities each year. The volume of business is constantly increasing and their customers are found in towns many miles from Rockford.

SKANDIA HARDWARE COMPANY.

This institution was established October 10, 1892, and is one of the youngest, and still one of the most prominent industries in the city. It is located at 327-329 Seventh Street. The store itself is a beautiful and attractive business place.

The present managers have had charge of the business since its inception. The officers are Sanford Olson, manager; J. T. Peters, secretary; Enoch Nicholson, head salesman; Charles Carlson, head of stove department, and Frank Turner in charge of the tinners' department. A cut of the Skandia Hardware Co.'s building accompanies this sketch.

The company has built up a very successful business by strict integrity, close attention to business, and by handling nothing but desirable goods.

They keep a complete line of shelf and heavy hardware, tinware, builders' hardware, machinists' tools and everything found in a first class up-to-date hardware store.
O. W. JOHNSON.

The subject of this sketch was born in Ontario, Canada, in 1873, and came to Rockford in 1894, when he engaged in business with Root, Johnson & Co. He continued with this firm one year, when J. E. Johnson and Tilsen bought the interest of Mr. Root, and the firm continued as Johnson & Johnson, remaining with the firm.

In 1899 he purchased the interest of J. E. Johnson and the firm continued as Johnson & Tilsen. In 1901 Mr. Frank Ward bought the interest of Mr. Tilsen and these parties have since constituted the firm. A general commission and wholesale business is carried on by this firm. Vegetables and fruits of all kinds are handled in carload lots or in smaller quantities. They have one of the finest cold-storage buildings in the country, where their goods are kept sound and fresh and are delivered to the dealer in the best possible condition. In connection with fruits and vegetables, the company handles annually, millions of eggs.

An office is maintained at 100 South Water street, Chicago, from which point Wisconsin, Illinois and a part of Indiana are supplied with goods. The Rockford trade covers northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. In order to handle the trade in central Wisconsin the firm has opened a branch office at Madison, which point will be used as a purchasing point for eggs as well as a distributing point for fruits and vegetables.

ROCKFORD

BIOGRAPHICAL

HON. WILLIAM LATHROP.

Hon. William Lathrop was born in Stafford, Genesee county, New York, April 17, 1825, and was educated in the public schools.

Mr. Lathrop studied law at Atica, New York, and was admitted to the bar in 1850. He removed to Knox county, Illinois, in the spring of 1850, and to Rockford January 1, 1851, where he has since resided.

When the city government was organized in 1852 he was elected to the office of city clerk.

Mr. Lathrop is not a politician, but was elected to congress on the Republican ticket in 1876, and served one term with marked ability and to the satisfaction of his constituents. He has a large law practice and enjoys the confidence of the people of the community.

Mr. Lathrop was married to Miss Adeline Potter of Rockford, and has five children, Julia, Anna, Edward, William and Robert. Edward and Robert are attorneys and have offices in the building with their father. The family residence is at No. 408 Rockton avenue.

RALPH EMERSON.

Ralph Emerson, son of Ralph and Eliza (Rockwell) Emerson, was born at Andover, Mass., May 3, 1831. He was a teacher in New England, where he also studied law. He removed to Bloomington, Illinois, when twenty years of age, where he continued the study of law. He became intimately acquainted with Abraham Lincoln, which acquaintance continued during the life of the latter. Through Mr. Lincoln's advice, he abandoned law and engaged in industrial pursuits.

He removed first to Beloit, Wis., and to Rockford in 1852, where he has since resided. He first engaged in the hardware business and then became a manufacturer. He has been prominently connected, either as president, vice-CAPT. JOHN H. SHERRATT.

Captain John Hall Sherratt was born in Winnebago county, Illinois, April 12, 1844, and was educated in the public schools. His parents, Thomas and Lydia Holmes Sherratt, were among the early settlers of the county and first resided upon a farm. Later his father opened a harness shop in Rockford. August 7, 1862, he enlisted as a private in the 74th Illinois volunteers. The regiment was with the army of the Cumberland and participated in several of the most noted battles of the war. He was mustered out of service January 31, 1866, with the rank of captain. Upon returning to Rockford, he became identified with the Rockford Insurance Company, as general agent for a time and later as assistant secretary, January 1, 1880, he severed his connection with the Rockford and became the secretary of the Forest City Insurance Company, which position he held ten years, and was then elected president, which position he still holds. He was a director of the Third National Bank for several years, and at the death of Mr. Spafford, in 1897, was elected president of this institution. Under his administration the business of the bank has met with marked success, and is one of the strong financial institutions of the city. Captain Sherratt was elected mayor of Rockford in 1889, and served two years. He assisted in the organization of the Country Club and was its first president. He is a member of the G. A. R. and Military Order of the Loyal Legion. He is the presiding officer of the board of trustees of Rockford College and a trustee of the Rockford City Hospital, in both of which institutions he is deeply interested. Captain Sherratt was married to Miss Harriet E. Wright, daughter of Hon. James M. Wright, of Rockford, July 9, 1873. Mrs. Sherratt is prominent in literary circles, is the author of "Mexican Vistas," and several beautiful poems. The family residence is at No. 1907 Heftlem avenue.

HON. ARTHUR H. FROST.

The subject of this sketch was born in St. Johnsbury, Vermont, May 12, 1856, and came to Rockford in 1861, when he received his education, being a graduate from the East Side High School. Judge Frost studied law in the office of the late N. C. Warner, and was admitted to the bar January 19, 1879. He was elected to the office of states attorney in 1892, and re-elected in 1896 and 1900. He resigned this office February 24, 1901, and was elected judge of the circuit court February 25, the same year, and was re-elected to this office June 1, 1903. Judge Frost has executed the duties pertaining to these several judicial offices with distinction and fidelity, and enjoys the confidence of the bar and the people, without exception. He practiced law as a member of the firm of Frost & McEvoy, from December, 1888 to March, 1891, with marked success. Socially he is a member of the K. of P., and the Masonic order. He was married to Miss Ada Southgate, May 17, 1883, and has four children: Bertha Helen, aged 19; Raymond Southgate, aged 17; Arthur H., aged 12, and Walter K., aged 7. The family residence is at 712 North Church street.
the Auburn and Waterville academies. He was graduated from the scientific department of Amherst College in 1855, and came to Rockford in October of that year.

He served as a civil engineer from 1855 to 1858 and then took up the study of law. He was admitted to the bar August 18, 1860, and practiced this profession in this city until 1873, when he was elected county judge which office he has held with honor and distinction continuously since. He was made city clerk in 1860 and held the office during six years. In 1863 he was elected to the office of city attorney.

It is an unprecedented fact that Judge Bailey has most acceptably filled the office of county judge in Winnebago county a greater number of years than any other incumbent in the history of the county.

Judge and Mrs. Bailey reside at No. 702 North Main street.

Gilbert Woodruff.

The subject of this sketch was born Nov. 30, 1817, at Watertown, N. Y., and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Woodruff. During his boyhood days he attended public school during the winter terms and worked on his father's farm during the summer. Having completed the common branches then taught in the public schools, he engaged—while still young—in the grocery business with a small capital, in his native city. At the end of six months he sold out his stock and opened a large store, which he conducted most successfully for two and a half years. By prudent and economical management during this time he had increased his capital so that he was enabled to invest considerable sums in real estate, and this business soon assumed large proportions. While engaged in the real estate business he built many important structures, among which was the Washington Hall block in Watertown. In 1857, he closed out his business in the east and moved to Dubuque, Iowa, where he spent a year looking after his financial interests. While engaged in the real estate business in Watertown, he loaned considerable money to parties in Wisconsin and Iowa, and had also invested in lands in both states. Mr. Woodruff came to Rockford in 1859, and during the first three years was engaged in the real estate business, exchanging his Wisconsin and Iowa lands for property in Rockford and vicinity. During this time he became possessed of forty farms in Winnebago and Ogle counties, which he afterward exchanged for city property. Rockford owes much of its prosperity, beauty and progress to the enterprise and devoted public spirit of such men as Mr. Woodruff has proved himself to be. He has ever taken a lively interest in all progressive improvements for the betterment and welfare of the city, and acceptably served as its mayor from 1873 to 1875. Woodruff's addition to the city will become an honorable monument to the family. He has seen the place grow from an humble village to the magnificent proportions of a beautiful city and has personally aided, by his influence and a liberal use of his money, in securing the location of manufacturing and industrial institutions in Rockford until it is conceded to be one of the most important manufacturing centers west of Chicago.

He was one of the originators of the Rockford National Bank and was elected its president in 1871, which office he has successfully administered continuously since. He was one of the founders of the Forest City Insurance Company in 1873 and acted as its president for many years. In 1875 he organized the Forest City Furniture Company of which he is still president, and this has become one of the largest industries in the city. To him is due a great share of the credit for the development and wonderful growth of the busy business thoroughfare known as Seventh street. He was among the first to erect business buildings in that section, had firm faith in the future of the street and has expended much money in business blocks along it, adding greatly to its beauty and stability. He can rightly be termed the Father of Seventh street, and its marvelous growth has always been to him a matter of special pride and satisfaction.

He also built two of the finest business blocks on West State street, one of which is the Rockford National Bank building and the other the Woodruff block just across the street.

To him can also be given much of the credit for the excellent street railway system enjoyed by Rockford today. He invested heavily in the property when it was far from a paying proposition, assisted in bringing about a reorganization and consolidation of the two city lines, together with the interurban, with the result that the service has been perfected, the lines extended, and it is today one of the best investments in the west. He was one of the organizers and a heavy stockholder in the Insurance Company of the State of Illinois, of Rockford, and was ever willing to back his faith in its future with his money. Time showed his wisdom and the company is now on a solid, paying basis.

Mr. Woodruff is an active member of the First Congregational church of Rockford. He is one of the trustees of Rockford College, which ranks high among the educational institutions of the west. He is a staunch republican. Socially he leads a quiet, unostentatious life and is always accessible to the most-humble of his fellow citizens. He has bestowed with a liberal hand and an unselfish spirit in all cases of necessity and distress when called upon for aid. In his business career and through life he has maintained a reputation of the highest integrity and most scrupulous honesty and among the long list of Rockford's honored citizens there are none more highly honored and esteemed than is Mr. Woodruff, the quiet citizen.

Mr. Woodruff was married to Miss Nancy Fay in 1840, and seven children were born to them, four of whom are still living; they being Mrs. Sarah W. Parmelee, Velney D. Woodruff, Mrs. Duncan H. Ferguson and William F. Woodruff.

Mrs. Woodruff died in 1875, and in 1879 Mr.'s Woodruff was married to Mrs. Augusta Todd and they now reside at the old homestead on South Third street.

Hon. E. B. Sumner.

attorney and counselor-at-law, was born in Peotone, Illinois, Nov. 14, 1850, and was gradustanding the fact that he would be heavily taxed therefor. His civic pride, when placed in the financial balance, outweighed all other considerations. Among other public enterprises, in which he was a moving spirit, was the North End addition in which he invested $250,000.00. Mr. Price was the president of the Water Works and the Price-Glove Company, president of the Rockford Silver Plate Company, and vice-president of the Rockford City Railway Company, in all of which institutions he was a heavy investor. Mr. Price was liberal to a fault and many were the charities extended to both public and private enterprises. — Mr. Price experienced heavy losses in some of his enterprises, about $500,000 having been swept away as reverses came, but at this he did not falter. New energy was thrown into his business and much of the losses recovered.

After spending, the best part of his most active and valuable life in the upbuilding of the city of his adoption and of his best love, he was called to his long home at five o'clock in the afternoon of May 20, 1903.

Mr. Price married Miss Frances Irene Warner of Milan, Pa., in 1863, and had one child, who is Mrs. Maude Price Knight. Mrs. Price has the daughter, Maude, and two grandchildren, Henry Price Knight and Mary Daphne Knight, are now living. The family residence is at No. 929 North Main street.

NORMAN F. THOMPSON.

Norman F. Thompson was born in Perry, Georgia, June 27, 1856, and came to Rockford with his parents in 1857, when he received the benefit of the city schools and where thorough preparation was made for a broad and finished education. He graduated with honors from the Yale University in the class of 1881, and has since been identified with important business interests in New York City, Buffalo and Rockford. He was for several years connected with the Equitable Mortgage Company of New York, as assistant secretary and treasurer, and later became the treasurer of the Equitable Securities Company of New York. He resigned this position to take charge of reorganizing a machine-screw company in Buffalo, and was assistant receiver of the Equitable Mortgage Company.

Mr. Thompson married Adeline E. Emerson, eldest daughter of Ralph Emerson, on January 10, 1883. Their children are Norman F. Thompson, Jr., aged 19, at Yale University; is a son of the late Jeremiah Carleton of Barre, Vermont, and his wife, Betsy Robey Carleton of Dunstable, New Hampshire.
INGALLS-CARLETON

INGALLS CARLETON

Carleton was born in Marshfield, Vermont, March 30th, 1824, of English descent, and is a representative of the twenty-sixth generation from the noted Baldwin De Carleton, who lived in England in the year 1666, and whose descendants occupied Carleton Hall for six hundred years. Later, other descendants of prominence appeared, among whom were Sir Dudley Carleton, a statesman, who was created Viscount Dorchester by Charles I., died in 1651, and Sir Guy Carleton, first Governor General of Canada, and the first Lord Dorchester.

Among the Carleton family of this country are found farmers, soldiers, missionaries and men of letters. Mr. Carleton's son, Leonard Ingalls, represents the twenty-seventh, and his grandson, Robey Freeman Carleton, the twenty-eight generation of Carletons of the tenth century. Mr. Carleton, his son and grandson, are entitled to the family coat of arms of Oxfordshire, London and Surrey, the motto of which is, "Non ad Periculum."

Mr. Carleton was educated in the public schools of his native town, and when young taught three winter terms of school. He represented his district in the Vermont legislature in 1855. In 1856 he came to Rockford, but soon returned to his Vermont home, where he was re-elected to the legislature. In 1857 again went west and located in Rockton, where he formed a partnership with the late George H. Hollister, and built a large flouring mill and elevator, and engaged in the milling and grain business. After a successful ten years' business the firm sold its milling interests. Mr. Carleton removed to Rockford, where he has since resided in retirement, looking after his large real estate interests in this county and South Dakota. His residence in East State street is one of the most beautiful homes in this city, and has been occupied by the family since 1877.

Mr. Carleton is one of the few surviving attendants who heard the great Lincoln-Douglass debate in Peoria in 1858, and the many stirring incidents of the occasion are still fresh in his memory. He has always taken a deep interest in public affairs, and by his generosity his aid in the development and substantial growth of the city.

He was married at Rockton in 1869 to Miss Amy Lawrence, a daughter of Luther Lawrence, and his wife, Adella Loomer Lawrence, of Rockton. Mrs. Carleton's father traces his ancestors to Sir Robert Lawrence of Achen Hall, England, who was knighted in the year 1190. Among his descendants have been many people of prominence and worth. Conscious to this country were Amos and Abbott Lawrence of Groton, Massachusetts, the original home of John Lawrence, of Suffolk, England, who settled there in 1635.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton have one son, Leonard Ingalls, who was born at Rockton. His wife is Alice Freeman Carleton, a daughter of the late William Edward and Sarah Hill Freeman of Cheltenham, England.

Two children have been born to them, Leonard Ingalls, Jr., who died January 20, 1902, aged two years, and Robey Freeman Carleton, who was born August 28, 1902.
He served as a clerk of the Supreme Court, at Ottawa, Illinois, from September, 1873, to September, 1875.

He was appointed superintendent of the city schools of La Salle, Illinois, in 1875, and served with distinction in this capacity two years.

Mr. Works was then made deputy clerk of the Circuit Court at La Salle, Illinois, and served one year.

During the year 1878 he was in the government employ in the Indian service on the Missouri river.

He began the practice of law in Rockford in January, 1879, and soon became one of the most brilliant advocates at the bar in the state.

He was elected State Attorney for Winnebago county in 1880, which office he held for three consecutive terms, with honor to himself and to the perfect satisfaction of the people.

He was elected as a member of the State Board of Equalization in 1892 and again in 1900, which office he administered with distinction, having served upon one of the most important committees of the board, and was acknowledged to be an authority in the determination of intricate legal questions coming before the board in transacting its business.

Mr. Works was married to Miss Eva Enoch, daughter of Hon. A. T. Enoch, in November, 1880, and had four children, Maren S., Mabel Jr., Helen K. and Charles Enoch.

JOHN LAKE.

John Lake was born on Blackford Farm, Selworthy Parth, England, March 27, 1821, said farm was then the possession of his paternal grandfather, who was a farmer, dairyman, miller, malster, and a dealer in all kinds of seeds. William Lake, the father of John Lake, was also born on Blackford Farm in 1798, and died when John was but six months old. John's mother married again, and he was reared by his grandmother in the old home. Mr. Lake was given an excellent educational advantages by private teachers.

He commenced to earn his own living when fourteen years of age by working on a farm. In May, 1836, he proposed going to the United States, but was opposed in this by his family.

He told them he had resolved to go the following year, and they finally gave their consent. The first week in May, 1837, when but sixteen years of age, he left his beautiful English home to gain a competence for himself in the United States. He secured passage on the "Segerm," a sailing vessel, loaded with iron for Philadelphia. The voyage was beset by fearful storms and continued through seven long weeks before the arrival at Philadelphia.

He immediately set out for Rockford, where he expected to join his uncle Thomas, but was detained by illness at Rockport, a small town on the Ohio river, and did not arrive in Rockford until December 1, 1837.

He did farm work for three years, and then apprenticed himself to Thomas Thatcher, a joiner, carpenter and architect, with wages at $5.00 per month and board. At the end of one year he felt competent to start in business for himself in the same line. He worked by the day and did contract work until 1853, when he formed a partnership with P. Hoge to engage in the lumber trade. Their yard was located where the East Rockford, Chicago & Northwestern passenger station now stands, which was... at that time, the terminal of the Chicago & Galena railway. When the railway was extended across the river in 1853 they removed the yard to the West side, where they did business until 1856, when they sold out to Mr. Freeman.

In November, 1856, Mr. Lake visited his old home, returning to Rockford in February, 1857, and engaged in the lumber business again on the corner of Third and State streets, where they did business until 1859, when he sold out to Cook & Bro. In 1863 he formed a partnership with Henry Fisher on the west side, and carried on the lumber business until 1867, when he again sold out and revisited England, extending his journey to Ireland, Scotland, France, Italy, Switzerland and Germany, returning to Rockford in the fall. In 1866 he formed a five-year partnership with Eddy Perry, which was terminated in 1874, after which he spent three years in Europe. He visited California in 1885.

He was vice president of the Rockford Fire Insurance Co. from 1866 to 1883, when he was made president.

In 1873 he was elected an alderman from the Second ward, and served continuously for ten years, a part of this time he was also its supervisor.

In 1877 he was the chairman of the Board of Education.

He was Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. and Representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the United States for six consecutive years.

Mr. Lake was married to Miss Alice M. Danley, daughter of Cornelius and Sarah Danley, of Harlem, Illinois, October 11, 1849. Seven children were born to them, but three died in infancy.

The family residence is at No. 2211 East State street.

HORACE BROWN.

Horace Brown was born in Springfield, Windor county, Vermont, June 24, 1824. He is a descendant on his father’s side, of one of our oldest American families which traces its lineage to Edward Brown, who was born in 1571, in Horton, Kenby county, Kent, England, and who came to America, arriving February 17, 1634, on the ship Hope well from London, England, and settled in Ipswich, Mass.

The grandfather of our subject, Eliza Brown, was born in Ipswich, Mass., January 7, 1748, and removed to Hingham, Mass., where he married Merritt Bates, and settled in Winchendon, Mass., in 1773. He was a patriot of the Revolutionary War, and participated in the battle of Bunker Hill. He removed to Springfield, Vermont, in 1776, where the father of our subject.

arriving in Rockford May 12th. The population of the township at that time was about 1,800.

He purchased a farm in New Milford township which he leased, and returned to his home in the east where he was married September 12, 1850, to Miss Mary A. Thayer, who was born February 16, 1827, and immediately returned to Rockford.

The following spring he returned to Lansingburgh, where he worked in the oil cloth factory until June, 1853. When he again returned to Rockford and traded his farm for West side property, and engaged in the livery business in partnership with W. G. Reynolds. After two years of successful business he sold out his interest and returned to his native town, where he engaged in several lines of business. In the spring of 1859 he again returned to Rockford, where he has since resided on what is known as Park Ridge, on the East side of the river. The home is one of the most beautifully located in the city.

Mr. Brown is a charter member of the Rockford National Bank, and has served as its vice president since its organization in 1871. He was also a charter member of the Forest City Insurance Co., and has served as a member of its board of directors and as treasurer and vice president. He was elected president of the Skanda Furniture Co. upon its organization. He also served as director and president of the Insurance Company of the State of Illinois during the first year of its business. Upon the death of Gilbert Woodruff he was elected president of the Rockford National Bank.

William Thayer, Brown, only son of Horace and Mary Brown, was born in Rockford, Illinois, March 2, 1854. Is a member of the firm of A. C. Spaulding & Bros. He resides in East Orange, N. Y. His office is at 126 Nassau street, New York. He married Miss Mary L. Spaulding, August 24, 1875, who was born October 23, 1854, and has four children, Horace S., Harriet Irene, William Thayer, Jr., and Elizabeth.

Alice C. was born March 26 1856. She married D. H. Ferguson, of Denver, Colorado, and had one son, Donald Church Fergusen. She died March 23, 1890. Carrie A. was born July 27, 1860, and died April 10, 1885.

JOHN DEXTER WATERMAN was born in Decatur, Otsego county, New York, December 27, 1846, and is a son of Hamilton and Mary Waterman.

When sixteen years of age, he became a clerk in a general store, at Worcester, New York. Eighteen months later he entered the United States Naval service and served on Admiral Porter’s flagship during the last year of the civil war. At the close of the war he came to Rockford and engaged in railroad and manufacturing interests. He served as Rockford’s postmaster under both Cleveland administrations.

He organized the Forest City National Bank and was made its president, which office he still holds. Although this bank is one of the youngest in the city, its business and reliability ranks second to none.

Mr. Waterman married Miss Emma J. Wulford, of Cohoes, New York, in 1871. The family residence is at No. 754 North Church street.
HON. E. W. BROWN.

The subject of this sketch is a son of the late Judge William Brown, and was born in Rockford, August 3, 1837, which city he since has been his home. There is no other resident of Rockford today, whose life and development has been so much an integral part of the city's growth and vital interests as that of Mr. Brown. Here is where he received his education, in the city schools, and developed business abilities which are rarely attained by the most astute in business matters. For a time he attended the schools at Mt. Morris, but was obliged to give up study on account of the strain upon his eyes and entered an active business life.

He was a member of the firm of Brown & Eckstein Drug Co., which did a prosperous business for five years, the volume of business reaching as high as $60,000.00 per year. After disposing of his interests in the drug business he entered the wholesale oil business. He secured a contract with the Standard Oil Co. by which he was able to get oil on the best possible terms and to supply many surrounding towns with this product. He built the first oil-tank in Rockford, and equipped himself thoroughly for doing a large business. His success in his business is measured by the fact, that in six months on a capital of $3,000.00, when he sold his oil business to John R. Porter & Co., it amounted to $30,000.00.

In 1884 the Illinois Central Railroad Company, while building an air line from Chicago to Freeport, and in their survey decided to build leaving out Rockford and locate their line east of New Milford, crossing the river at Holfington Rocks below Rockford. Judge Brown, who was personally acquainted with Mr. E. T. Jeffries, general manager of the Illinois Central, and Shuyvesant Fish, president of the road, made it a personal matter to see that Mr. Jeffries came to Rockford to look the city over prior to a final settlement upon the location of the line. Mr. Jeffries visited Rockford with Isaiah Randolph, chief engineer of the road, and was entertained at Judge Brown's home. They met with a number of prominent manufacturers, including Ralph Emerson, W. A. Talcott, John P. Manly, H. W. Price and Gilbert Woodruff, and that night Mr. Jeffries decided to build into Rockford.

The services of Mr. Brown were secured at once to proceed to obtain a right of way for the new line. Active operations in promoting this valuable enterprise for the city of Rockford were instituted on the first day of November, 1884.

Mr. Brown was constituted the first agent of the company in this city, which position he still holds. His thorough business ability is recognized by the company, and his advice is sought after in important matters, and his judgment is implicitly relied upon.

There is doubtless no other agent in the service of the company that has so great an influence in the conduct of its business as does Mr. Brown. Through his effort, sagacity, and business tact, a small business in 1864, has grown until it exceeds that of any other railway interest in this city to-day in its property investments and volume of business. The company now owns a frontage of 800 feet on South Main street, and a yardage three-quarters of a mile in length free from grade crossings. Its passenger and freight buildings are the finest in the city. Its freight business now averages eighty cars per day and its passenger business is large. Forty people are given employment in the various departments of the company's business in the city.

In 1885, Mr. Brown was elected an alderman from the old second ward for seven years. His work in the council demonstrated the fact that he was admirably fitted to preside at the head of this city's affairs, and he was re-elected in 1889 and 1899. After a continuous service of six years as mayor of the city, Mr. Brown felt his railway and private business imperatively called for so much of his time that he could not possibly give the attention to the duties imposed upon the mayor and declined further service in this office. In 1903, great pressure was brought to bear upon him to secure his consent to a re-election, but for the reasons above stated, he steadfastly declined the honor.

During Mayor Brown's administration, many of Rockford's most valuable permanent improvements were made. Through his efforts and recommendation, the present system of water supply was instituted in 1897, and was put into effective operation by Mr. D. W. Mead, at a cost of $35,000.00 and affords a supply of 7,000,000 gallons of water daily. The water works park was a product of the general improvements instituted. The present system of macadamizing was instituted, which is doubtless the most economical and the best in the world. As a result of this system, Rockford now enjoys the use of more than forty miles of macadamized streets. The fire department was provided with more efficient means for doing effective service. Mayor Brown's appointment to the various city offices were men eminently fitted for the position they occupied.

A review of Mayor Brown's several annual messages to the council, demonstrates a determination to adhere to a rigid economy in the expenditure of the city funds, a just and exact enforcement of the laws, and together with the co-operation of the council to so administer the city government as to insure stable progress and permanent good.

Mr. Brown married Miss Lizzie A. White, a daughter of Joshua White, a prominent citizen and large land owner of Stillman Valley, Illinois and has three children. The family residence is at No. 312 South Third street.

CHARLES SABIN

Was born at Pomfret, Conn., in 1823, and was educated in the public and private schools of New England. He came to Rockford in 1854.
country. During his business career here, he has seen the place grow from the habitation of a hamlet to that of a magnificent city, and his life has been an integral part of this growth. Indeed the city owes its prosperity and substantial growth to the integrity and business acumen of such of its solid business men as Mr. Salmon has proved himself to be. He is entitled to the gratitude of his fellowmen and to the rest he now enjoys.

LOREN L. MORRISON

Was born at Hebron, Jefferson County, Wisconsin, November 18, 1852, and was educated in the public schools of Sheboygan, Woodstock, and Hartford, Vermont. He was a student at the Waverly Academy, Worcester, Massachusetts, and at Waterville Classical Institute, Waterville, Maine, and was graduated in the classical course from Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois, June 26, 1879. During the first four years after graduation he occupied the position of Principal of the graded and high schools of Lyndon, Watauga county, Illinois, and at the same time gave his attention to the study of law under the direction of the Hon. John G. Manseke, of the firm of Manseke & Ward, of Sterling, Illinois, and later continued his legal studies with the firm of Staples & Gooding of Worcester, Mass.

He came to Rockford June 12, 1883, where he has since resided. Shortly after his arrival here he was admitted to the bar, and has since given his attention to general law practice, devoting considerable time and effort to the United States courts and patent cases.

Mr. Morrison has served the city as police magistrate during the last sixteen years, and the administration of the office has been eminently satisfactory to the people.

Socially he is connected with the Masonic order, having been made a Mason in 1889, joining Rockford Lodge No. 102. He has taken the Scottish Rites degrees up to and including the thirty-second, his membership being with Freemont Consistory. He is also a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, the Knights of Pythias, and the Royal-League, of which he is past supreme vice archon.

Judge Morrison was married to Mtsa Mary Louise Ball of Hokin, Massachusetts, June 19, 1882, and has three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison are members of the State Street-Baptist Church.

Politically, Judge Morrison is a staunch Republican.

HON. ROBERT H. TINKER is a son of Rev. and Mrs. Reuben Tinker, and was born at Lebanon, Sandwich Islands; (now the Republic of Hawaii) December 31, 1856, and came to Rockford in 1864. He has been identified prominently in the manufacturing interests and substantial growth of Rockford, and is largely interested in the water power, the source of Rockford's wealth and prosperity. He was prominent and president of the Chicago, Rockford & Northern Railway Co., which road is now merged in the Burlington system, has served as mayor of the city, (1875-9), president of the Rockford Water Power Co., and is connected officially with many other Rockford industries. Mr. Tinker is a connoisseur in art work and his aesthetic taste is conspicuously shown in and about his beautiful home. Nature has done much to make this spot romantic, and Mr. Tinker has harmonized his improvements with the elements of nature that the place is a "tinge of beauty and a joy forever." In the home is a large collection of curio, obtained by Mr. Tinker in his foreign travels. It contains a library, unique in construction and filled with rare and costly volumes.

In 1870, Mr. Tinker was married to Mrs. Mary Manns, the widow of John H. Manns, the noted inventor and manufacturer of manufacturing machines. His inventions paved the way for much of Rockford's wonderful growth and success. Later on, Mr. and Mrs. Tinker disposed of the beautiful Manns home on South Main street and made their permanent residence in the Swiss cottage, where, after years of happy wedded life, Mrs. Tinker was called home, leaving a devoted husband and a host of friends to mourn her loss. Mr. Tinker's skill and aesthetic taste will be called into service in the beautifying of the public Library and Memorial hall grounds.

COLONEL WILLIAM NELSON

Col. William Nelson was born at Sycamore, Illinois, October 29, 1857, and was educated in the city schools and high school of Rockford. He entered a business career, while young, in which he has attained eminent success, and now holds prominent official and executive positions in several of Rockford's most substantial institutions.

Col. Nelson and brother erected the beautiful Hotel Nelson as a memorial to their father, the Inventor of the Nelson Knitting Machine, and founder of the Nelson Knitting Company.

The Nelson is a popular hotel, and its parlors are utilized for the purpose of holding elaborate social functions and political committee meetings.

Mr. Nelson is president of the Nelson Hotel Company, vice-president of the Forest City Knitting Company, vice-president of the B. F. Barnes & Company, and director in the Nelson Knitting Company.

Socially, he is a member of the Freeport Consistory, Shriner, Tebaia Temple, Rockford, and Knight Templar Crusader Commandery, of Rockford, and the Elks.

When eighteen years of age he entered the Rockford National Bank as messenger, and was elected to the position of assistant cashier, the bank January 11, 1881. In January, 1888, he was elected cashier, which position he still holds. The bank, with which he has been identified for so many years, is one of the strongest and most reliable financial institutions in the state. Its capital is $100,000.00, and has surplus of the same amount.

Mr. Woodruff has been instrumental in the development of many of Rockford's most la portant improvements. Seventh street, one of the finest business streets in the city, owes its success largely to the efforts and financial aid of Mr. Woodruff. The railway system found a friend in Mr. Woodruff, and its success and prosperity are due to his timely aid. He is a large real estate owner, and devotes much time and money in its improvement for the beautifying of the city and the good of its citizens.

Mr. Woodruff is a director and treasurer of the Rockford and Interurban Railway and the Rockford and Freeport line. He is a director and treasurer of the Insurance Company of the State of Illinois and assisted in its organization. He is the vice president and director of the Forest City Furniture Company, treasurer of the Central Heat and Power Company, director in the Hixon Map Company, and treasurer of the Country club.

He was elected to the office of city treasurer in 1893 and served two years and was again elected to this office in 1903.

He was elected to the presidency of the Forest City Land and Lumber Company in 1903. The company owns 10,000 acres of timber land in the Wisconsin Valley, in Mississippi, and is now cutting a mill at Woodruff, named in honor of Mr. Woodruff. The principal office of the company is in Rockford.

Mr. Woodruff married Miss Lizzie C. Cotton of Rockford, and resides at No. 515 North Main street.

HON. FREDERICK HAINES

is a son of Anthony and Adaline (Rowe) Haines, who settled in Rockford in 1834. His father was a native of Marietta, Pa., and his mother of Bucyrus, Ohio, who were married in 1853. Anthony Haines was engaged in the grain business in Rockford for many years, and carried on an important manufacturing plant for several years. He was a member of the county board of supervisors for eighteen years, and represented the first ward in the city council in 1863 and 1864.

The subject of this sketch was born in Rockford, August 30, 1863, and was educated in the city schools, graduating from the High School in the class of '79.

He first engaged in business with J. McDermid in the coal trade with whom he remained one year. He assisted in the organization of the Rockford Street Railway Co., and was its superintendent until the plant was changed to electric power. He then spent two years with the Rockford Construction Co.

In 1900 he was elected to the important position of treasurer of the Forest City Insurance Co., which position he now holds. This company's business ranks with the foremost companies of the country and is widely and favorably known.

In the political campaign of 1902 Mr. Haines was nominated on the Republican ticket as a candidate for representative in the State legislature, and was elected by a large majority. At the session of 1903 he was placed on several important committees; and his services were most acceptable to his constituency.

HON. FREDERICK HAINES

Socilly, he is a Mason, K. of P., and Elk. Mr. Haines was married to Miss Minnie Bushnell, of Sterling, in 1887, and has one son.

The family residence is at No. 620 East State street.

RUSSELL BROUGHTON, M. D.

Was born in Racine, Wisconsin, May 16, 1842. His parents, John and Amanda Broughton, removed from Hoosick Falls, New York, by horse team, in 1841, to Albany, township, Green county.

Brohead, Wisconsin, a member of the Wisconsin Medical Society since 1877, and of the American Medical Association.

He resides at the Sanitarium.

Dr. Broughton was married to Miss Julia A., daughter of the late Hon. Daniel Emery of Albany, Wisconsin, in 1869, and has two sons, William S., who is a medical student at Washington, D. C., and James R., in the employ of a large electrical power plant company at Provo, Utah.

HON. HENRY ANDRUS is a native of Illinois, having been born on a farm in the town of Harlem, Winnebago county, November 4, 1834, and was educated in the public schools. He resided on the farm until

RUSSELL BROUGHTON, M. D.

Wisconsin, where they entered a quarter section of government land. His father died upon the farm in 1896. His mother is still living.

Dr. Broughton attended Milton College at Milton, Wisconsin, and Bryant & Stratton's Commercial College at Milwaukee. He graduated from Rush Medical College in 1869, and practiced medicine at Brohead, Wisconsin, twenty-one years. He was in charge of all opium and other drug patients for nine and one-half years at the Keeley Institute, at Dwight, Illinois.

Two years ago he opened a Sanitarium in Rockford, where he gives special treatment in nervous and drug cases. The Sanitarium is beautifully located, and is a quiet retreat for those desiring medical attention for such ailments.

Socilly, Dr. Broughton is a member of the Elks Benevolence Lodge No. 91, A. F. & A. M., Broedhead, Wisconsin; Evensville Chapter, No. 35, R. A. Masons, Evensville, Wisconsin; a charter member of the W. W. Patton Post No. 90, his marriage to Miss Jennie Love in 1868, when he removed to a farm in the township of Pecatonica, where he resided six years. He then removed to a farm in the township of Cherry Valley, where he remained until his removal to Rockford about five years ago.

Mr. Andrus served as the supervisor of the town of Cherry Valley for nineteen consecutive years, and during that time he was honored by the Board of Supervisors by being made its chairman for seven consecutive years, a distinction not attained by any of his contemporaries. He was elected to the lower house of the State legislature in 1896 and re-elected in 1898. In 1900 he was elected to the upper house, and still represents the Tenth Senatorial district as its senator.

In the spring of 1877 Mr. Andrus moved to Rockford, and immediately engaged in the practice of medicine.

The present residence of Mr. Andrus is at 624 North street in this city. Among the more important measures, for which Senator Andrus is entitled to credit in securing enactment into law, is the enabling act which gave the people of Winnebago county the rights and privileges of voting on an appropriation by the Board of Supervisors, of a sum of money for the building of the Memorial Hall in memory of the soldiers and sailors of Winnebago county.

He also rendered conspicuous service in securing the enactment of the measure providing for the building of the monument at Stillman Valley. Also several measures in the interests of public libraries.

ROBERTREW

Was born in England in 1858. When eight years old he was set to work on a farm, receiving as wages four cents a day, continuing until in his twelfth year, during which time his wages were annually raised until they reached thirteen cents a day.

At that time there were no free public schools in England, and young Rew acquired the first rudiments of education at night school and Sunday school.

In 1867 he came to Rockford, where he has since resided. He first lived in the family of Hon. John Lake, attending school at the old East side high school. Professor Freeman, who was then principal, placed him in the Intermediate work in the harvest field at thirty dollars a month and board. After working two months with the sixty dollars earned, Mr. Rew went to the Northwestern University, at Evanston.

After paying a term's tuition, a month's board and buying textbooks, his money was all spent. Obtaining work at digging cellar and unloading vessels at the wharf, he succeeded in earning enough money to pay his way through the first year in college.

Returning to Rockford in the fall he taught a district school during the winter, at the same time keeping up with his class in the University, and by dint of hard work, hard study, and much privation, succeeded in completing three years of the college course. At the end of the third year he came back to Rockford in July with only fifty cents in money left.

The first thing necessary was to find some work, and on East State street he found a cord of wood to be sawed. Borrowing a buck and saw the young man went vigorously to work. While at work the late Judge William Brown passed by, and requested Mr. Rew, after he had finished his job, to come and stay at his home for the rest of the summer and tutor "Eddie," "Frankie," and "May," as the judge lovingly called them.

The Judge had scarcely gone out of sight when the late J. T. Miller, for a long time assessor of the town of Rockford, and then a member of the school board of the city of Rockford, came by and after a short conversation hired Mr. Rew to teach in the Second Grammar School of East Rockford. The wages were $450 per year for ten months' work. The first year there was an assistant teacher, but the second year Mr. Rew contracted to do all the work for $600 a year. The four following years Mr. Rew taught in the "schools of Rockford," in the high school on the East Side, under the late Professor Freeman, and in the high school on the West Side, under Professor Blodgett. Among his pupils were the Hon. Charles W. Ferguson, Hon. Frank S. Reegan, Mr. Frank Brown, Hon. W. H. Butterworth, Jr., Horner Porter, Mr. Samuel Stanley, Mr. Charles Porter, and many other well known citizens.

He not only taught in the schools, but as tutor of Latin and mathematics after school hours, prepared pupils for entrance to the universities. Among those whom he so tutored are Mrs. Stanwood, formerly Miss Louisa Brockway, Miss Julia Lathrop and Mrs. Fred Thompson.

In 1879 Mr. Rew was united in marriage to Miss Nellie T. Godwin, daughter of the late Dr. A. E. Godwin.

While teaching he studied law nights, and in 1882 was admitted to the bar. The following spring he was elected Justice of the Peace to complete the term of the late Justice Works.

When the first public sewer was laid in Rockford, the commissioners appointed to assess the cost were the late Hon. Thomas Butterworth, the late J. T. Miller and Mr. Rew. This was the Church street sewer. Every property owner but one filed objections, and every lawyer at the then Rockford bar appeared to contest the assessment, but the assessment stood. The same commissioners also made the assessment for the Market street sewer. In 1885 Mr. Rew was appointed, with the late Mayor N. C. Warner, to revise the city ordinances.

Mr. Rew has a large law practice, especially in the Maternity cases. He has traveled quite a little, having been to Europe twice, and all over the United States and the British possessions, in North America.

H. C. SCOVILL.

The parents of the subject of this sketch were natives of Connecticut, but removed to Onondaga County, New York in 1816. H. C. Scovill was born in Oswego County, New York, and was educated in the public schools. He spent his boyhood days upon the farm. He came to Illinois in 1853 and settled in Ogle county, where he still works at farming. He was a student at the Mount Morris Seminary. In Aug. 1869, he enlisted as a private in Co. K, 92nd Illinois Infantry. He was made a second lieutenant of his company and afterward promoted to first lieutenant and captain. His regiment was assigned to the Army of the Cumberland. The regiment was afterward ordered mounted by General Rosecrans and to be equipped with Spencer rifles. This was done and the regi-
SAMUEL H. RECK.

Samuel H. Reck was born in Rochester, Pa., December 14, 1846, and was educated at Augustana College, Rock Island, Illinois, where he took his degree in 1866. He was graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, in 1890, and from the law department of the Northwestern University in 1895.

He was the founder of St. Mark's English Lutheran church in Boston, Mass., 1890-93, which is the first institution of the kind in that city.

Mr. Reck practiced law in Chicago and Rockford from 1895 to 1899. He is one of the organizers of the manufacturing company, B. F. Barnes Company, of Rockford.

Mr. Reck entered the employ of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States in April, 1902, and has been the general agent of the Rockford district since January, 1903. His offices are at Nos. 312 and 314 West State street, Rockford, Illinois.

Mr. Reck married Miss Anna C., only daughter of John Nelson of Rockford, Ill., June 29, 1892, and has three sons.

WILLIAM KNAPP.

William Knapp was born in Edinburg, McKean county, Pa., April 23, 1839, and was educated in the public schools of his native town, also at the academy of Owego, N. Y., and afterwards at the University of Michigan.

He removed to Winnebago county, Illinois, in November, 1854, and located in the town of Burritt, and paid his first taxes in this state in 1855. He was a pioneer in the oil drilling business in which he was very successful, both practically and financially. He followed this business for about fifteen years, during which time he acquired several farms at the price of about fifteen dollars an acre, which he was able to sell later on for seventy-five dollars per acre.

Mr. Knapp served as town clerk for ten years and was then elected town supervisor which office he held from 1879 to 1883.

In 1886 he removed to the city of Rockford and was there again elected to the office of supervisor in which capacity he has since served continuously, with the exception of about three years.

His service as supervisor covers a period of about twenty-four years, during a considerable portion of which time he has been the purchasing agent for the city, rendering most acceptable service.

He served as a director of the Forest City bank for several years. He was elected to the city council as an alderman from the first ward in 1895 and served two years.

Mr. Knapp engaged in the real estate business in 1886, in which he has met with marked success. His son, C. H. Knapp, joined him in this business under the firm name of Knapp & C. H. Knapp, which was later changed to Knapp, Barnes & Co., at which time Wm. H. Barnes came into the firm. The firm has a fine office at the corner of State and Main streets, on the ground floor of the Second National Bank building, and is one of the leading and most reliable real estate firms in this section of the country. The firm buys and sells houses and lots, and farms, and also writes insurance. The motto of the firm is “Small margins and quick sales.” The loaning of money is one of the principal features of this business.

Mr. Knapp has been a member of Star in the East Masonic lodge for many years, and is a Modern Woodman.

Mr. Knapp was married to Miss Martha Scott of Burritt in 1864, and has seven children, one of whom, Charles H., is married. The family resides at 1505 East State street, which has been the family home since 1870.

FRED E. STERLING.

Was born at Dixon, Ill., June 29, 1869, being the third son of Edward and Irene Evans Sterling, early settlers of that section. The first ten years of his boyhood were spent in Dixon, where he attended the public schools until 1880, when his parents moved to Huron, S. D., and settled on a farm near that place. They were among the pioneers of Central Dakota (then a territory), the subject of this sketch assisting his father and brothers in developing one of the first farms in Beadle county. He attended the public schools at Huron during the winter terms.
and worked on his father's farm during the summer until the age of fourteen years, when he entered newspaper work with the Huron accept the city editorship of the Morning Star, which paper he served for a year and left to take a similar position with the Register-Gazette on the consolidation of the two afternoon newspapers. In the service of the latter he continued for nine years when he resigned to take up a different line of work. During that period he also served as the special Rockford correspondent of the Associated Press, Era-Telegram, Evening Post, Globe-Democrat and other metropolitan papers.

ROCKFORD

Ever since he became a resident of Rockford Mr. Sterling has taken an active, aggressive part in the political, social and business life of the city and lent his hearty assistance to every movement tending to its progress, welfare and up-building. He enjoys the honor and distinction of having been the youngest man ever elected to Rockford as a member of the City Council, being chosen to succeed Alderman Sturtevant of the third ward. He continued to represent that ward as an alderman for eight years, until the spring of 1903, when he declined a unanimous caucus renomination because of other conflicting duties. He was recognized as one of the leaders of the "Progress," a fine progressive and ready debater. "During his term of office he served either as chairman or as a member of the most important council committees, was for three years secretary of the board of local improvements, secured for his ward many needed improvements, including the new Blake school building. On his retirement from the council he was presented by his friends with a very handsome diamond ring.

Mr. Sterling is a staunch Republican and has taken an active part in county and state politics, serving as a delegate from Winnebago county in every state convention for half a dozen years past. He is now serving his third term as secretary of the Winnebago County Republican Central Committee, and during the presidential and gubernatorial campaign of 1900 was secretary and manager of the Press Bureau conducted by the Republican State Central Committee in Chicago, supplying party literature and statistics to the county press.

In 1901 he was appointed by Gov. Richard Yates as land commissioner of the Illinois & Michigan Canal, and during the legislative session of 1903 served as assistant secretary to the Chief Executive at Springfield. He enjoys an extensive acquaintance with and the friendship of a host of prominent citizens and politicians throughout the state.

ROCKFORD

In February 1901, Mr. Sterling was appointed secretary of the Manufacturers' Mutual Insurance Company of Rockford, by the Circuit Court. He made an enviable record for himself in winding up the affairs of this company, paying off all claims in full and securing his final discharge within two years from the date of his appointment. He never before accomplished the receiver of a mutual insurance company in the United States.

He is a member of the Elks, Knights of Pythias, Royal League, Modern Woodmen and Home Fraternal League.

On October 1, 1903, Mr. Sterling purchased an interest in The Register-Gazette, of which paper he is the editor.

On December 17, 1891, Mr. Sterling was married to Miss Anna C. Parmalee and two children have blessed the union, Arthur and Olive. His home is at 110 West street.

R. H. SHUMWAY.

R. H. Shumway was born in New Milford, Illinois, July 26, 1842, and was educated in the public schools. His boyhood days were spent upon the farm and there is where he acquired the knowledge requisite to the success of his present business. In 1871 he began to realize the importance of the production of thoroughly good seed as the best means of success to the farmer and gardener, and gave special attention to their development. By close attention to business and economical investment he has made a grand success of his undertaking and has acquired a large competence, valued at about a million of dollars.

His customers reside in every state and territory in the Union, and for the last several years have numbered 100,000 annually. During the busy season he employs from seventy-five to eighty people. He employs no traveling salesmen, but advertises his business by means of catalogues and agricultural papers. It requires two carloads of paper for each edition of his catalogues, and these are sent direct to the planters. The Rockford postoffice receives a large business and revenue from the Shumway seed business.

Mr. Shumway removed from New Milford to Rockford in 1873, and resides at No. 625 South First street. His warehouse is at Nos. 118, 120 and 122 South First street. Mrs. Shumway died in 1899. Five children are now living.

Mr. Shumway's parents came from Vermont and settled at the mouth of the Kishwauee river in 1836, soon after the Black Hawk war. His mother, Sallie Greeley, was a cousin to Horace Greeley, of newspaper fame. The country was then "the wild and woolly west," and infested by the notorious outlaws, called the Banditti of the Prairie.

P. R. WALKER.

Peleg Remington Walker was born in Brooklyn, Windham Co., Conn., July 1, 1835. When four years of age the family removed to East Brooklyn, now Danielson, where he attended the district school until twelve years old. He then worked on the farm summers and at tended school winters. At the age of fifteen he attended the West Killingly academy during the fall and winter. In November, 1852, he began teaching in the North Bigelow district in Hampton, Conn. The following summer he worked with his father who was a carpenter and builder. In the winter of '53 and '54 he taught the South Parish school in Killingly. At that time he began preparation for a college course, and attended school the following winter. In the spring of 1855 he was obliged to forego study on account of weak eyes, brought on by an attack of measles.

In April, 1856, he removed with his father's family to Scott township, Ogle county, Illinois. During the following fall and winter he taught a seven months' term of school at Lyonville. The following summer he broke prairie, and taught the Smith-woodburn school during the winter.

His success in teaching was such that he felt it to be his duty to prepare himself for this profession and at the close of his school he entered the Normal University at Bloomington, Ill., where he took a full course and such advanced work as was afforded at that time. He graduated from the University in 1861, and taught at the following year.

The Civil war being in progress Mr. Walker felt it to be his duty to enlist in the army in defense of his country, and on August 12, 1862, he enlisted as a private in Company K, 92nd Illinois Volunteers. The regiment was sent to Camp Fuller where it remained until October 10, 1862, when it left for the front. The regiment was mustered in July, 1863, and supplied with repeating rifles. He participated in the advance on Chattanooga and was with Hooker at Lookout Mountain and saw the battle of Mission Ridge, and was with Sherman. In Kilpatrick's cayrely, from Chattanooga to Atlanta on the march to Savannah. He received a slight wound when in the advance on Raleigh. He was promoted to sergeant, first sergeant, lieutenant and had charge of his company during its last year's service.

Before being discharged from the army he was engaged to teach the Dement school, where he remained eight years. He was then invited to Rochelle at an advanced salary which he accepted. After twelve years of successful work at Rochelle, he was appointed superintendent of the Rockford city schools, to which position he has held his twelfth appointment. The schools have made excellent progress under his supervision and rank among the best in the state. His report for 1902 will be found in the school article in this work.

Mr. Walker has been a regular attendant at the National and State Teachers' Associations. He served several years as treasurer of the State Teachers' Association, and in 1890 was its president. He has been the president of the Northern Illinois Teachers' Association and a member of the State Board of Education for more than twenty years.

Socially he is a member of the G. A. R.

Mr. Walker married Miss Martha E. Webb of New York, and has one daughter. The family residence is at No. 716 North Church street.

WILLIAM WORTH BURSON.

William Worth Burson was born in Pennsylvania, and the family removed to McDougall county, Illinois, in 1842, and to Fulton county the following year, where his boyhood and early manhood was passed, thus sharing the experiences of pioneer life.

For the successful operation of his farm work, he invented and constructed a self-reel reaper in 1858, which was the first machine to regulate the size of the gavel by weight.

Mr. Burson was a pioneer for the invention of grain binders and obtained a patent on a twin binder in 1860. This was the first patent on a machine to make the present grain binder knot. He followed this model with two machines, using wire instead of twine, for the harvest of 1860. These machines were attached to the reaper and operated by hand. These were first brought into prominence by being operated at the great reaper trial at Dixon, Illinois, in the harvest of 1862.

Emerson & Company contracted to make one thousand machines for Mr. Burson for the harvest of 1863, the first one thousand grain binders ever made. He came to Rockford for the purpose of carrying out this contract, where he resided until 1881, when he removed to Chicago. On account of imperfect workmanship, lack of field experts and other adverse circumstances, these machines were a failure financially and the venture disastrous, leaving a heavy debt upon Mr. Burson, which was not entirely liquidated until 1901.

In 1866, in company with the late John Nelson, under the firm name of Burson & Nelson, the invention of a family knitting machine was jointly undertaken. Mr. Nelson was obliged to give his attention largely to his sash, door and blind factory for some time, but Mr. Burson applied himself closely to the business in hand and after much tedious labor by both, a power machine was perfected. Upon these machines patients were issued to Burson and Nelson in 1868-1870 and 1875, and in 1874 one on hose: On December 26, 1869, the part now known, as the "preenser hook" was developed. On July 23d, 1870, the first sock was knitted by an automatic machine at Rockford.

WILLIAM WORTH BURSON.

Emerson & Company contracted to make one thousand machines for Mr. Burson for the harvest of 1863, the first one thousand grain binders ever made. He came to Rockford for the purpose of carrying out this contract, where he resided until 1881, when he removed to Chicago. On account of imperfect workmanship, lack of field experts and other adverse circumstances, these machines were a failure financially and the venture disastrous, leaving a heavy debt upon Mr. Burson, which was not entirely liquidated until 1901.

In 1866, in company with the late John Nelson, under the firm name of Burson & Nelson, the invention of a family knitting machine was jointly undertaken. Mr. Nelson was obliged to give his attention largely to his sash, door and blind factory for some time, but Mr. Burson applied himself closely to the business in hand and after much tedious labor by both, a power machine was perfected. Upon these machines patients were issued to Burson and Nelson in 1868-1870 and 1875, and in 1874 one on hose: On December 26, 1869, the part now known, as the "preenser hook" was developed. On July 23d, 1870, the first sock was knitted by an automatic machine at Rockford.

WILLIAM WORTH BURSON.

Emerson & Company contracted to make one thousand machines for Mr. Burson for the harvest of 1863, the first one thousand grain binders ever made. He came to Rockford for the purpose of carrying out this contract, where he resided until 1881, when he removed to Chicago. On account of imperfect workmanship, lack of field experts and other adverse circumstances, these machines were a failure financially and the venture disastrous, leaving a heavy debt upon Mr. Burson, which was not entirely liquidated until 1901.

In 1866, in company with the late John Nelson, under the firm name of Burson & Nelson, the invention of a family knitting machine was jointly undertaken. Mr. Nelson was obliged to give his attention largely to his sash, door and blind factory for some time, but Mr. Burson applied himself closely to the business in hand and after much tedious labor by both, a power machine was perfected. Upon these machines patients were issued to Burson and Nelson in 1868-1870 and 1875, and in 1874 one on hose: On December 26, 1869, the part now known, as the "preenser hook" was developed. On July 23d, 1870, the first sock was knitted by an automatic machine at Rockford.

These machines were modeled, after those of 1878 and their product is being shipped from Rockford to all parts of the United States.

Mr. Burson has been a tireless inventor, and has been allowed more than fifty United States and foreign patents on grain binders, grain and corn harvesters, automatic knitting machines, knitt fabric and other lines upon which he has worked and on which he is still actively engaged.

AMASA HUTCHINS.

Hon. Amasa Hutchins was born in Guilford, Winnebago county, Illinois, June 1, 1843, and was educated in the public schools.

He was engaged in farming until 1862, when he enlisted in the Union army and served through the war.

Mr. Hutchins has been a very successful politician, having been elected sheriff of the Rockford has become a center for pleasure seekers from the surrounding country. Captain John T. Baker is interested with Mr. Hutchins in the management of the boat, and together they make a fine success of the business.

Socially, Mr. Hutchins is a member of the G. A. R., Elks, and K. of G.

He was married to Miss Elizabeth Harrod in 1873, and has three sons and two daughters. The family residence is at No. 323 Bruce street.

JOEL B. WHITEHEAD.

The subject of this sketch was born on a farm near Hittsboro, Illinois, January 31, 1864, and was educated in the public schools. He was also a student at Beloit College two years. After leaving Beloit, in 1885, he taught one term of school in a district northwest of Beloit.

Mr. Whitehead came to Rockford in 1886, where he has since resided. He began his business career here in the office of H. W. Price, where he remained five years. During the last twelve or thirteen years he has done a prosperous business in real estate, loans and insurance, and is a very popular dealer on account of strict integrity and fair business methods.

He has served as a member of the board of education, two years as a member of the county board of supervisors from his ward, and was recently re-elected for another term of two years, a director in the Insurance Company of the State of Illinois, a director in the Rockford National Bank, secretary of the Winneba County Agricultural Society for nine years, and a director in the Rockford Charitable Association.

As a supervisor, Mr. Whitehead has served on several of the most important committees, and exercised a strong influence in preventing the placing of the Memorial Hall on the Court House square and the selection of its present site. He served as the secretary of the Memorial Hall committee of the board of supervisors for the construction of the building, the duties of which were most efficiently discharged.

During his long service as secretary of the Agricultural Society, he made the annual fair a success, and was the means of bringing much business to Rockford.

Mr. Whitehead married Miss Emma A. Lash, youngest daughter of the late Shepherd Lash, one of the early pioneers, who came to Rockford in 1836, in company with David S. Pentland.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead have two children, Ruth and Loren L., and reside at 840 North Main street.

AUGUST P. FLOBERG.

One of the most popular, strong and flourishing financial institutions of Rockford is the Manufacturers' National Bank of which August P. Floberg is the able and efficient cashier, He was director and stockholder from this bank's inception and was one of the organizers of the same. He is now treasurer and director of the Mechanics' Furniture Company, which employs one hundred men, and has a capital of $75,000.

Mr. Floberg was also one of the chief organizers of the Rockford Manufacturing Company which was formed in 1889, with a capital stock of $200,000, employing one hundred employees and is treasurer of the same. He is director and treasurer of the Forest City Bit & Tool Company, was one of the founders of the Rockford Posten Publishing Company, and is a director and treasurer of the Swedish Building & Loan Association.

Our subject was born in "Wester Gotland" Province, Sweden, October 5, 1855. He was but eleven years of age when he came to Rockford, Illinois, and received a good practical education in the schools of the city.

Later he accepted a position as office boy, and with the earnings he saved, gave himself a good education in the Business College of Rockford. He was then book-keeper for different institutions and was a book-keeper for seven years secretary for the Central Furniture Company. He soon became familiar with his business, and has developed into one of the most thorough-going, enterprising men of the city. He is a bank officer of marked executive ability and vast practical experience and is possessed of those characteristics of energy, promptness and sobriety, which ever secure success.

Mr. Floberg was born in "Wester Gotland" Province, Sweden, and attained her growth and received her education here. She came to this country, with her parents in 1870, and has since been a resident of this city.

The political sympathies of Mr. Fieberg have brought him in line with the Republican party and in public movements he has ever taken a deep interest. He and Mrs. Fieberg are identified with the First Lutheran church and he was trustee for a number of years, and is the present treasurer.

Their marriage resulted in the birth of four children, Adelbert R., Frances E., Mamie L., and Freddie F.

JOHN T. SAVAGE.

John T. Savage, of the firm of Savage & Love Company, is one of Rockford's well-known manufacturers. He was born in Canada, April 16, 1842, and was educated in the public schools.

Mr. Savage came to Rockford in 1866, where he has since resided. In 1876 he engaged in business in the firm of Savage & Love. This firm is now known as Savage & Love Company, and is doing a successful business, the factory and business being located on South Main street.

a farm in the town of Burrill. He came to Rockford in 1866, and was employed as a clerk and in other work for several years.

He served one year as janitor at the old court house and jail.

In 1872 he entered the employ of Mr. F. Lander, who was engaged in the manufacture of doors, sash and building material on the water power. Some time after the death of Mr. Lander, in 1880, Mr. Dobson formed a partnership with Mr. Benjamin Blake, and continued the business, which in 1883, was incorporated as the Blake & Dobson Manufacturing Co., and the manufacture of dairy churns and supplies was added to the business.

WILLIAM D. DOBSON.

Mr. Dobson assumed entire control of the business in 1897, when the manufacture of building material was discontinued, and the name was changed to the Dobson Manufacturing Co., which is now engaged in the manufacture of a general dairy line of goods.

The company has built up a large and prosperous business, and its product is shipped to its patrons in many states.

GEORGE COLLIS.

The subject of this sketch was born in Portsmouth, England, in April, 1852, and was educated in a private school in that city. His father was in the employ of the English government and was killed while engaged in placing an engine in the steamership "Fury."

Mr. Collis learned the trade of coppermith while young, and was employed in this business for twenty-six years. He removed to Canada in 1879, where he continued work at his trade.

He came to Rockford in 1891 for the purpose of joining with Mr. Charles Andrews in the wire works business, and is now the secretary and treasurer of the Andrews Wire & Iron Works.

Mr. Collis is an earnest, conscientious citizen and an efficient worker in the church.

CHARLES ANDREWS.

He was born in London, England, May 30, 1845, and was educated in the public schools of that city.

He came to America and located at Hamilton, Canada, in 1870, where he resided seven years. He removed to Rockford in 1877, where he has since resided.

His first engagement here was with Lockwood & Lyman in the wire goods manufacture.
on the water power, and remained with them, eight years, when he began the manufacture of those goods on his own account in the John Spafford building on Madison street.

Twelve years ago the company removed to its present location, and has since with phenomenal success. Mr. Andrews has four of his children with him in the business.

He is a member of the Royal Arcanum, the Tribe of Ben Hur, and the Second Congregational church. He resides with his wife and family of six children at 813 Kilborn avenue.

GEORGE L. WILEY.

George L. Wiley was born in Janesville, Wis., March 17, 1864. His early youth was spent in the city of Lawrence, Ill., some fifty miles southwest of Rockford, where he received his education in the public schools, and later took a short college course, fitting himself more especially with a view of engaging in a commercial occupation, selecting the banking business. For several years after completing his studies, he resided at Omaha, traveling throughout Iowa for a wholesale hardware company. Following this he was admitted to a full partnership in a private banking firm at Leaf River, Ill., assuming the position of cashier and manager of the bank, which position he filled for six years. He also had charge of quite an active local fire insurance agency, which was one of the departments of the bank. While in charge of the fire insurance department of the banking business, he decided to give more attention to insurance business, and when the opportunity offered, resigned from the bank and accepted a position with the Insurance Company of the State of Illinois, one of Rockford’s foremost fire insurance companies, of which he is at the present time secretary and manager. He is one of the original stockholders of the company, which was organized in 1895, and served as a director and assistant secretary for a number of years prior to his election to his present position. The home office of the company is on the fifth floor of the Brown building.

Mr. Wiley is married and has one daughter, residing at his residence, 1120 North Main street.

THOMAS D. REBER.

Thomas D. Reber was born in Reading, Pa., December 11, 1863, of Pennsylvania-Delaware stock, whose ancestors located there in 1738. His father, Benjamin B. Reber, died in 1865, and his mother, Mary Ellen (Dechert) Reber, died in 1899. He was educated in the public schools, Reading Business College, and a three years course in the State Normal at Millersville, Pa.

In April, 1883, he came to Rockford and worked for Peter Sames, and then for the Central Union Telephone Co. for a time, after which he served as mailing and shipping clerk in the office of W. F. & John Barnes Co.

In September, 1884, he entered the employ of Perry & Lakin, lumber dealers, and in January, 1885, he purchased the interest of Mr. Lakin, and the firm name was changed to Perry & Reber.

Five years of successful business followed. When in April, 1890, the firm of Perry & Reber and that of Lawler & Keeeler were united under the firm name of the Rockford Lumber & Fuel Company.

Mr. Reber was elected treasurer, which office he held until the death of Mr. Perry, the president of the company in 1900, when he was elected to the office of vice president, which position he still retains.

In 1884 he enlisted in Company H, Third Regiment, Ill. N. G., as a private, and February 2, 1886, was elected first lieutenant.

Socially, he is a member of Rockford Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 102; Winnebago Chapter Royal Arch Masons No. 23; Crusader Commandery No. 17; Knights Templar; Freemasons Consistory; Ancient Scottish Rite Mason 33rd degree; and Tabula Temple A. A. O. N. M. S.

He has filled the highest offices in most of the above bodies. He is also a member of the B. P. O. Elks, National Union, Royal Arcanum and Rockford Germania Society.

Mr. Reber married Miss Lydia Loyd, daughter of Wm. and Jane Loyd of Rockford, May 20, 1886, and has two children, Helen Jane, born June 17, 1889, and Edwin Perry, born September 1, 1891.

The family residence is at No. 315 South Third street.

E. H. KEELEER.

E. H. Keeeler was born at Janesville, Wis., August 13th, 1863. In 1889 he moved with his parents to Beloit, Wis. He was educated at Beloit public schools, Beloit College and Andover, Mass. He entered the employ of the LEVI RHoades.

Levi Rhoades was born in Hiendale, Cattaraugus county, New York, June 23, 1830, and died at his home, No. 710 North Court street, Rockford, Illinois, November 19, 1911.

In 1849 he removed from his native town with his parents, to Troy, Wis., where they settled on a farm. He was born in the farm work and attended school as he could get opportunity, until seventeen years of age, when he came to Rockford and worked at everything he could find to do for self support.

In 1865 he formed the cooperative shop of Harry Landers, and at the end of three years purchased a half interest in the business. In 1853 he bought out Mr. Landers, and continued this business until 1894.

In 1865 he formed a partnership with Isaac and C. M. Utter & Co., for the manufacture of paper, and was still at the head of the firm at the time of his death.

When the People's Bank was organized, Mr. Rhoades was one of its heaviest backers and was a director. He was a prime mover in the organization of the Rockford Watch Company, was its first president, and a director, until his death. He died the next to the removal of the Watch Company from Racine to Rockford, and was a stockholder in the Phoenix Furniture Company, and also in "The Boot & Shoe Company. At the time of his death he held responsible positions in many of Rockford's important industries and had acquired a handsome competence.

He was married to Mrs. Frederica (Reik) Rhoades, his brother's widow, December 24, 1854, and had three children, two of whom are now living.

JEREMIAH DAVIS.

Jeremiah Davis was born in Steuben county, New York, June 2, 1826. When thirteen years of age he removed with his parents to Milton, Rock county, Wisconsin, where he attended the public schools and Milton Academy.

His first business effort was the purchase of eighty acres of land which he cultivated until 1850, when he made an overland trip to California in company with L. P. Knowlton of Water- loko, Wis. He located a miner's claim near Georgetown, California, which he worked success fully for one year. Having established a residence in the territory, he voted for the adoption of the first constitution for California, in September, 1850, after which he returned to Milton, Wis.

The spring of 1852, and has six children: J. Milton, Olive, now Mrs. Woodman of Chicago, Henry G., a physician at Monroe Center, Charles E., Elbert Lincoln and Mable, now Mrs. Vandemark of Rockford.

L. H. BALEY.

L. H. Bailey is a native of New York state and was born in 1843. He was educated in the public schools. He removed to Illinois in 1855, and came to Rockford in 1883.

He removed to Ogle county, Illinois, in 1859, and, when the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway was projected in 1874, he laid out and founded the town of Davis Junction, which bears his name. He owns valuable farm lands near Davis Junction in Ogle county.

In 1881 he removed to Rockford, establishing a residence at No. 216 North Second street, where he has since lived.

Mr. Davis represented the town of Scott on the board of supervisors of Ogle county for eight years. He was the representative from Ogle county in the State legislature in 1871 and 1872.

After coming to Rockford he was elected to the council from the First ward in 1885 and served one term.

He has been a member of the Masonic order for forty years, and is a member of the Western Society of California Pioneers.

THEODORE F. HOPKINS.

Theodore F. Hopkins was born in western New York and was educated in the public schools and Pikes, N. Y., seminary. He came to Rockford in 1856 while in his teens and engaged with J. S. Sherman as bookkeeper, in ness leather and then manufacturing this into harness goods. Their trade covers a wide area, their goods being shipped both east and west, and the demand for them is constantly increasing. Mr. Hopkins is the secretary-treasurer of the company and its business manager.

Mr. Hopkins served in the city council as an alderman from the seventh ward during 1885 and 1886, and was a member of the board of school inspectors from 1896 to 1900. Socially he is a Modern Woodman.

Mr. Hopkins was married to Miss Alice West of Rockford, in 1878, and resides at No. 704 North Church street.

L. M. HESS.

The subject of this sketch moved from Cooper county, Pennsylvania, where he was born, with his parents, and settled on a farm near the nursery business. During this engagement he acquired experience in the business and after leaving Mr. Sherman's employ he took up the nursery business in connection with farming, on a tract of land south of town, which he had purchased for this purpose.

In 1876 he exchanged his farm for an interest in the tannery business, which he has since carried on with eminent success. His business partner is Mr. L. M. Hess.

In 1883 a corporation was formed which is known as the Hess & Hopkins Leather Company and the business facilities were very much enlarged. From a small beginning with but few employees, in close quarters, the business facilities have expanded until a large area of land is covered with fine brick structures and the number of people employed increased to two hundred.

The company is doing practically the exclusive business in this country of manufacturing harness goods. Their trade covers a wide area, their goods being shipped both east and west, and the demand for them is constantly increasing. Mr. Hopkins is the secretary-treasurer of the company and its business manager.

Mr. Hopkins served in the city council as an alderman from the seventh ward during 1885 and 1886, and was a member of the board of school inspectors from 1896 to 1900. Socially he is a Modern Woodman.

Mr. Hopkins was married to Miss Alice West of Rockford, in 1878, and resides at No. 704 North Church street.

ELIJAH WHITTIER BLAISDELL.

Was a descendant from an ancestry among whom many have been numbered with the most prominent of the nation. They came from the old Norse stock, a Danish family, of that name, having emigrated to Wales before the country was subdued by Alfred the Great. Its members were mostly fierce men and sailors.

Sir Ralph Blaistdee, Knight, married a member of the royal family, and several of his descendants were members of parliament.

The progenitors of the American branch of the family was Enoch Blaisdell, who died in Wales. His widow and three sons. Enoch, Abner, and Elijah came to America about twenty years after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock, and settled at Newburyport, Mass.
Elijah Whittier Blaisdell, Sr., was born in Montpelier, Vermont, in 1800, and removed to Middlebury, that state, in 1837. He was previously married to Miss Ann Maria Deacon, a native of Wexford, England, and a member of the Methodist church. On the 15th of July, 1826, their son, Elijah Whittier Blaisdell, was born in Montpelier, Vermont, where he passed his boyhood days. He attended the public schools, and later, when his father removed to Vergennes, Vermont, where he published the Vergennes Gazette, he attended the classical school at that village. After leaving school he entered his father's printing office, and with this experience and extensive reading, in later years, he acquired a broad and general education that surpassed that of many a university bred man.

He shortly assumed the editorship of the paper, and was also appointed postmaster of Vergennes by President Taylor.

To a man of his ambition his environment soon became too narrow, and he resolved to seek a home in the west. Acting upon this determination he came to Rockford and purchased the Free Press, which he published for ten years.

Changing the name to the Republican he again resumed editorial work, and this at a time when vital questions of public concern were being agitated. He was soon recognized as a power in the community and acquired an extended reputation. Activity in public affairs brought him in contact with Lincoln, Palmer, Squire, Browning and others at the meeting in Springfield when the Republican party was organized. He made a strong speech in favor of the new principles at this meeting, and upon his return to Rockford he placed the name of Abraham Lincoln at the head of the columns of his paper as the new party's candidate for the presidency. It is a matter of history that the Rockford Republican was the first paper to suggest the name of Lincoln for president.

Mr. Blaisdell called a convention in Rockford for the purpose of nominating a Republican candidate for Congress, and as a result Eliza B. Washburn was the first man nominated for Congress by the Republican party.

Mr. Blaisdell vigorously espoused the interests of the farmer in behalf of a lower rate of interest, as they were obliged to pay as high as twenty percent to the money loaner. Upon this issue he was elected a member of the Illinois legislature in 1859, where he continued the fight. In behalf of his measure he made one of the most noted speeches ever delivered in the house, which attracted widespread attention. The measure was enacted into law, and was a blessing to the people of the state. He was also instrumental in securing the enactment of a law giving to a wife the right to use her own property under certain circumstances without regard to her husband's wishes. Having accomplished his desires at Springfield he refused a renomination and disposed of his press which then became known as the Register, and is now the Register-Gazette.

Mr. Blaisdell then took up the study of law, and after reading thirty or forty of the best textbooks on the subject, made application for admission to the bar. Judge Peck, one of the examining committees, having heard his speech in the legislature, expressed surprise that he was not already a member of the bar. Such was the effect of this speech that he was admitted to practice without examination—a most graceful compliment to his ability.

His success as an attorney was pronounced from the beginning, and his business netted him, in the first year, between two and three thousand dollars, and he was equally successful during his thirteen years of practice.

In 1894 he changed his political views and supported Mr. Cleveland for the presidency. He was a staunch friend of John M. Palmer, and did much to advance his political interests.

After leaving the bar he gave much of his time in literary pursuits. The Petersons published one of his novels which elicited favorable comments from the New York Sun, World, Evening Post and Boston Journal. He also wrote a political burlesque entitled, "The Rajah," which met with great success. He also wrote a number of poems of much merit, and a play entitled, "Eva, the General's Daughter," founded on incidents of the Black Hawk War, which was well received by A. M. Palmer, the well known theatrical manager of New York.

Mr. Blaisdell was twice married. His first wife, Frances Robinson, died soon after coming to Rockford, the second wife was Miss Elizabeth.

J. Lawrence, daughter of Judge Ville Lawrence of Vermont, and a sister of the late Chief Justice C. B. Lawrence of Illinois.

Mr. Blaisdell died January 14, 1901, and left a widow and five children, Byron Richard of Chicago; Henry, a lawyer of Chicago; Elijah W., an artist of New York, and George and Shelly-Pierpont at home. The family residence is at No. 1240 Council Hill.

E. C. DUNN, M. D.

The subject of this sketch is one of Rockford's most foremost and best known citizens. He is a descendant of a prominent Scotch Irish family, which traces its history back for many generations.

The grand parent, Joseph Dunn, had eight children, of which Uriah, the father of Dr. Dunn, was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. Dr. Dunn is the youngest of six children, and was born in Ontario county, New York, in 1840.

When a mere boy he manifested a loving disposition and a spirit of investigation. It was his good fortune to meet Dr. Peebles when but fifteen years of age, who became interested in him and took him to his own home, where he was surrounded with all the advantages for culture and education that large wealth could secure.

Through Dr. Peebles munificence Dr. Dunn received a very broad and liberal education, being a graduate from the University of Pennsylvania, the American Eclectic College of Medicine, and holds a certificate from the State Board of Health of Illinois.

Dr. Dunn is a noted traveler, having visited all the inhabited countries of the globe, and has obtained a knowledge of the habits, religions and characteristics of the various peoples of the world.

His field of information is inexhaustible, and his stories of travel most instructive and interesting. During his travels he made a very large collection of curios, gems and precious stones of inestimable value, but met with the loss of many of them, in a museum, in Chicago during the great fire of 1871.

Dr. Dunn served as secretary of legislature at Trenton, Turkey, where his benefactor, Dr. Peebles was minister from this country.

Dr. Dunn established a home in Rockford in 1852, but has spent much of the time since in travel and upon the lecture platform. His lecture themes cover a wide range of subjects, being equally at home in matters of science, religion, art and politics. He has lectured in many of the largest cities in the world, and has spoken to audiences ranging from a few hundred to number to thousands.

His palatial home in Rockford is one of the most beautiful of the many beautiful homes in the city. Externally it is of oriental design, and its internal arrangement and finish is one of the most artistic of the Queen Ann pattern. The parlors are finished in ebony and gold. The dining room is octagon in shape, and is finished with walnut and cherry and lighted by windows of opalized glass. The house is fitted with the most modern and convenient appliances and is a model of beauty.

E. C. Dunn was married to Miss Carrie Ettis, in Marshall, Michigan, July 27, 1859, and has two children, Eula, wife of Richard Hamlyn of Rockford, and James, who married Miss Emma Patterson, and resides in Chicago.
 Mrs. Dunn displayed great ability as an artist, and her work has received high commendations from the best artists. Her latest work, “Pythias Before the Block,” is a painting six feet by four feet six inches in size, and is valued at $1,000.00. Mrs. Dunn died in 1963. In later years Dr. Dunn has lived a retired life, devoting his attention largely to a study of the habits and characteristics of the lower animals, especially the horse and dog.

He recently edited a remarkable work which was published by a Boston firm, entitled “The Sagacity of Dogs.” The volume is beautifully illustrated and a charming work.

Socially, he is an Aldo-Camp of the Supreme Commander, Gen. Canadian, of the Knights of Pythias, and boasts with the orator in State and National conventions, Knight Templar, member of Crusader Commandery No. 17, and an Odd Fellow.

The family residence is at No. 607 West State street.

Dr. Dunn does not aspire to political preferment, but was elected as an alderman from the old Seward ward in 1894, which position he filled with credit to himself and with honor to his constituents for four consecutive terms. He was a strong prospective candidate for the office of mayor, and had the support of a large number of the best men of the city for this position, but did not decide to make the race. Had he done this he doubtless would have been elected by a large majority.

REV. JAMES J. FLAHERTY.

The subject of this sketch was born in Bureau County, Illinois, in 1853, where he resided until his ordination. He was educated at the Niagara University, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., at which institution he was ordained to the priesthood June 7, 1879, and on July 3, was assigned to duty in the city of Chicago, where he served six years as assistant priest. Rev. Flaherty came to Rockford in 1865, and was made immovable rector of St. James church in 1867, and Dean of the Diocese in 1901. Under his wise and economical administration of the affairs of this branch of the church, its membership has more than doubled since the beginning of his pastorate. A fine winter chapel and school have been built and all departments of the work are in a flourishing condition. Father Flaherty is beloved by his people and has made many friends in the city.

J. A. WALKER.

J. A. Walker was born in Ohio and removed with his parents to Iowa in 1857. He spent his boyhood days on the farm and was educated in the public schools.

He accepted a position with the Singer Sewing Machine Company in 1874 and remained with the company twenty-five years. He was rapidly promoted by the company, from the position of solicitor to that of general manager of the company’s business in the northern territory of Illinois, which he handled with marked success.

Upon the termination of his business relations with the sewing machine company, he spent a year in San Francisco, Cal., as manager of the city’s manufacturing department. In 1883 he came to Rockford where he has since resided during which time he has built fourteen residences, and accomplished much other work in important improvements and the beautifying of the city.

The recent organization of the Central Heat & Power Company of Rockford, is due to his wise management and energy in the promotion of important and substantial enterprises. He was instrumental in securing a franchise from the city for the installation of the company’s plant, and was made its general manager in which capacity he is now serving.

The innovation of this system to furnish heat, power and light to the city and for private use, is a credit to the company and to the city. The work of installation is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible and when completed will be an up-to-date institution. The use of this system by private individuals will result in a great saving of time, money and inconvenience and will reduce to a minimum the danger from fire, thereby securing lower rates on insurance.

Socially Mr. Walker is a member of the Royal Arcanum and the Royal League. He was married to Miss May McCleery in 1876, and has two children, Edward R., who is his assistant in the management of the Central Heat & Power Company’s business, and Elsie B. The family residence is at No. 215 North Court street.

WILLIAM CROTTY.

Was born in the City of New York, July 4, 1841, and received a liberal education. He was a teacher for a time in the public schools.
engaged in the real estate and insurance business and rapidly pushed his way to the front. In a short time he became prominent in leading business men and he was made a confidential agent, handling large sums of money for investment for others. He was a tireless worker, the soul of honor, strong mentally and physically, and performed faithful service for others, while he amassed a considerable competency for himself and family.

He was the owner of a large amount of real estate, the value of which, probably reached the $150,000.00 mark.

He was a devout christian, and contributed liberally toward the support of his church and toward the building and maintenance of benevolent institutions. He added largely to the institution of the St. Anthony Hospital, and it may well stand as a monument to his memory.

He was a member of the East State street Business Men’s Association, and did much in the promotion of business interests.

Socially, he was a member of Skanada Lodge, A. O. U. W. and the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Cory was married to Miss Frances M. McLaan, of Rockford, May 19, 1874, and had eight children, who, with their mother, survive him.

The family residence is at No. 727 East State street.

WILLIAM H. BARNES.

William H. Barnes was born in Steuben county, New York, December 5, 1832. He came to Rockford with his parents when but three months old, and was educated in the city schools. His father having died when he was a mere lad, he was thrown upon his own resources when only thirteen years of age. At this time he began working for the Blake & Dobson Manufacturing Company that he might aid in the support of a widowed mother and a large family. He worked for this company for about three years. He then took up the carpenter’s trade at which he worked about four years, when he engaged with O. W. Wheat and while there but a short time gained considerable knowledge of the photographer’s art.

Mr. Barnes next accepted a position with the William and C. Tr. Knapp Company in the real estate and loan business, and acquired a partnership in the business in March, 1902, under the firm name of Knapp, Barnes & Company. He has the distinction of being the youngest man engaged in this important business in the city.

By faithful attention to business, persistent energy and integrity he has acquired a position in business circles which is an honor to himself and a credit to his family. The company’s offices are located on the ground floor of the Second National Bank building, at the corner of State and Main streets, where a large business is being done in buying and selling city and farm property, placing insurance and loaning money. The firm has the confidence of the community and enjoys a large patronage at home and abroad.

Socially Mr. Barnes is a member of the Illinois Club, Masonic Order, M. W. A.; M. W. W., and Royal League.

He was married to Miss Lucretia Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Franklin, May 24, 1894, and has three children. The family resides at No. 605 Woodlawn avenue.

C. F. HENRY

Was born in Plymouth, Plymouth country, Massachusetts, March 15, 1854, and was educated in the schools of Plymouth and Rockford, having come to Rockford when ten years of age with his sister, Mrs. Joseph Schmoeck.

Mr. Henry’s first employment was in a fruit and confectionery store at a salary of one dollar per week with board and washing, where he remained two years. He was next employed by Isaac Bacharach in the clothing business, where he remained nine and one-half years. He then went into business on his own account, forming a partnership with H. W. Allen and engaged in the crockery business. At the end of two years he sold his interest to Charles W. Haskell and formed a partnership with Henry Stern in the clothing business in the store now occupied by the Hemmings Shoe Co. on the corner of State and Wyman streets. In March, 1885, the business was removed to the corner of State and Main streets, where Mr. Henry’s central store is now located.

Mr. Henry has spent thirty-eight years of his life on State street as clerk or proprietor in mercantile business. He has occupied the entire building, at the corner of State and Main streets, Nos. 211-213 during the last twenty years.

By fair dealing and generous treatment of his patrons his business increased so rapidly that it soon outgrew its environments, and he was forced to enlarge his facilities by establishing branch stores. Accordingly, a fine clothing establishment was established at 422 East Bridge street, Beloit, Wis., and another at No. 417 Fifteenth street, Moline, Illinois, where he is meeting with merited success.

Socially, he is a member of Star in the East, Blue Lodge No. 156, Rockford Chapter, Crusader Commandery No. 17, Freeport Consistory, charter member temple, A. L. A. T. M. T., and first treasurer, K. of P. in 1875, charter member of first Elk’s Lodge, and a Woodman.

Mr. Henry married Miss Pansie S. Shinier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Shinier, in May 1876, and has two children, Robert J. and Charlotte E.

The family residence is at 619 Mulberry street.

A. C. BREARLEY.

The subject of this sketch was born in Lake county, Illinois, August 10, 1850. He came to Rockford in 1855 with his parents and was educated in the city schools. When about seventeen years of age he became the bookkeeper for the Rhoades, Utter & Company’s paper mills and remained with this company twenty years.

In 1887 he organized the Rockford Clothing Company and became its secretary and treasurer. During the first two years the factory of the company was located where the Silver Plate works now stand, and then the present quarters were occupied where the business has grown to large proportions. The company enjoys a large patronage in custom-made goods for the local trade, and does a large wholesale business throughout the northwest.

The principal manufacture of the company for the wholesale trade consists of pants, overalls, working-jackets and shirts. They make a specialty of uniform shirts and supply the city police and firemen, generally. The company also does a large jobbing business in suspenders and bosomery.

especially in South Dakota, where he has done much in promoting the development of a fine grade of stock.

He places loans to the satisfaction of the borrower and safe to the investor. His business is constantly growing and now reaches a large second wife was Miss Mary Hewett of Rockford.

The family residence is at 128 South First street.

In 1854 he came to Rockford and was immediately and favorably impressed with the beauty of the city and the surrounding country, and upon his return to Milwaukee sold out his business the following day, and the next day made his way back to the Forest City. He immediately purchased the interest of J. J.

Mr. Broarley is married and has four children and resides at 727 Cherry street.

P. BYRON THOMAS.

Broker and real estate dealer, was born in Belvidere, Illinois, of Welsh descent. His family traces its history back one hundred and fifty years and has been one of note in the beautiful Isle of Wales. He was the youngest child of Peter Craft and Sarah Thomas who came from Ontario and settled upon a farm near Belvidere, in the early days.

Mr. Thomas spent his boyhood days upon the farm and was educated in the public schools of Belvidere. He came to Rockford in 1886, where he has conducted a large loan and real estate business. His office is on the ground floor of the Second National Bank-building.

He has several thousand acres of land, situated in Illinois and South Dakota, and is also engaged extensively in farming and stock raising.

volume annually. His residence is on East State street, a cut of which is shown in this volume.

JOSEPH BEALE.

Joseph Beale was born in Twickenham, Middlesex, England, November 23, 1836, and died in Rockford, Illinois, April 16, 1902.

Mr. Beale came to Rockford in 1858 and engaged in the jewelry business with Clark & Mitchell, which relation continued several years.

In 1866 he formed a partnership with his brother, Thomas Beale, and went into business on the present site of the Manufacturers' Bank. In 1892 his son, Joseph, joined him in the business.

Mr. Beale was twice married. His first wife was Miss Maria S. Jones of England, by whom he had two children, Joseph and Arthur. Mrs. Maria Beale died, July 6, 1891. His

His sons, Joseph Jr., and Arthur, are now doing business at the old stand.

LEONARD SCHMAUSS.

Leonard Schmauss was born in Schneidach, Bavaria, Germany, in 1826, and was educated in the public schools of his native country. When twenty-two years of age he came to America and settled in Milwaukee where a large number of his countrymen had preceded him.

An older brother, Joseph, had already located in Rockford, and was engaged in the meat business in company with J. J. Andrew and Thomas Kettlewell. Joseph was so highly pleased with the business outlook and the beautiful situation of Rockford, that he wrote his brother, Leonard, to visit him with a view of locating here.

Leonard had engaged in the meat business shortly after his arrival in Milwaukee and was making a success of his undertaking. He accepted Joseph's urgent invitation to visit him and look over the city.

Andrew in the meat business, and the firm became that of Schmauss Brothers & Kettlewell. Later on Schmauss Brothers bought out the interest of Kettlewell and the firm became that of Schmauss Brothers and they continued the business for three years, when the partnership was dissolved and the brother continued the market on the west side and Leonard took charge of the east side market at No. 313 East State street where he remained until succeeded by his sons, Leonard and Joseph, December 9, 1889.

Mr. Schmauss carried on extensive farming operations in connection with the meat business, having owned in 1861 400 acres of fine land in Ogle county, Illinois, and later 1,200 acres in the same county.

His love for his adopted country was most intense and he never failed to speak of Rockford and its environments in the highest terms of praise, whether at home or abroad.

His business career was marked by a degree of steadfast integrity and honorable dealing that redound with honor to his memory. Mr. Schmaus died December 9, 1889. He was married to Miss Margaret Schlenck of Milwaukee, in 1850, and had nine children, five of whom are living.

Mr. Hutchins was married to Miss Nellie Miller, of Rockford, in April 1897, and has two children, Geneva and Alta.

The family residence is at No. 1908 East State street.

JAMES M. REID.

James M. Reid was born on a farm in Harlem, Winnebago county, Illinois, May 28, 1876, of Scotch parentage. His father, James S. Reid, was born on the same farm, his father having settled there in an early day and obtained a government patent on the land.

Reid was educated in the public schools and the Rockford high school, after which he took a course in the Rockford Business College.

He entered the employ of Holland, Ferguson & Company in February, 1896, and was made the secretary and manager in 1901, which position he still holds.

The company is the pioneer in the abstract business, having been established in 1869, and has a very large patronage. The reliability of the work done in this office has secured the confidence of the public, which it justly merits.

Socially Mr. Reid is a member of the Elks.

ROCKFORD & INTERURBAN RAILWAY.

The Rockford & Interurban Railway Company comprises an urban system in the city of Rockford, with a suburban branch extending to Belvidere, on the east, and the Rockford & Freeport Electric Railway, which is now under construction, will be consolidated with the present system, making a through route of forty-three miles in length, of which Rockford is the central point. The system had its beginning twenty-three years ago, when the first mile of city track was built in Rockford, on which two short horsecars were operated.

The Rockford Street Railway Company was organized in 1880, with a capital stock of $20,000. A state charter was secured January 1, 1881, and a franchise was granted by the city council June 27, 1881. In September of the same year it was decided to build an extension of the line to the Fair Grounds, and the capital stock of the company was increased to $80,000. During the first six years of its existence the company made a little money, but when it commenced to extend the lines to the more thinly populated parts of the city, the property ceased to be a paying one.

In 1889 the property of the old company was purchased by the present owners and the power was changed to electricity. Under the new management the name of the company was changed to the Rockford City Railway Company. In 1890 a new company was organized under the name of the Rockford Traction Company, which built a road to the West End for the purpose of developing this section of the city. Subsequently the new company extended its lines to South Rockford and to the East Side. This company met with great opposition from the old company and eventually went into the hands of a receiver. In 1895 it was sold and passed into the hands of the present company in 1896.

When the Rockford City Railway Company and the Rockford Traction Company were consolidated, the name was changed to the Rockford Railway, Light & Power Company. The latter name was changed to the Rockford & Interurban Company a few months ago, when the Rockford Railway, Light & Power Company and the Rockford & Belvidere Electric Railway Company were consolidated.

The entire route serves a population of about 65,000, exclusive of the farming population along the line. Starting at Belvidere, with a population of 7,000, it passes through Cherry Valley, with a population of 400, Rockford, 32,000, Winnebago, 400, Pecatonica, 1,200, Rockford, 250 and Freeport, 12,500.

The officers and operating staff of the Rockford & Interurban Railway Company are as follows: President, R. N. Baylies; vice-president, John Fannon; secretary, G. G. Olmsted; treasurer, W. F. Woodruff; general manager, T. M. Ellis, auditor, F. W. McAssey; superintendent of transportation, Charles C. Lines; express and passenger agent, J. H. Cramm, superintendent of track and lines, C. J. McCurry.

R. N. Baylies born in St. Helena Parish, Louisiana, Sept. 5th, 1845. Moved with his parents to Griggsville, Pike County, Illinois, in 1852, from there to Des Moines, Iowa, in 1858. Attended the Iowa State University at Iowa City. Graduated in Iowa State University law school in 1868. Practiced law in Kansas eight years and returned to Des Moines, Iowa, in 1876, and practiced his profession there many years. Was at one time judge of the circuit court in Des Moines. Was one of the organizers of the first Electric Railway in Iowa on a farm, and president of the company, until it was sold and became a part of the present Des Moines system in 1899. He with W. E. Andrews purchased a controlling interest in the Rockford Street Railway Company in November, 1889, and became its president, and changed it over to an electric road in the summer of 1890. He has remained the president of the company and its successors until the present time. He was also for several years a part owner and president of the Springfield City Railway Company, changing it from a horse employees as well, with whom he has established the most friendly relations. Although a strict disciplinarian, no one is quicker to appreciate and reward faithful service. He is a hard worker and keeps in touch with the smallest detail of every department under his management.

Mr. McAssey, auditor of the company, was born in Ripon, WIs., and educated at Ripon College. After graduating from college, in 1892 he was made cashier and bookkeeper of the Rockford Railway, Light & Power Company. He has been continuously connected with the Rockford system since that time and was advanced to the position of auditor of the Rockford & Interurban Railway Company in 1902.

Mr. Lines, superintendent of transportation, was born and educated in Monroe, Ill., and at the age of eighteen entered the business college in Rockford. He was first employed by the Rockford Railway, Light & Power Company in 1895 as motorman, and advanced by successive promotions to the position of superintendent of transportation, in which capacity he has served the company since 1899.

Mr. Greenman, general passenger and express agent, is a native of Rockford where he was born and spent all his early years. He has been associated with the Register-Gazette of Rockford, as circulation manager. In this capacity he became widely acquainted in Rockford and the surrounding territory. He has also acted at different times as manager of various newspapers and entertainments. In June, 1902, he was appointed to his present position with the railway company and much of the success of the express department is due to his active and able management.

C. J. McClarty was born in Logansport, Ind., in 1876. Was educated at the University of Illinois. Located at Champaign, Ill. Became superintendent of electric light plant at Rock Falls in 1898. Started with the electrical department of the C. B. & Q. R. R. in 1899, and in 1900 accepted a position with the Elgin, Aurora & Southern Traction Company, taking charge of track and overhead work. In 1902 going with the Aurora, Elgin & Chicago, from where he accepted in March, 1903, the position of superintendent of track and overhead work of the Rockford & Interurban Railway Company.

R. J. BRYHN.

The subject of this sketch was born in Norway, March 19, 1864, and came to New York with his parents when thirteen years of age.
CAPT. LEWIS F. LAKE.

Circuit Clerk and Recorder, is a native of Illinois, and was educated in the public schools. He enlisted in the army and served during the Civil War. He was captured at Atlanta in July 1864, and confined in the Andersonville prison until he was released by a special exchange of prisoners the following September.

During a portion of his enlistment he did service in Taylor's Battery, First Illinois Light Artilery, and was engaged in several of the most noted battles of the war.

Capt. Lake's pride in military life is further evidenced by fifteen years of service in the Illinois National Guard, eight years of which as member of the famous Rockford Rifles, and seven as regimental adjutant with rank of captain.

Upon his return, at the close of the war, he worked at the carpenters trade, but soon went into the shops of the Emerson Mfg. Co., where he was for thirteen years. In 1881 he was a candidate for the office of collector and was elected by a good majority. At the expiration of his term of office as collector he was made deputy county clerk in which capacity he served six years. He was then elected to the office of circuit clerk, and is now serving his fourth term in this office.

Socially, he is a member of the G. A. R., Masons, Royal League, A. O. U. W., Elks, K. of P., and various other benevolent orders.

Capt. Lake was married to Miss Martha A. Allen, June 20, 1866, and has had three children, one of which, a daughter, is now living. The family resides at 229 North Church street.

MARCUS A. NORTON.

The subject of this sketch was born in the town of Bridgewater, Michigan, January 16, 1841. His parents removed to Ann Arbor, Michigan, in 1844 so as to be able to give their children the excellent educational advantages offered in that city.

In 1852 the family came to Rockford and made a home on the South side, in the then new Fifth ward, since which time Mr. Norton has resided nearly continuously in this city.

Mr. Norton was among the first to respond to the call for volunteers in defense of the Union, and enlisted as a private in Company G, 44th Regiment Illinois Infantry for three years. At the battle of Chickamauga, September 20, 1863, he was severely wounded and was left on the field when his regiment retreated. He was then found by the rebels and taken prisoner, but was paroled, with others also severely wounded and taken to Chattanooga October 5th, 1863.

After the exchange of prisoners had been accomplished, he returned to his regiment and participated in the Atlanta campaign under General Sherman, and was present when that city capitulated. He was mustered out of service at Atlanta, Georgia, September 17, 1864.

Mr. Norton participated in many of the most noted battles of the war, among which were Perryville; Stone River; Chickamauga; Lost Mountain; Kennessaw Mountain; Peach Tree Creek; Jonesborough, and many skirmishes and engagements around Atlanta. He has never applied for nor received a pension.

During the last twenty years Mr. Norton has been honored by being made the recipient of various offices of public trust. In 1863 he was elected supervisor from the Fifth city ward and held the office during three terms, but being a candidate for the office of county clerk in 1865 he declined a renomination for supervisor.

At the Winnebago county Republican convention, in June 1866, he was nominated by acclamation as a candidate for the office of county clerk and was elected the following November. He is now serving his fifth term in this office, having been nominated by acclamation at each recurring convention.

Mr. Norton was married to Miss Henrietta Gardner, in May 1866, by the Rev. Dr. Thomas Kerr. One child was born to them who died in infancy.

He now resides at 610 North street.

JAMES H. CARSON.

Is of Scotch-Irish parentage, and was born near Belfast, Ireland; March 10, 1846. His father, Robert Carson, was a native of Belfast, Ireland, and his mother, Jane (McVey) Carson, was a native of Greenock, Scotland, where they were married, and shortly after removed to Belfast where James was born, but returned to Greenock when he was a year old, where they resided about six years. In 1853 they came to America and settled on a farm near Rochester, N. Y. James H. Carson was the eldest of eight children, five of whom are still living. He was educated in the public schools.

In 1865 he came to Illinois and was engaged in farming. At the age of twenty-three he was married to Miss Eliza M. Thompson, daughter of Hiram Thompson, one of the early settlers of Winnebago county. In 1873 he removed to Rockford where he has since resided. Three children blessed their union, Robert D., the eldest son, died five years ago aged twenty-six, Frank A., aged twenty-seven, deputy county treasurer, and Mrs. Mabel F. (Carson) Welder resides in Beloit, Wis.

JAMES H. CARSON.

Mr. Carson has been identified with the working men of Rockford for many years, having been employed in the Emerson, Talbot & Co.'s works, the N. C. Thompson manufacturing plant, the Briggs & Enoch works, and the Traherm Pump Co.'s works.

In 1869 he was elected a supervisor from Rockford, in which capacity he served ten years, and was chairman of the committee on fees and sallaries and served on several other important committees. He was appointed by the Board of Health of the City of Rockford as a water and plumbing inspector, in which capacity he did efficient service. The Board of Supervisors appointed him to the office of overseer of the poor in which position he served three years.

At the election November, 1902, he was elected to the office of county treasurer, receiving the unanimous vote of every town in the county and precinct in the city, which office he now holds.

Politically, Mr. Carson has ever been a staunch republican, but in local matters he is conservative, and will support the candidate who in his best judgment, is best qualified to fill the office regardless of party lines.

Sociably, Mr. Carson is a Mason, having served as secretary of E. F. W. Ellis Lodge No. 633, A. F. & A. M., for a number of years: K. of P., K. of G., Tribe of Ben Hur and I. O. O. F.

Mrs. Carson is also a member of the Ladies Anteaters in these societies. She is a Past Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star and Past Grand of the Rebecca Degree of the I. O. O. F.

Mr. Carson is fifty-six years old and bids fair to live yet many years, as his ancestors were noted for longevity of years. His father and mother are still living, aged respectively eighty-six and eighty-three years. They reside on the old homestead in Monroe county, New York.

Mr. Carson has a pleasant home in South Rockford, No. 1259 Ferguson street.

ALEX COLLIER.

Sheriff of Winnebago county, was born in Chenango county, New York, March 8, 1848, where he was educated in the public schools, and received until twenty-one years of age. His occupation, while young, was that of farming. He settled in Rozaca, Illinois, in 1869 and engaged in the milling business. He adopted his miller's trade as a profession and became an expert in the business. After doing a successful seven years' business in Rozaca, he became the head miller at the Rockford and Beloit mills. On account of his health, he left the mills and returned to the farm where he remained six years. Mr. Collier represented the town of Harlem in the county board of supervisors three years. In 1881, he came to Rockford and engaged with the City Railway company as general manager of its stock and employees, but was shortly after appointed superintendent of the county farm by the board of supervisors, which position he filled to the entire satisfaction of the board and the people, for eleven years. In 1902, he was the unanimous choice of the Republican party as a candidate for sheriff of Winnebago county, and was elected to that office at the November election. Socially, Mr. Collier is an Elk and a Mason. He married Miss Eliza J. McMillen, of Fairdale, DeKalb county, Illinois, in 1876, and has two children, a daughter, Ida Marie, and a son, Charles T.

O. J. KERN.

County Superintendent of Schools O. J. Kern, was born in Moultrie County, Illinois, Jan. 1, 1861. He attended the district school during a few months in the winter, and after he was twenty-one years old he earned enough money to enable him to take a four years classical course at De Pauw (Old Asbury) University, Greencastle, Indiana. Over study so affected his sight that he was compelled to give up further study and return to the farm. After remaining there a year he decided to attempt teaching. Entirely without friends, influence or experience, he secured a position as principal of a four room school. He came to Winnebago county in August 1881, a stranger, with funds enough for two weeks a board and taught his first day of school as principal of the Cherry Valley school. After remaining three years at an increase of salary, in September, 1887, he became one of the teachers of the Rockford High School, this position he held for seven years. In April, 1896, he was unanimously nominated by the Republican County Convention for the position of County Superintendent of Schools, and was elected the following November. He was reappointed in 1902, purchased, representing about 25 cents, volumes, at an outlay of $1300. He has organized a Farmer's Experiment Club of 325 members and conducted educational excursions to the Experiment Station and Agricultural College. New schools are being built and grounds and buildings made attractive. During his administration three district schools have been consolidated and a new central building will be erected in 1903, the first school of this kind in Illinois. This school will be located in Seward township.

That his talent is appreciated is shown by the steady demand for his presence at farmers' and teachers' institutes, and for articles from his pen. He is a regular contributor to the local press and to the School News, published at Taylorville, Ill. He is also an occasional contributor to other periodicals. His 1902 report of the Winnebago County schools—entitled "The Country School and the Country Child," was called for from all over the United States, and requests for it came from South America and Canada. His report of a visit to the Centralized Schools of Ohio received as wide a notice and was reprinted in the report of the National Commissioner of Education at Washington, D. C. Supt. Kern is not content to travel in the ordinary educational rut, and with the hearty co-operation of teachers, pupils and patrons, he will make the district schools of Winnebago county second to none in the state. Mr. Kern was united in marriage to Jessie Allen of Green castle, Indiana, August 6, 1889. They have four children: Esther, Evans, Louise and Russell.

FRANK M. MARSH.

Frank M. Marsh was born at New Milford, Illinois, and was educated in the public schools of East Rockford, under the principalship of Professor Freeman. After graduation he took a course in a business college where he became thoroughly equipped for a business career.

In 1874 he engaged in the stock and grain business, which was successfully prosecuted for about fifteen years. In 1888 he formed a partnership with Mr. Maxwell, under the firm name of Marsh & Maxwell, and engaged in the undertaking business, as successors to William Logle. At the end of three years the firm dissolved partnership and Mr. Marsh continued the business alone until 1902, when he took his son, Louis, as a partner. This firm now conducts one of the leading undertaking establishments in the city.

Mr. Marsh has served the town of New Milford acceptably as its supervisor and in 1896 was elected coroner of the county. In 1890 he was re-elected to this office in which capacity he is giving acceptable service to the people.

Mr. Marsh's father had the honor of suggesting the name for his native town, New Milford. There was a new mill erected on the river, at a point at which there was a convenient ford, and this fact suggested the name, New millford, which was written New Milford.

Mr. Marsh is a member of several fraternal societies, is married and has a family of three children. He resides at 215 South First street.

I. SHOUDY.

The subject of this sketch was born at Pawpaw, Lee county, Illinois, in 1859, where he spent his boyhood days. He came to Rockford in 1879, and after taking a course in the Rockford Business College, was graduated in 1880, after which he served as a teacher in the college two years. He then turned his attention to farming, and was married to Miss Belle E. Miller, daughter of C. F. Miller, Esq., who served as a Justice of the Peace for many years in this city. He returned to Rockford in 1889, where he has since resided.

Mr. Shoudy has the credit for the invention of the first tank-heater and took out the first patent ever issued from the patent office on this useful article. He manufactured tanks in this city two years, and then organized a stock company for the purpose of manufacturing them on a much larger scale. He was so unfortunate as to sell a majority of the stock and thus lost control of the business, and this resulted in its failure. He engaged in the real estate business in 1893 and in 1896 the present co-partnership, Shoudy & Melville, was formed. The company does, exclusively, a land business.

Mr. Shoudy is the inventor of the first dumping car ever used, which he patented and sold to eastern parties. The same device is now being used on dumping carts. He also invented a railroad jack the patent for which was sold to the Southern Railway Company for $1,000.00.

In 1893 he had a position in the land department of the Illinois Central Railway Company. After succeeding in this capacity for some time, he took a like position with the Yazoo Valley Company, in both of which positions he was very successful.

In 1899 he handled a large amount of land in Clark county, Wisconsin. During the last year a large area of Texas land has been added to the list. The company now owns and controls more than 400,000 acres of land, located in many states. It employs 160 agents who reside in Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. These agents come regularly to this city, and bring many strangers with them, who help swell the great volume of business here. Doubtless this company employs more people and handles a greater amount of land than all other like concerns in the city, put together. They move along quietly but an immense volume of business is done every year.

A portrait of Mr. Shoudy is here with presented, also an illustration of his home at 2515 South Main street. The office of Shoudy & Melville is at 315-317 West State street.

F. L. MELVILLE

Mr. Melville was married to Miss Sarah E. Eddy, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. W.

ROCKFORD.

JESSE DIMOND

Was born in Boone county, Illinois, May 26, 1870, and was educated in the public schools. He was engaged in farming until 1894 when he went into the business of stock buying, and at the same time conducted a meat market at Poplar Grove, Illinois, where he remained three years.

In 1897 he removed to Brookings, South Dakota, and engaged in the real estate business. He came to Rockford in 1899, and has since been in the land business. In 1901 he formed a copartnership with Mr. W. H. Marshall, under the firm name of Dimond & Marshall. They make a specialty of buying and selling farm lands. Their immigration business is larger than that of any other dealers in the country. They have sold, and also now have on hand immense tracts of land in the Dakotas and Kansas upon which they locate actual settlers. Their business makes it necessary to employ a large number of men located in different parts of the country. These men to the number of 100 or more frequently come to Rockford and thus contribute to its resources and popularity.

Mr. Dimond is an Odd Fellow and modern Woodman.

W. H. MARSHALL

Socially, Mr. Marshall is a member of the M. W. A., I. O. O. F., and the Masonic order. He is married and has two children.

The family residence is at No. 1011 West State street.

JESSE DIMOND

Having lost his wife he resides with his three children at 813 Mulberry street.

W. H. MARSHALL

Is a prominent land dealer in connection with Jesse Dimond, under the firm name of Dimond & Marshall. Mr. Marshall was born in Winnebago, Winnebago county, Illinois, July 5, 1870, and was educated in the schools of his native town, and was graduated from the Winnebago High School.

His first business venture was in the grain business, after which he engaged in the real estate business in which he has been very successful. The company handles a large amount of western land annually, and employs a large force of men who visit Rockford frequently in the course of their business, thus giving a large amount of free advertising and a splendid reputation to the city for which the community is indebted to him.

H. W. WILLIAMS

Was born in Worcester, England, February 27, 1830, and was educated in the schools of his native country. He came to the United States in 1845, and spent some time at Ypsilanti, Michigan, where an uncle resided. He then went to Detroit, Michigan, and to Lake Superior points, where he remained until coming to Rockford in 1862, when he secured a position as bookkeeper in the office of N. C. Thompson, where he remained twenty-one years.

Mr. Williams was a celebrated English artist, whose works were widely known. He was married to Miss Lydia Lane Wright, formerly of Newport Pagnell, England, in Rockford, June 5, 1870.

He visited his English home in 1867, where he remained one year to recuperate his health.

He died in 1893 at the family residence No. 313 South Church street. His widow, four sons, Henry Wilson, William Howard, Joseph Thomas, and Andrew Price, and one daughter, Latonia Georgina, reside in Rockford.

Mr. Walkup is the patentee of the Air Brush. His work has met with much opposition and criticism by artists on account of its being so-called machine work, but has been successful in overcoming this opposition, and to-day this work is highly appreciated. It is now in a very high state of perfection, and beautiful half-tones are now produced that excel the best hand-work. Delicate tints and shadings are placed upon the canvas, with the atomizers, that cannot be produced by hand. Air Brush work is sought after by people from all parts of the world, and there is no product of Rockford's many industries that is more widely known or more highly appreciated.

Mr. Walkup has an office and studio in his house, where he enjoys his work, and has a large patronage.

An uncle, Gen. James Ruggles, was one of three men who drew up the first republican platform and made possible the election of Abraham Lincoln president of the United States. Gen. Ruggles has visited Rockford several times.

Mr. Walkup is married and resides at 209 North Main street.

LIBERTY WALKUP

Was born in Pine Creek township, Ogle county, Illinois, in 1844, and was educated in the public schools.

Mr. Walkup's given name, Liberty, is an old family name, and was brought to this country by the Puritan fathers. The parents of Mr. Walkup in bestowing this name upon their son conveyed an heirloom to him of high distinction, of which he has reason to be proud.

Mr. Walkup enlisted in Company K, 92nd Regiment Illinois Volunteers, in 1862, but on account of disability received an honorable discharge in 1863, when he returned to his home in Pine Creek, where he remained four years. He then removed to Iowa, where he resided six years, when he returned to Illinois. He came to Rockford in 1861, where he has since resided.
HON. FRANK S. REGAN

Was born in Rockford, Illinois, October 3, 1862. His father settled in Rockford in 1840. Mr. Regan was educated in the city schools.

He was three times married, and the third wife was Miss Lucy Buggs, the mother of the subject of this sketch, who was the youngest member of the family.

When Clinton was six years of age his father removed to Jersey county, Illinois, and two years later to Ogle county, Illinois, where he died in Byrion in 1845, being sixty-eight years of age.

Dr. Clinton Helm was educated in the Rockford (Ill.) Academy, and commenced the study of medicine with Dr. Lachien Clark of this city. He graduated from the medical department of the University of Iowa, at Kookuk, in 1852, and commenced the practice of his profession at Oregon, Ogle county, Illinois. He afterward moved to Byrion in the same county, and later to Beloit, Wisconsin, where he remained eight years, acquiring a very large and successful practice.

In September, 1862, Governor Yates appointed him surgeon of the 92nd Illinois Infantry, and during the succeeding year he was with that command in all its marches and battles.

On September 20, 1863, he was captured by the Confederates at Chickamangos, Tennessee, and spent two months in Libby prison. During the last year of his service he was with General Kilpatrick, and was honorably discharged June 21, 1865.

Dr. Helm located in Rockford in 1878, where he has since enjoyed a substantial and popular practice.

He married Miss Hannah S. Payne, who was a native of Connecticut and of French parentage. Mrs. Helm was a cultured woman, and was noted for her benevolent spirit and helpfulness in the community. Both the doctor and Mrs. Helm were members of the Second Congregational church, and were foremost in charitable work. They were the parents of six children, five of whom are still living: Milne El. wife of E. J. White of Chicago;

CLINTON HELM, M.D.

Dr. Helm is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society, and is called in consultation in critical cases, over a wide area of country.

Mrs. Helm died in July, 1899. The residence is at 628 Mulberry street.
cultivated the land but also took up the work of his profession. He was the second physician to locate in this section of country, being preceded by Dr. L. Woodworth, who came to Rockford in 1835. His practice grew until he was obliged to give up farming operations and removed to Rockford, where he died at his home on West State Street, August 13, 1884, after a successful practice of forty-eight years.

Dr. Henry Richings was born on the farm near Princeton, in 1842, and was educated in the public schools of Rockford and also attended school at Beloit, Wis. He studied medicine at Ann Arbor, Mich., and also at the University of New York, where he took his degree in 1864. Soon after he received the appointment of Acting Assistant Surgeon U.S.A., and was assigned to the United States General Hospital, Armory Square, Washington, D.C., where as executive officer he served until the close of the war, under Dr. D. W. Bliss, surgeon in charge, who had already become noted as an army surgeon.

At the close of the war he formed a partnership with Dr. Bliss, and practiced his profession in Washington, D.C., for eight years. He located in Rockford in 1878, where he has since enjoyed a lucrative practice.

Dr. Richings has served as consulting surgeon on the staff of the Rockford City Hospital since its establishment in 1883.

He is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society, the American Medical Association, the Illinois State Medical Society, the State Association of Medical Surgeons of Illinois, the National Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, the State Board of Health, and is the local surgeon for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & Northwestern Railway companies, and is also the surgeon for the Third Regiment Illinois Infantry.

Socially, he is a Mason, R. & R. S. "Mason" is a member of Masonic Temple and is the Masonic Temple and is the wife of Dr. S. R. C. of Rockford.

The family residence is at No. 305 North Main Street.

W. H. FITCH, M.D.

One of Rockford's most eminent physicians, was born in Cherry Valley, Illinois, June 10, 1844.

He is a graduate of Beloit College and of the Medical Department Northwestern University. He also pursued post graduate studies at Ann Arbor University, and the medical schools of Vienna, Berlin and London.

Dr. Fitch commenced the practice of medicine in Rockford in 1870, and has met with eminent success. He has held the position of consulting surgeon for the Rockford City Hospital since its establishment.

While the doctor pursues no specialty, he is considered to be one of the best all-round consultants in this section of country, and is called in consultation to critical cases to all points in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin.

He has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary for eighteen years, and member of the Rockford College during the last fifteen years, in both of which institutions he has taken a deep interest.

Dr. Fitch married Miss Katherine Kountz, of Allegheny, Penn., and has two children.

High School from which he graduated in 1876, Northwestern University in 1881, and from the Northwestern University Medical School in 1884.

Dr. Helm comes from a family of doctors, and is among the foremost of the family as a successful practitioner.

The doctor was married to Miss Mary Gibson, of Rockford, in 1897, and has two children.

His office is on the fifth floor of the Brown building, and the family residence is at No. 740 North Church street.

The doctor is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society, the American Medical Association and the Central Wisconsin Medical Association.

ALBERT S. GREEN, M.D., is a well known Rockford physician, having come to the city in 1894, where he has established a successful practice.

Dr. Green was educated at the Mount Morris Seminary, the Northwestern University, Michigan State University, and the Chicago Medical College, receiving his degree from the latter in 1878. He began the practice of medicine at Shullsburg, Wis., where he remained sixteen years.

Since receiving his degree he has done much post-graduate work. In 1890 he took a post-graduate course at the New York Polyclinic.
In 1891 a course at the New York Post-Graduate Medical College. In 1894 he attended a course at the Philadelphia Polyclinic, and in 1897 he took a medical course at the New York Post-Graduate Medical College. It is not every physician that spends his time and means in so thoroughly perfecting himself for the work of his profession, but Dr. Green would not stop short of the best possible equipment. His patients now get the benefit of his arduous work.

Dr. Green is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society, Wisconsin State Medical Society, Illinois State Medical Society, and American Medical Association.

Socially, he is a Mason and a Woodman and a Mason.

The family residence is at No. 806 North Court street.

Dr. Green married Miss Estella J. Wells, and has four children: John A., Walter C., Harry L., and Frances V.

GEORGE L. WINN, M. D.

Was born in Vermont, Grand County, New York, and was educated in the public schools of Winnebago county, Illinois. He was graduated from Beloit College in the class of 1873, and from the Chicago Medical College, Medical Department Northwestern University in the class of 1890.

Dr. Miller practiced medicine in Winnebego ten years and then removed to Rockford in 1890, where he has since enjoyed a successful practice of his profession. He is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society and has been its president during the last three years. He is also a member of the American Medical Association. He is also a member of the Illinois State Medical Association and the Central Wisconsin Medical Society.

Dr. Miller married Miss Harriett A. Lane, June 12, 1890, and has two children; Edith A., who is now a student in Rockford College, and Bertha Alvera, in the eighth grade in Church street.

Socially, he is a member of the Royal Arcanum.

His residence is at No. 1304 West State street.

GEORGE L. WINN, M. D.

Dr. George L. Winn was born in Cleveland, N. Y., March 10, 1851, from which place he removed to Syracuse, N. Y., and from there to Darby, Ill., in 1864. He received his primary education in the public schools, and for preparatory work attended the seminary at Allen's Grove, and attended the State University at Champaign, Ill., two years.

He studied medicine in the office of Doctor Grove, at Woodstock, Ill., and then attended the Ann Arbor University one year. He then took a course at the Northwestern Medical school and received his degree in 1876.

He entered upon the practice of his profession at Allen's Grove, Ill., where he remained four years, after which he took a post graduate course at Bellevue Hospital, New York City. Doctor Winn located in Rockford in 1882, where he has since resided.

Dr. Winn keeps well abreast in the progress that is now being made in the work of his profession. He is a hard worker and has met with well merited success in his practice. He has the confidence of his patrons and his practice is constantly increasing.

Doctor Winn is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society, the State Medical Society and the American Medical Association.

He is also the medical examiner for Home Fraternal League, in Rockford.

Doctor Winn married Miss Kate Dixon of Allen's Grove, in 1879, and has one son.

GEORGE L. WINN, M. D.

offices are Nos. 414 and 415 Masonic Temple, and the family residence is at No. 1225 North Church street.

C. A. WALKER, M. D.

Was born in Lake Geneva, September 3, 1872. He was graduated from the Lake Geneva High School in the class of 1892, and from the Chicago Homopathic Medical College, in the class of 1896. As a result of his standing, through competitive examination, he was made house physician and surgeon of Cook County Hospital from October 1, 1896 to April 1, 1898. He came to Rockford in May 1898, to take the practice of H. W. Thomas, where he has gained prominent standing in the medical profession. His offices are in rooms 301 and 302 in the Masonic Temple.

Dr. Walker married Miss Emma Sinclair of Santa, Ontario, June 27, 1900, and has one daughter, Lorna.

DR. CHARLES VICTOR STARKE.

Was born in Stockholm, Sweden, near the city of Jonkoping. After finishing the country school he passed through Jonkoping's Elementary School 1867-75. Student at Upsala University 1875, Medico-philosophic exam. 1875, Medicine Cand. exam. 1885 and Medicochir. Licentiate exam. 1889 at Upsala, Kingdom of Sweden.

In March and April 1890 he passed the regular examination in the Facultad de Ciencias Medicas of the University of Buenos Aires for admission to the practice of medicine in the Argentine Republic, S. Am. Director of the Medico-mechanic Gymnasium at Buenos Aires 1890-91. Practicing physician in the Province of Buenos Aires 1892.
Arrived in the United States of N. America Oct. 1st, 1892, and has lived at Rockford, Ill., since Nov. 1892, except 18 months passed at Omaha, Neb., 1894-95.

Married 1899 to Anna Nordwall from Omaha.

Dr. Starka's motto is: Nothing in humanity is higher than truth and justice. Do the best you can and don't fear anything. Judge people after their acts and not after their conclusions.

He commenced the practice of medicine in Rockford in 1850, where he has now a large and successful practice.

Doctor Sager is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society. Socially he is a member of the I. O. O. F. and Modern Woodmen. He was married to Miss Helena Hagedorn of Rockford, in 1900, and resides at No. 1216 South Main street.

LEMUEL TIBBETS, M. D.

Dr. Tibbets was pension examiner under both administrations of President Cleveland.

Rockwood Sager, M. D., one of the best known physicians of Rockford, was born in Belvidere, Illinois, in 1853. He was educated in the city schools of Belvidere, and is a graduate of Rush Medical College, Chicago.

W. A. McDowell, M. D.

W. A. McDowell, M. D., was born in Kirkland, Illinois, in 1850, and was educated in the public schools and Beloit College. His medical education was obtained at the Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago.

Dr. Tibbets was married to Miss Cornelia E. Bradshaw, of Eldora, Illinois, in 1872, and resides at No. 834 North Main street.

His office is at No. 212 West State street, which he has continuously occupied for twenty-three years.

Dr. Ray Daniel Williams, was born in Antioch, Illinois, and was educated in the public schools. Prepared for college at the Northwestern Academy at Evanston and received the degree of Ph. B. at Northwestern University in 1896. He studied medicine at the Chicago Medical College. Dr. Williams is a member of the Winnebago County Medical Society, the American Medical Society, and medical director of the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Williams attended the Marine Biological laboratory, at Boston, during the summer of 1905. His office is in the Blaisdell block, and he resides at the Chick House.

Dr. Tibbets was a charter member of the City Hospital Association, and is a member of the medical staff of St. Anthony's Hospital for the treatment of eye, ear, nose and throat diseases.

Socially, he is a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Fawcett Consistory, and Crusader Commandery.

He commenced the practice of medicine at Dallas City, Illinois, where he remained six years. He removed from Dallas City to Kirkwood, Illinois, where he enjoyed a successful practice for six years, and then came to Rockford in 1876, where he has since remained, and has enjoyed the distinction of being one of Rockford's most eminent physicians. Before coming to Rockford, Dr. Tibbets took a post-graduate course in New York, where he made a special study of eye, ear, nose and throat diseases, and in connection with his regular practice gives special attention to the treatment of these ailments, having equipped himself with the most improved apparatus for the successful treatment of these ailments.

Socially, he is a member of the Masonic Order. He is married and has three children. His office is in the Masonic Temple, and his residence at No. 304 North Church street.

C. HARRY WOOLEY.

Is a native of Norwich, England, and was born December 25th, 1852. He came to Rockford with his parents in 1862, and was a student in the city schools six years, when he became a messenger boy for the Western Union Telegraph Company, and also learned the business of an operator. When fifteen years of age he was placed in charge of an office at Neenah, Wisconsin. He was in the railway service sixteen years, nearly all this time with the Northwestern Railway Company. He served as cashier in the Rockford office, ticket agent at Winona, Minnesota, and as chief clerk in the office of the F. E. & M. V. Railway Company at Missouri Valley, Iowa. He quit railway service and returned to Rockford in 1881. In 1890, he was elected to the city council from the First Ward and served four years. In the campaign of 1894, he was elected to the state legislature on the Democratic ticket. At the municipal election of 1893, he was again elected to the city council from the First Ward. Mr. Woolsey was one of the founders of the Skanda Furniture Company in 1889, and was its secretary two years. Socially he is a member of the K. of P., M. W. A. and A. F. & A. M. societies. Being a lover of flowers, he built a small greenhouse in 1899, and has increased the plant to three large houses besides the erection of a fine sales room.

Mr. Woolsey was married in 1877 to Miss Lina Cora Howes, daughter of the late Phineas Howes, one of the early pioneers of Rockford, who settled here in 1839, and has had four children; Ralph, Harry, Ellis and Bith, two of whom are now living. The family residence is at No. 1655 East State Street.

THOMAS CHICK.

The general proprietor of the popular hotel, the Chick House, was born in Devonshire, England, November 18th, 1846. His parents, William and Hannah (Pengille) Chick, were natives of Devonshire, and emigrated to the United States in 1851, when Thomas was five years old. He was educated in the public schools, and while still young learned the flour-milling business under the supervision of George Phillips. He became a locomotive engineer and served in that capacity fourteen years, in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co. By steady application to business and the exertion of untiring energy he insured the confidence of his employers and met with gratifying success. In 1883 he invested his savings in Rockford property and opened the Chick House, which is one of the most modern and best patronized Mason in Winnebago Chapter No. 24, and was knighted in Crusader Commandery No. 17, K.T. He is also a member of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and has held various offices in those orders. He is also a member of the I. O. O. F. and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

FRANK C. WHITE.

The subject of this sketch is a native of Illinois, born at Geneva, Illinois, June 5, 1845, and was educated in the public schools. When only eighteen years of age he engaged to work for the Geneva Grape Sugar Co., and has made rapid progress in his profession, being promoted from a subordinate position to that of superintendent of one of the most important manufacturing sugar works in the world, during his twenty years of service. He started with the Geneva Grape Sugar Co. in 1863, and remained with that company five years during which time he was promoted to the position of assistant superintendent. In 1858 he accepted the position of assistant superintendent of the Peoria Grape Sugar Co., of Peoria, Illinois, where he remained four years. After this he held the position of superintendent of CenFirmensch Mfg. Co.'s works at Marshalltown, Iowa, the American Glaces Co.'s works at Buffalo, N.Y., and Peoria, Ill. In 1897 he accepted the position of assistant superintendent of the Chicago Sugar Refining Co.'s plant at Chicago, Ill., and in 1902 became superintendent of the same plant, holding that position until he was transferred to the Rockford plant in Sept. 1902. Mr. White is a member of the Masonic Order being a member of Camera Lodge No. 139 A. F. & A. M., Fox River Chapter No. 14 R. A. M., Aurora Commandery No. 25 E. T., Peoria Commandery, and a member of None of the above. His home is at 1711 N. Main St. He is married to L. White and has two children.

S. J. PETTIT

S. J. Pettit was born in Rockford, May 24, 1877, and was educated in the city schools. He married and was a member of the Unitarian Commandery.

Mr. Pettit is a member of lodge No. 102, A. F. & A. M.; Winnebago Chapter No. 24, R. A. M.; and is the past master of the Masonic Commandery No. 17 K. T. He is married and resides at 621 Rockton Avenue.

H. H. HAMILTON

Comes from good Old Virginian and Tennessee stock. His parents having removed from Virginia to Rockford on account of the war, where Herbert H. was born in 1864. At the close of the war the family was married, and they went on the farm and began life anew. In 1885 he married Miss L. White and has two children.

A W. BANKS

A W. Banks was born in Kalocipili, Mich., and was educated in the ward and high schools of DeWitt, Iowa. He is a graduate of Ann Arbor High School. He also took a two years' course in the scientific department of the University of Michigan and a two years' course in chemistry in the same institution.

From 1885 to 1888 he was engaged in the retail trade as pharmacist and manufacturing chemist in Detroit, Michigan. From 1885 to the present time he has held the position of district manager for the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. His family resides at 933 North Street.

W. H. KEIG

The popular baker, was born in Rockford in May, 1857, and was educated in the city schools. He served as an apprentice in the baker's profession and became an expert in this work.
years this partnership was dissolved, and Mr. Keig took charge of the business on the West side.
In 1898 Mr. Keig bought the plant belonging to the Forest City Baking Co., on Cedar street, where he is now located. His retail business is still carried on at the West State street plant. He does a large wholesale and retail business in Rockford and surrounding towns, his shipments covering a distance of 300 miles. His goods are of excellent quality and have a very high and well merited reputation.
Mr. Keig is married and resides at 1230 Great avenue.
Socially, he is an Elk and a Modern Woodman.

RUFUS W. FINLEY.

Rufus W. Finley, M. D., D. V. S., was born on a farm in Putna county, Illinois, February 3, 1863, and was educated in the public schools, Amity College, College Springs, Iowa; Hedding College, Abington, Ill.; Prof. S. S. Hammell School of Oratory, Chicago; and Chicago Veterinary College.

After graduating from the Hammell School, Dr. Finley occupied the chair of oratory and voice training in the institution for some time, but on account of his health he was obliged to surrender his chair in this work, and take up the profession of veterinary medicine. He has met with excellent success in this work. He commenced his practice at Independence, Iowa, in 1891, where he made a specialty of lameness and dentistry of race horses.

He was called to Rockford in 1894, to treat the well-known race horse "Wisconsin King," record of 2:11-Quin and Longfellow's popular race horse at the time, Doctor Finley has Rockford so well that he determined to make this city his permanent residence, and established a home at No. 224 South Court street, and an office at 222 South Court street.

Doctor Finley married Miss Susan McKean of Waukecha, Wisconsin, in 1893, and has one daughter.

W. R. KETT.

Architect, was born in Fiqua, Ohio, September 10, 1850, and was educated in the public schools of his native town, graduating from the high school of that city.

He served three years as an apprentice at the carpenter-trade and has been a worthy student of the profession ever since. One of the most marked characteristics of his work has been a constant effort to discover better methods of construction and to work out the details of those discoveries, upon his drafting board, before he let them pass. He has thus become one of the most reliable and thorough architects in this section of country. His services as a builder and architect have been sought in the construction of many of the most notable buildings in the city and surrounding country. Among these are the Continental Church, Court Street Church, and the rebuilding of the Second Congregational Church. He is now devoting his entire attention to architectural work in all its branches, having opened an office in the Second National Bank building, at the corner of State and Main streets, where he employs a strong force of skilled draughtsmen and is receiving the patronage of those who desire perfect plans and detail drawings for the construction of important buildings.

Mr. Kett is a Modern Woodman and a member of the Royal League. He is married and has two children, a son and a daughter. His daughter is a valuable assistant in his office. He resides at 613 North Horanam street.

SWAN O. WIDELL.

Mr. Widell was married in 1891, and has a family of three children, and resides at 1854 East State street.

WILLIAM H. COOK.

William H. Cook, contractor and builder, was born in Easton in 1859. He came to Rockford with his parents when eight years of age, where he was educated in the city schools. His first business engagement was with Henry Knowles in the commission business, where he remained two years. His next engagement was with the W. F. & John Barnes Company, where he remained two years and learned the machinist's trade.
In 1896 his father died. He was a carpenter and builder, and Mr. Cook took up the business, which he has since followed with marked success.

Mr. Cook has been interested in the construction of many of Rockford’s most important public and private buildings, among which may be mentioned the Tamarack School, High School, Brewing Company’s plant, Frank Brown’s residence, Womans’ building on West State Street, John H. Sherratt’s residence, Carnegie Public Library, Memorial Hall; and many other structures that are a credit to his genius and ability in his chosen profession.

He is a member and a director of the board of the fire and water committee. He was a member of the board of local improvements one term.

Socially, he is a member of Camp No. 51 M. W. A., and president of Lodge No. 2, Archers Union.

Mr. Pearson is married and has two sons.

The family residence is at No. 322 Baker Place.

FRANK E. PEARSON

Was born in Rockford, in 1863, of Swedish parentage, his parents having come to Rockford from Sweden in 1852. He was educated in the city schools.

FRANK E. PEARSON

He is at present the efficient superintendent of the Rockford Manufacturing Co.’s plant, in which he is a stockholder and director.

He was elected to the City Council from the Second ward in 1896, which office he still holds.

NELS OLSON

Was born in Rockford, in 1863, of Swedish parentage. He came to Rockford in 1865 and was educated in the schools.

NELS OLSON

Mr. Pearson has served two terms as alderman from the Sixth ward, and since the redistricting of the city, has just been elected from the Second ward—his third term—by one of the largest majorities ever given an alderman in Rockford. He is married and with his family resides at 1203 Fifth Avenue.

ED. F. CARTY

ANDREW J. ANDERSON

Was born in the City of Rockford June 7, 1862, and has made this city his home, with the exception of one year when he was temporarily located in Texas, and of Swedish descent, his father, Jonas R. Anderson, having been a native of Rydaholm, Sweden.

Mr. Anderson was educated in the city schools and took a course at the Rockford Business College.

He was first employed in the mechanical department of the Rockford Watch Factory, where he remained several years.

In 1891 the Excelsior Furniture Company was organized with a capital of $50,000, and Mr. Anderson was made secretary and treasurer, which position he held for eight years.

In 1890 he opened an office at No. 421 East State Street, where the conducted a real estate, loan and insurance business.

The subject of this sketch, is one of Rockford’s popular aldermen. He was born in Sweden in 1862 and came to Rockford when fifteen years of age. He worked as a finisher in the Rockford Furniture Factory five years. He was then identified with Ugarff in the furniture and undertaking business two years. Ten years ago the Rockford Furniture and Undertaking Company bought out Ugarff’s interest and Mr. Olsson became a stockholder in the company and has since been identified with it and has charge of the undertaking department.

Mr. Olsson has served two terms as alderman from the Sixth ward, and since the redistricting of the city, has just been elected from the Second ward—his third term—by one of the largest majorities ever given an alderman in Rockford. He is married and with his family resides at 1203 Fifth Avenue.

ED. F. CARTY

ANDREW J. ANDERSON

Was born in the City of Rockford June 7, 1862, and has made this city his home, with the exception of one year when he was temporarily located in Texas, and of Swedish descent, his father, Jonas R. Anderson, having been a native of Rydaholm, Sweden.

Mr. Anderson was educated in the city schools and took a course at the Rockford Business College.

He was first employed in the mechanical department of the Rockford Watch Factory, where he remained several years.

In 1891 the Excelsior Furniture Company was organized with a capital of $50,000, and Mr. Anderson was made secretary and treasurer, which position he held for eight years.

In 1890 he opened an office at No. 421 East State Street, where he conducted a real estate, loan and insurance business.
In January, 1896, he was made secretary and treasurer of the Union Overall Company, which position he has filled with marked success and still holds. He had charge of a large manufacturing plant in Texas during the year 1896, when he returned to Rockford.

In 1896 he formed a co-partnership with H. H. Chase, under the firm name of Chase & Ticknor, and engaged in trade, handling bicycles, sewing machines and sporting goods. The firm dissolved partnership in 1901 and Mr. Ticknor has since conducted the business alone. He makes a specialty of bicycle repairing, and is doing a very successful business in his various lines. Mr. Ticknor made his first venture in political affairs at the recent municipal election, when he was elected an alderman from the Fifth ward. Socially he is a Modern Woodman and a member of Kilnhawans Lodge of Redmen, No. 24.

He served in the City Council as an alderman from the Second ward during the years 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894 and 1895, and was re-elected again in 1903. Mr. Anderson was married to Miss Hulma O. Johnson, December 30, 1896, and has one child, a son.

He, with his family, resides at No. 942 Kilnhawans street.

HERBERT D. TICKNOR

Mr. Ticknor married Miss Anna N. Wigton and has three children, Raymond, Irma and Fern. The family home is at No. 1810 West State street.

THOMAS WINCHESTER

Is a stone cutter by trade. He was born in England in October, 1846, and came to Rockford in 1857 where he has since resided.

His first engagement in this city was with Thomas Ennett, and he remained with him until 1890 when he commenced work on his own account and located where he is at present. His first work was on the Graham Cotton Mills. He furnished the stones for the Library, etc.

Mr. Winchester is an Odd Fellow, is married and has five children, and resides at 720 Fifth Avenue.

WILLIAM CLARKE

Was born in England in 1839, and came to Rockford in 1870, where he has since resided. He is a contractor and builder, and has many residences and public buildings of his construction in the city attest to his ability in his chosen profession. He began 'contract work here' in 1871, and his first work was the erection of the John Faxon residence on East State street. He next built the A. D. Forbes residence on North Main street. Among the more notable structures over which he has superintended are the Watch Factory, St. Mary's Catholic Church and St. James Catholic School, the John Pitch Block, the William Croyt Block, the Central Block, McPherson's Bakery, T. D. Robinson's Block on West State street and the Schmaus Co. Storage building. The homes of A. Albertson and G. W. Reynolds, North Court street, might also be mentioned as specimens of his work.

Mr. Clarke is married, and has two sons who are following the same business, Robert W. and Thomas H. Clarke, who also reside in Rockford. Residence, 425 North Winnebago street.

JOHN ALEXANDER

Is a contractor and builder. Was born at Forfar, Scotland, May, 1851, and came to Rockford in 1882. Upon his arrival in Rockford the 12th day of May, he immediately took up the work of his profession which he has since successfully prosecuted. He built the Northwestern depot here, Hutchins, Lake and Johnson block, the Charles Brantingham residence, Mrs. Jolla P. Warren's residence on North Main street, the construction of many important buildings, among which might be mentioned the Lincoln and Brown Schools, the W. F. & John Barnes Factory buildings, the Taylor & Coats and Briggs Flats and the Rockton Public Library. He is now engaged in the rebuilding of the Mead Bros. Block which was recently destroyed by fire.

Mr. Keyt is married and resides at 323 North Church street.

J. A. PALM
Contractor and builder, was born in Sweden and came to DeKalb County, Ill., in 1859. He then took a trip through the north, visiting many of Hast-School and Church School, the Adams School, Wight School, North Town bridge and many other notable structures in this city. He was also built the National Sewing Machine Company's plant in Belvidere, Ill. Mr. Alexander is married and resides at 1115 Harlem Avenue.

W. A. KEYT
Is one of Rockford's prominent contractors and builders. He was born in Grundy county, Illinois, in 1858, and removed with his parents to Piqua, Ohio, when seven years of age, where he was educated in the public schools of that city. He came to Rockford in 1882, and was employed in construction work with his uncle, David Keyt, during the first five years.

In 1887 he formed a copartnership with his cousin, W. R. Keyt, under the firm name of W. A. & W. R. Keyt, and during the next five years they were identified with the construction of a number of Rockford's prominent residences and business places.

Mr. Keyt then continued the business in his own behalf, and has secured the contracts for the places and residences, among which are the Geo. Atkinson, B. A. Knight, John Chick, Stapleton, and John H. Shurratt residences, the Fisher Flats, Rockford Wholesale Grocery Company's building and the Wheelock Grocery store. Mr. Palm built the larger part of the big stores in Seventh street and has been identified in the construction work of many other prominent buildings in Rockford.

Mr. Palm is married and has six children and resides with his family at 224 Seventh street.

ABNER JOHNSON
Is a well known carpenter and builder, and was born at Hamburg, Wis., January 25, 1854. When nine years of age he removed to Greene county, Iowa, and at the age of twenty began his trade.

Mr. Johnson has the contract for the six double houses to be erected by Mr. Zlock, and the remodeling of the house on the ground to be moved to Mulberry street, making seven houses in all, a sad contrast obtained without opposition.

Mr. Johnson is a member of the Knights of the Globe and of the Masonic Order.

He is married and has four children, and resides at 121 North Winnebago street.

RODERICK MACKINZIE
Was born at Inverness, Scotland May 8th, 1859. He served an apprenticeship in the art of stone
Mr. MacKenzie came to Rockford when twenty-three years of age and immediately engaged in the work of his profession, contracting for the most important construction then going on. He furnished the stone and laid the High School at Belvidere, Ill., the Janeville High School at Janeville, Wis., the Kielbassne school of Rockford, Ill., and the Davis Junction school at Davis Junction, Ill., and did the masonry work on the St. Anthony hospital. He did the work and completed the material for the Janeville High School, the Janeville, Ill., school building, the Janeville, Ill., school building, the Janeville, Ill., school building, and the Janeville, Ill., school building.

Mr. MacKenzie resides at 920 Thomas street, in the fourth ward.

GUST HOLM

Gust Holm was born in Sweden July 15th, 1859, and was educated in the schools of his native country. He served an apprenticeship to the builder's trade in Sweden. He came to Rockford, directly from Sweden in 1880, and immediately began the work of his profession. He constructed twenty or more of the principal buildings on Sycamore street, the carpenter work on the Republic building and Masonic Temple, rebuilt the Appel store, built the Rockford Piano and Picture Co.'s building, the Rockford Palace Hotel, the Haddox Piano Co.'s plant, the Board & Style Piano Co.'s plant, the West End Piano Co.'s plant, the B. F. Barnes Co.'s plant, a part of the Utica Piano Co.'s plant, a part of the Chair and Piano Co.'s plant, a part of the Standard Piano Co.'s plant, a part of the L.J. Mig. Co.'s plant, the Globe Clothing Co.'s plant, the Stevens & Dual plant, a part of the W. F. & John Barnes plant, the Church School, Aug. Floberg's residence and a number of other residences and dwellings, and has the contract for the construction of the new six story building for Andrew Abbe.

Mr. Holm is married and has four children. His home is at 1404 Fourth Avenue.

W. J. SHAW

Carpenter and builder, was born in Owen township, Winnebago county, Ill., March 8, 1859, and was educated in the public schools. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Shaw who came to Winnebago county in 1833, and are now residents of Garden township. Mr. Shaw lived upon the farm until coming to Rockford in 1889, where he has since resided.

He engaged in carpenter work in 1881, and has continued his business in this city since.

Among some of the more important structures over which he has had superintendence are the residences of Mr. and Mrs. Eddy on East State street, T. E. Buckbee on Kielbassne street, Chris. Landen on Franklin avenue, H. K. Hall on East street, John Agnew on Franklin avenue, Mrs. Elizabeth Hancock on North First street, and many other buildings throughout the city and county that attest to his skill in structural work. His business during the past year amounted to over twenty thousand dollars in this class of work.

ROCKFORD

He married Miss Lizzie F. Marsh, the daughter of Averell marsh, of Guifford, June 27, 1889, and has three children, Ellis, Eleanor, and Hazel, and resides at 622 North Third street, this city.

DAVID CARLS

D. C. CARLSON

Second avenue, and many other residences and business places in this city and vicinity. Mr. Carlson is married and has four children. He resides at 1217 South Sixth street.

W. T. NORTON

Is a carpenter by trade and is a contractor and builder. He was born in Sweden December 15, 1855, and came to Rockford in 1881. He learned his trade in his native country where he became an efficient workman. Upon arrival here he engaged to work for Cahill & Tucker, with whom he remained two years.

His first work on his own account was for the interior finishing of Zion Lutheran church in 1886. Then followed the erection of Trinity Lutheran Church, the Lillieholm residence on East State street, John Hart's residence on North Second street, (now owned by Mr. Goly)

Mr. Carlson is married and has four children, He resides at 1217 South Sixth street.
ROCKFORD

W. T. NORTON

streets. He erected two houses for Frank Marsh on Marsh Court, and is now building a fine residence for James Allen on Blatinois street. Mr. Norton is a member of the Masonic and Woodmen fraternities.

B. R. LYDDON is a contractor and builder. He was born in Summersetshire, England, in 1856; came to America in 1877. Moved to Rockford 1890, and has been identified with the growth of the city since. His first business venture here was with his brother, and the partnership continued six years. He then continued business on his own account. He has built many residences and other buildings among which might be mentioned: The homes of Fritz Ulrich, Douglas Ulrich, Frank Requa, Harry Chase, T. S. Rider, H. D. Tidwell, W. W. Hilton, and over one hundred others. He has also done a large business building large frame barns. This represents a large amount of work to be accomplished in so short a time. Mr. Lyddon is married and resides at 1713 Chestnut street. A wife and three children constitute the family.

C. J. SWANSON,

Contractor and builder, was born at Jönköping, Lina, Sweden, in 1855, and was educated in his native country. He was a contractor and builder at Upsala, Sweden, from 1879 to 1881, when he came to America and located at Springfield, Mo., where he was employed as foreman in the D. E. Davis planing mills for two years. He then engaged with A. Skog, of Springfield, as foreman of construction work, and continued in this capacity four years. He then engaged in contract work on his own account and did a large amount of work in that city. Mr. Swanson came to Rockford in 1892, and engaged with the Rock River Planing mills as sash and door maker. He was the first man in Rockford to make veneered doors. He made the interior finish for the W. F. Barnes residence, North Main street. He was also the builder of Mrs. Julia Warren's residence on North Main street, the L. Johnson flats, First avenue and Fifth street, the C. Colby flats on North Third street, the J. Colby flats on South Third street, the D. S. Hough flats on North Third street, Gust Johansen's residence on Longwood street, M. Evory's residence on Spafford avenue, C. M. Brown's residence on Park place, four of the W. H. Miller flats on Fourth avenue and Twelfth street, C. Widman's residence on Fourth avenue, and 1206 South Fifth street.

FRANK P. NEWBURG

Was born in Sweden in 1868, and was educated in the public schools of that country. He came to Rockford in 1885 and engaged in carpenter work for his brother. Later he took a position as foreman for Newburg & Nygren, contractors and builders, and remained with them three years. He then went to Belvidere where he did contract work for about two years. Returning to Rockford he formed a copartnership with Mr. Nygren under the firm name of Newburg & Nygren, and continued the business two years when the firm dissolved, and he has since continued the business alone.

He has been a successful contractor and builder, and has constructed many business places and residences on both sides of the river.

Mr. Newburg is married, and with his family of wife and two children, resides at 1517

Tenth avenue.

Mr. Newburg's motto is: Do justice to everybody and life is a pleasure and death is a gain.

FRANK P. NEWBURG

John McLEE

is a carpenter and builder and was born in Rockford, March 6, 1867. He was educated in the city schools, and this city has been his home continuously. He began doing contract work on his own account in 1888, and has been the builder of many important public buildings and private residences, among which may be mentioned the Remick residence, corner Morgan and Churchoes, J. C. Gregory residence on Hinkle street, McCormick flats on North Washington street, Brickan residence on South Washington street, and the John A. Lins residence, corner of Grant and Napoleon street. Later residence on Napoleon street, and many others. He has done the general repair work on the public school buildings in the city. Mr. McLee that time, he established the Rockford Comtesse Works at the corner of South Third and East State streets. The business was carried on in this plant until two years ago, when it became necessary to have larger quarters. Mr. Martin decided to have a factory of his own for the business, and he built the building at 312 and 314 Blackston street erected, where the business is now carried on. The factory is one of the largest and best equipped of its kind in northern Illinois. A large quantity of the product is shipped to dealers in Illinois and Wisconsin.

They manufacture and ship sheet metal boxes and containers, heating radiators, steel collisions, conservatories, conservatories, steel tanks, filters, and metal plate and tile working, etc.

Mr. Martin personally superintends all work done by the firm. This company has furnished the work in their line for many important buildings in this city and vicinity, among which is the Turner school, the slain school, the High

ROCKFORD

GEORGE W. BALDWIN

WAS born in Montclair, New Jersey, June 16, 1836, and was educated in the public schools of his native town. He learned the plasterer's trade in all its branches, both plain and ornamental, at Newark, N. J.

In 1855 he removed to Michigan, where he remained four years, and then returned to New

PETER T. ANDERSON

Is a plasterer by trade. He was born in Scotland, and came to Rockford in 1862, where he has since resided.

He has had the contracts for plastering a large number of public and private buildings in the city and vicinity, among which can be mentioned H. W. Price's residence, John Sherratt's residence, J. B. Whitehead's residence, the Public Library, Memorial Hall, High School, Frank Beech's residence, and the C. F. Henry flats, and others too numerous to mention.

Mr. Anderson is a K. P., I. O. O. F., and Modern Woodman, and at present holds the position of Quarter Master General M. W. A.
Forester with rank of colonel.

His residence is at 218 South Court street.
E. J. RYAN

is a plasterer by trade. He was born in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., in June, 1851.
In 1871 he removed to Chicago where he acquired his trade and was employed as a plasterer there for six years. He then returned to Madison Wis., where he plied his trade for twelve years. He then came to Rockford where he has since remained.

Among the buildings plastered by Mr. Ryan are the Nelson and Parmele residence, the Roper and Treat Hall, St. Anthony's hospital and the Meat block.

Mr. Ryan is a Modern Woodman and a Royal Neighbors. He is married and has six children, and resides at 207 North street.
His office is at 110 North Court street.

J. F. WISNER,

This cut is that of J. F. Wisner, the well known contractor and builder of cement and iron sidewalks.

Mr. Wisner was born in Lake county, Illinois, in 1868. He removed to Lafayette, Indiana, in 1873, and came to Rockford in 1888, where he has since resided.

P. W. WELCH.

The subject of this sketch was born in Rockford January 17, 1866, and has occupied his present place of business during the past ten years as agent for the United States Brewing Company of Chicago, Ill.; distributing in Rockford and many surrounding cities and towns the celebrated Rhinegold and Loewenbrau Beer, Rhinegold
Export, and Malt Liquor, Blatz Milwaukee Beer, Weiner, Private Stock, Export and Malt Wine in wholesale trade and for family use. All have an absolute guarantee for purity. Special attention is given orders for all kinds of case

Mr. Walsh now has one of the finest bottling establishments in the west, being equipped with modern machinery, and manufactures pop, ginger ale, mineral waters, and all carbonated
beverages, selling these goods all over northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and eastern Iowa.
He also carries a full line of saloon supplies,
such as, glassware, flasks, corks, cordials,
most etc. He handles pure apple cider, and is in the department for Fred Miller, "The East"
more and Hamming's "Janesville"- street. "Phone number 543, both Home and Central Union.

R. P. WALSH

Was born in Rockford in 1861. When quite young he engaged in the grocery business with his father. Later his father bought the Lincoln bottling works, located at 414 South Main street.
His business so increased that he was compelled to secure more room and better facilities for handling his trade. The result was a move to 501-503 South Church street, where in 1895
he erected a new building adapted to his needs.
Here the father retired and the son conducted a prosperous business at this place for five years.
He sold this property to the C. & N. W. R. R.
company and removed to his present location,
502-506 Cedar street, corner Court street, having purchased the property of the American
Cereal company.

Mr. Walsh now has one of the finest bottling establishments in the west, being equipped with modern machinery, and manufactures pop, ginger ale, mineral waters, and all carbonated
beverages, selling these goods all over northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and eastern Iowa.
He also carries a full line of saloon supplies,
such as, glassware, flasks, corks, cordials,
most etc. He handles pure apple cider, and is in the department for Fred Miller, "The East"
more and Hamming's "Janesville"-

JAMES P. WALSH

Was born in Rockford in 1867. When quite young he engaged in the grocery business with his father. Later his father bought the Lincoln bottling works, located at 414 South Main street.
His business so increased that he was compelled to secure more room and better facilities for handling his trade. The result was a move to 501-503 South Church street, where in 1895
he erected a new building adapted to his needs.
Here the father retired and the son conducted a prosperous business at this place for five years.
He sold this property to the C. & N. W. R. R.
company and removed to his present location,
502-506 Cedar street, corner Court street, having purchased the property of the American
Cereal company.

Mr. Walsh now has one of the finest bottling establishments in the west, being equipped with modern machinery, and manufactures pop, ginger ale, mineral waters, and all carbonated
beverages, selling these goods all over northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and eastern Iowa.
He also carries a full line of saloon supplies,
such as, glassware, flasks, corks, cordials,
most etc. He handles pure apple cider, and is in the department for Fred Miller, "The East"
more and Hamming's "Janesville"-

JAMES P. WALSH

Was born in Rockford in 1867. When quite young he engaged in the grocery business with his father. Later his father bought the Lincoln bottling works, located at 414 South Main street.
His business so increased that he was compelled to secure more room and better facilities for handling his trade. The result was a move to 501-503 South Church street, where in 1895
he erected a new building adapted to his needs.
Here the father retired and the son conducted a prosperous business at this place for five years.
He sold this property to the C. & N. W. R. R.
company and removed to his present location,
502-506 Cedar street, corner Court street, having purchased the property of the American
Cereal company.

Mr. Walsh now has one of the finest bottling establishments in the west, being equipped with modern machinery, and manufactures pop, ginger ale, mineral waters, and all carbonated
beverages, selling these goods all over northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and eastern Iowa.
He also carries a full line of saloon supplies,
such as, glassware, flasks, corks, cordials,
most etc. He handles pure apple cider, and is in the department for Fred Miller, "The East"
more and Hamming's "Janesville"-

MAX HOPPE

Was born in Hiraburg, Germany, September
5, 1867, and was educated in his native country.

He learned the brewing business in Germany, where he was engaged in the trade seven years.
He visited all the leading cities of Europe, and worked in several of the most important brew-neries of that country.

He came to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1891, where he was employed in the Pabst brewery, the largest institution of the kind in the world.

In 1892 he came to Rockford and bought the interest of Charles Meyer as the agent for the Schlitz Brewing Co. in this city.
In 1896 he secured the agency for the Pabst Brewing Co., thus representing five of the most noted breweries in this or any other country. He carries on a large wholesale and retail trade, and makes a specialty of bottling both Pabst’s and Schlitz’ beer for family use. His business is located at No. 216 Walton street. Mr. Hoppe is married and has two sons. The family residence is at No. 129 South Madison street.

P. A. SPONBERG.

The subject of this sketch was born in Sweden in June, 1863, and came to the United States and settled in Rockford in 1886. He entered into an engagement with W. D. Clark and remained in his employ eight and one half years. Mr. Clark then sold his interest to the Forest City Baking Company and Mr. Sponberg remained with this company three years. He then went into business for himself, securing the agency for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Company’s beer, and to this he added the bottling works in 1895. He has now a fine wholesale and retail business and makes a specialty of supplying private families. He handles Beyeler’s Wurzburger, Schlitz ale and porter of Belvidere, Budweiser, and standard grades of Anheuser-Busch’s celebrated beer. He also keeps on hand Malt Nutrine for medicinal purposes.

Mr. Sponberg is married and has one child. He resides at 401 Seventh street.

P. A. PETERSON.

One of Rockford’s foremost Swedish citizens, was born in Ving Vestergotland, Province of Smaland, Sweden, September 8, 1848, and was but two years old when his parents emigrated to this country on board a sailing vessel and arrived in New York after a voyage of several weeks duration.

From New York they came to Winnebago County and settled on a farm in the township of Cherry Valley, where “Pete” grew to manhood and was educated in the public schools. Being possessed of rare business abilities, he found his way to Rockford where a large field for enterprise and keen business acumen presented itself and of which he desired to possess himself. Capitalists and business men had confidence in his ability and integrity, and sought his services in the promotion of various manufacturing enterprises. Mr. Peterson’s keen perception enabled him to see the advantages possessed by Rockford as a furniture manufacturing center, and the possibilities of the co-operative plan of production.

This plan was at once put into effect, operation, and its success has demonstrated the soundness of his judgment. He is now interested in more industrial undertakings than any other resident of the city. His interests are largely located on the East side of the river amid the Swedish population of the city.

Mr. Peterson is directly or indirectly connected with twelve or fifteen manufacturing industries as an official or stockholder, all of which are meeting with satisfactory results.

Mr. Peterson is a member of the Swedish Lutheran church, but is not identified with any social order.

W. W. AUSTIN

is a native of Illinois, and was educated in the public schools and Wheaton College. His boyhood days were spent upon his father’s farm near Rockton. He began teaching in the district schools when eighteen years of age, and rapidly advanced in the work to the principals of the South Belvidere schools and at Rockton, Illinois. He also served as bookkeeper in the offices of W. A. Knowton, late of Rockford, Peet & Keeler of Beloit, M. D. Keeney of Rockton, and Keeney Bros. of Rockford. He has written for the newspapers for many years, and has contributed scientific articles to several popular magazines. He served as city editor on the Laurel Chronicle, of Laurel, Mississippi, in which position he was very successful.

In connection with his school work he has written down a Natural History of Animals, which received high commendation from several eminent critics. His latest work is the writing of Rockford To-Day.

Mr. Austin married Miss Josephine A. Drury, of Beloit, who died several years since. He has four children; Harry S., who is a noted opera singer, Grace L. (Mullen) residing at Rockton, Ettie M. (Harmon) residing in Milwaukee, and Ernest W.

CHARLES L. MILLER.

Charles L. Miller’s first newspaper experience was in Ogle county, where for a time he edited the Rochelle Register, and later was proprietor of the Oregon Reporter. In 1877 he came to Rockford, where he purchased an interest in the Weekly Register. In October of that year he established the Daily Register, the first daily newspaper in Rockford to achieve a permanent existence. The Register remained under his editorial and business management for fourteen years when he sold the paper to Mr. E. E. Bartlett, and removed to Quincy, Illinois, where he became one of the proprietors and editor of the Daily Herald of that city. In 1896 he returned to Rockford to become one of the proprietors of the Daily Republic. At present he is managing editor of the Republic and president of the Republic company, and president of the Quincy Herald company.
HOWARD O. HILTON

Was born upon a farm in Kansas in 1863, and was educated in the public schools and attended the University at Lincoln, for a time, but was not a graduate. His boyhood days were spent upon the farm, but early in life he engaged in newspaper work and has ever met with marked success.

His work in Rockford has been in connection with the Register, and was one of the founders of the Rockford Republic, of which he is the political editor.

His services have been sought after by the Republican party, in numerous campaigns, as a platform speaker and manager. He has twice represented his district on the state committees, in which capacity he did excellent work. He was state canal commissioner under Governor John R. Tanner, and is now Congressman Feller's private secretary.

Mr. Hilton, at one time, held a responsible position in a bank, but has never asked election to a political office.

He is married and has two daughters.

J. E. WARFIELD,

Business Manager of the Daily Republic, has been in the newspaper business in Rockford during the past twenty years. His first engagement was with the Register for a period of five years, and then for the same length of time with the Morning Star.

In 1896, in company with C. L. Miller and H. M. Johnson, he purchased the old Republican. The name of the paper was changed to the Daily Republic, of which he is now business manager.

Mr. Warfield has been a resident of Rockford since 1883. He was born at Mt. Carroll, Ill. He married Miss Alma C. Bisco of Milton, Wisconsin, and has three daughters.

EDGAR E. BARTLETT,

Publisher of the Register-Gazette, came to Rockford January 1st, 1891, and consolidated the old Register and Gazette into what has since been known as the Register-Gazette. Mr. Bartlett was for twelve years, previous to this, advertising and business manager of the Kalamazoo Gazette, one of the strong papers of Interior Michigan, and since coming to Rockford has made the Register-Gazette a potent factor in the newspaper field of the city. During this time the newspaper plant, over the business end of which he has presided, has been vastly improved by the addition of the telegraph, Associated Press news service, Mergenthaler Linotype casting machines and a fast press, all of which have combined to make the Register-Gazette a marked success.

HON. J. STANLEY BROWNE,

Editor-in-chief of the Rockford Morning Star, was born in Albany, N. Y., in 1855, and was educated to the public schools of that city. His parents were people of culture and refinement, and were numbered among the well-to-do citizens of New York State, where they lived and died.

Before coming to Illinois Mr. Browne was employed on the Albany Argus, where he developed acute political talent, and stumped the state in the interests of Tilden for president in the campaign of 1876. Later, he was twice elected on the Democratic ticket to the New York legislature from Otsego county. He also served as chairman of the Board of Supervisors of his county, and was secretary for a period of five years to Lieutenant-Governor Dorschman during the time Tilden was governor.

Mr. Browne came to Rockford in 1887 and became the editor and publisher of the Rockford Journal, which was merged into The Star March 20, 1888, of which Mr. Browne became managing editor, which position he has since held with marked ability.

Politically, Mr. Browne has been a life-long Democrat, and is the leader and teacher of pure democracy of the Cleveland school in Northern Illinois.

Mr. Browne is a forceful and elegant writer, and his diction is rarely equaled. His eloquence has brought his services into great demand in political campaigns and social functions where he is always at ease.

The wide circulation of the Morning Star is sufficient evidence of his ability as an editor, and is doubtless the finest encomium the paper can receive.

Mr. Browne was married to Miss Evalyn Tallmage of Otsego county, N. Y., who is a lady of culture and fine education, and is a leader in Rockford's social circles. Her ancestry were among the true patriots of the country, her father, being a soldier in the Civil War and her grandfather in the War of the Revolution.

The family residence is at No. 917 North Church street.

ROSCOE S. CHAPMAN,

Business Manager of the Rockford Morning Star, was born in Rutland, Illinois, January 6, 1868, and was educated in the public schools.

From Rutland he removed to Lacon, Illinois, and came to Rockford October 11, 1886, and was employed by Warren Woodruff in the hardware trade.

On January 1, 1887, he relinquished this business, and became identified with the Rockford Gazette. His work on this paper was for a short time only, as on January 1, 1888, he went to the Rockford Journal, which was merged into the Rockford Morning Star, March 20, 1888.

Mr. Chapman is one of the original stockholders of the Rockford Star Printing Co., and solicited the first subscribers on the daily list.
The Rockford Morning Star is the only morning paper published in the city, and ranks with the best inland dailies of this country.

He was married in Rockford, June 4, 1890, to Miss Mae Bills, of Garden, Equalle, Ill., and moved to Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he was identified with the sales department of several manufacturing concerns during the years he lived there. Prior to his residence in the Wolverine state he was employed in two department stores in Chicago. It was in those environs he acquired the liking for advertising work which eventuated into his present occupation.

He is a director and one of the principal stockholders in the Rockford Star Printing Co., the corporation publishing The Morning Star.

He is also a director of the Rockford Public Library.

Mr. Riley was born in Henry, Illinois. In June, 1891, in Denver, Colorado, he was married to Miss Lenore Hooker, to whom was given a son, John Stewart-Riley, who will be five years old February 4, 1904.

ROCKFORD ILLUSTRATING CO.

The Rockford Illustrating Company was organized in 1893 and is the successor to the Rockford Engraving Company, which was organized in the seventies.

The company has occupied its present location during the last five years. Its place of business has been recently rearranged and refitted, and is now one of the most complete institutions of the kind in the city.

The company designs, engravels, and electrotypes first class work on short notice. It enjoys the patronage of the furniture factories of this city and executes many foreign orders.

The business of the company is under the management of E. Knutson, and is in a highly prosperous condition.

THE THEO. W. CLARK COMPANY.

Was organized and incorporated, December 2, 1897, and capitalized at $20,000. Its place of business is at 124 West State Street, and is equipped with a complete outfit of the latest appliances for doing the finest work in all kinds of job printing. High grade black and color printing, engraving, embossing and binding, for all purposes, is executed on short notice by this company.

Its president is Dr. Henry Richings and its business manager and secretary is Theo. W. Clark.

All kinds of business and society stationery are kept in stock and its patrons are supplied at very low rates, consistent with good quality. A large number of workmen is employed and the business is constantly growing with unbounded success.